BIG CONFLAGRATION.

THE MACHINE SHOPS AGAIN.

An Ante-Fourth of July Celebration, But not a dolly one.

On Tuesday evening, about nine o'clock, an alarm of fire was given by the machine shop's whistle, previous to which a blaze was already distinguished from the direction of the shops.

The fire engine and the hook and ladder company were promptly on the ground (not, however, before

THE MACHINE SHOP WAS A SHEET OF FLAME, which all efforts failed to subdue.—Their attention was therefore directed to saving the carpenter shop, adjoining the machine shop, and which was connected with it by a roofed in shaft connecting the machinery of the two buildings. This was chopped away by some brave fellow while a stream of water was kept playing upon the flames by the hooks, hilgalls, who climbed the roof and scaled the ridge pole with a celerity demanded by the necessities of the case.

THE BLACKSMITH SHOP

Soon caught and resisted all efforts to save it.

The wind being from the east and north carried a shower of sparks and billows of smoke directly upon the houses on the opposite side of the street, belonging to Messrs. Reinbrickel, Eaton and Moore, and strenuous efforts were put forth to save them from destruction. All the furniture was removed, we understand, with considerable damage to it. At one time it seemed as if Mr. Eaton's house at least must go, but by the gallant efforts of the men upon the roof, who worked amidst a terrible shower of sparks and flaming shingles, it was saved, together with the carpenter shop next to it, which had begun to blaze.

The rolling stock, with the exception of two engines which were in for repairs, was removed.

The fire originated in the boiler room, just how is not known; it is supposed from sparks from the engine igniting a pile of shavings.

The loss, we understand from Mr. Holdrege, will consist of two buildings, the Machine Shops proper, and the blacksmith shop, together with the damage to the machinery, and to the engines, no estimate of the amount of which has yet been made. They were all insured.

Of course at nearly a period it is impossible to do more than speculate upon the probabilities of re-building, &c. Mr. Holdrege and Mr. Taylor are in Burlington this afternoon, where some plan will probably be decided upon.—Some temporary arrangements for work will be made in the carpenter shop.

This is the third time the machine shops have caught fire, and the old saying of "three times and out" nearly proved true in this case; at least two buildings are pretty well out.

It is to be hoped the company will decide upon safer buildings and more grounds to see commodious than for the present place seems a perfect fire trap.
