Teachers' Institute.
The Teachers' Institute here is starting with every appearance of success.

Both as to numbers in attendance, and interest. At present writing seven have entered the first grade class, and nineteen the second grade class.

The following are the names enrolled: GENTLEMEN: G. A. Ashmun, D. A. Campbell, Geo. Mitchell, W. C. Showalter, R. M. Logan, Mathias Searl, T. B. Clark, W. H. Althouse, Buephalus Work.

LADIES: Mrs. R. S. Bowen, Anna P. Scott, Dottie Cook, Mrs. Flora B. Ashman, Ella Kennedy, R. A. Bird, Joanna J. Young, Olive Gass, Louisa Shroyock, Melora A. Smith, Lizzie Horning, Aggie Sampson, Lilla Tucker, Dora O. Searl, Florence Richardson.

So far, the weather has been unfavorable and many could not get in from the country. Some 40 or 50 will be in attendance by the close of the week.

Lectures on important subjects will be given by parties from abroad.

We are glad to see such an interest taken by both teachers and citizens, and predict great benefit to all attending.

Roll of Honor.
The following scholars were perfect in attendance and deportment, in District No. 45, during the month ending July 18th, 1879: Ella A. Powell, May McGee, Gertrude McGee, Martha McNeill, Hattie McNeill, Powell Ranth. The following scholar was perfect in attendance during the term: May McGee.

MEDORA A. SMITH, Teacher.

Correction.
A mistake was made by the secretary of the S. S. Association, in the report of the S. S. convention, printed last week; the name of the treasurer, F. V. Scott, was written "F. H." "G. H." & "T. W." Scott. Only one Scott was present during the convention.

Great Scot-land! We thought the family was increasing rapidly.

New Goods.
J. S. Duke has on the road a new and complete line of goods, consisting of Iron, Nails, Steel, Axes, Springs, Wagon and Carriage Steel, Horse Shoes and nails, in unlimited quantities; which will be sold at bed rock prices. Don't fail to examine before purchasing elsewhere.

Wanted.
A good girl to do cooking and house work at the Grand Central Hotel, at South Bend, Neb., immediately.

H. A. KIRKE & Co.

All parties missing their "Ads" in this issue, will find them next week with a good deal of notice as an apology.

Really, now if we only knew of some office the "Deacon" wanted, had, we would nominate him at once. The only trouble with these newspaper nominations is, they don't elect. Like the "trial by newspaper" which may convict, but cannot enforce sentence, always.

We'll wager that Plattsmouth is doing more building than any town in the state. New houses on every side, the buildings at the bridge site, and new additions everywhere. Next we must have some new business houses on Main St. and then who will dare call Plattsmouth a dilapidated city.

Captain Welland of the Government River Survey, with his boat and barges have visited us this week. We hope his opinion of the Mo. River may induce the Great Father at Washington to modify the canal so that his Nebraska Children can get some use of the old thing besides duck shooting.

"Randall's Musical Tablets" which he has for sale and the use of which enables the performer to play accompaniments and chords, music with ease. We can hardly give an explanation of their working in these columns, but recommend our music loving readers to give them an examination and trial. The price is one dollar, and the advantage gained said to be worth ten times that.

Mr. Eli Plummer has removed his Lures and Penates from his residence in Plattsmouth and left us with his trunks, painters and paper hangers; yet editor hangs out wherever he gets a chance, and prays for deliverance from this mess, and he'll never do so any more.

Thoughts Suggested during the Silent, Waiting Moments, at the Memorial Service, Monday Eve., at the M. Church, in Memory of S. S. Hinkle, July 14, 1879.

A deep silence pervaded the entire assembly. A solemn hush bade 'em the beating heart be still.

We thought how fitting this silence—this holy hush. Truly, if "words are silver, silence is golden," in a moment like this; for words cannot heal the wounded soul, nor other hearts bear its pangs. All crushed beneath the blow, it must suffer on till the great healer faces them. In vain we tried to fancy the genial, happy, courageous one, occupying his wonted place among us, when, as an electric flash, came to us the words that Mary heard at the sepulchre. "Why seek ye the living among the dead. He is not here, but is risen."

Like a mighty warrior he has fought a good fight, finished his course, kept the faith. Henceforth there is for him a crown of righteousness.

Time is the battle-field for eternal life. Who are the victors, that may emulate them? Is it Baron Rothschild, with his deed to Palestine, and millions of gold uncounted? Did Vanderbilt's money or Caesar's fame open to them the gates of pearl? We have the answer: "Inasmuch as you did it unto the least of one of these, my little ones, ye did it unto me. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Who then would not rather have the record of a life given for the good of others than that trying hour than all the gold of Ophir. "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, yea, and their works do follow them."

"I gave my life for thee." "What hast thou done for me?" writes the poet. Every age has had its willing sacrificial offerings for truth and righteousness, (in our day we count them by the thousands) that the enslaved might go free. In this conflict with the enemy of mankind, "strong drink," men are falling on the right and on the left. We bid memory stay the vision, when it opens to the view our dead by the traffic in human souls, and think of Hewlet, who died on the rostrum battling the evil, and a Gough, who must rest or lose the soldier forever. Livingstone counted his life nothing if he might bring a Waila to the Christ height. An eminent divine said, "wake me at the expiration of two hours, that I may resume work," and comparatively as soon did his life work cease. This it was our dear departed brother. The over-reaching battle that life current demanded under the intense interest and anxiety of the hour, that victory might perch upon the temperance banner, and the record was made up: "One more sacrifice."

Catholic Festival.
Notwithstanding the intense heat of Tuesday there was a fair attendance at the Festival at Fitzgerald's Hall in the evening, and the merry dance had its usual number of devotees. Wednesday evening was much cooler and gave better opportunity for enjoyment. The voting for a chair for the most popular gentleman occasioned some excitement, the contestants being G. S. Smith, G. H. Thompson and P. McCallan, the latter finally obtaining 181 votes and the chair. The most popular lady proved to be Mrs. Hart, who consequently rejoices in a cake basket.

The fair was a success financially, although we did not learn to what extent.

C. B. Parker of the firm of C. B. Parker & Co., the great marble men of Lincoln is in town. By the way he has a very handsome specimen of his work on exhibition in front of the post office, which he and the HERALD have been trying to get some one to spit tobacco juice on (to show that it will not stain) for two days. Singular enough no one would consent to desecrate the urn. A small boy yesterday was induced to give it one good squirt, and Parker says, which immediately ruined it, leaving the marble free of stain and polished as ever.

A number of boys have been in the habit of swimming along the railroad track near the bayou. They also gobbled car doors to float on; when they got out into the stream and the current became too strong they abandoned the doors and let them float to St. Louis. For both these offences Marshall Murphy had a number of them arrested yesterday. After a good lecture by the Mayor, and a suggestion that stealing from a rail road Co. is as much theft as from an individual, they were dismissed for this time. It should be a caution for the future.

Honored and Blessed.
When a board of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining sugar with known valuable remedies, the most wonderful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were very skeptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, were honored and blessed by all as benefactors.
