Ayer's Hair Vigor, FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS

NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR. It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or Otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality und strength, and renders it pliable.

presents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair, less, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

The Fate of the Fast Young Man-

It's enrious, isn't it, Billy, The changes a twelve menths may bring; Last year I was at Saratoga, As happy and rich as a king. I was raking in pools on the races, And feeing the waiters with "Tens" And sipping mint Juleps by twilight And to-day I am here in the "Pen !" "What led me to do it?" What always Leads men to destruction and crime? The prodigal son, whom you've read of, Has altered somewhat in his time, He spends his substance as freely, As the biblical fellow of old, But when it is gone he fancies; The husks will turn into gold. Champagne, a box at the opera,

High steps while fortu se is flush, The passionate kisses of women, Whose cheeks have forgotten to blush. The old, o'd story, Billy, Of pleasures that end in tears, The froth that feams for an hour, The dregs that are tasted for years. Last night as I sat here and pondered, On the ends of any evil ways, There are se like a phantom before me, The visions of my boyhood days. I thought of my old home, Billy, Of the school house that stood on the hill,

Of the brook that flowed through the meadow,-

I can c'en hear its music still. Again I thought of my mother, Of the mother who taught me to pray, Whose love was a precious treasure, That I becdlessly cast away. I saw again in my vistons, The fresh-lipped, careless boy, To whom the future was boundless, And the world but a mighty toy. Of my rained and wasted Life, And the pungs of remove were bliter,

It takes some comage, hilly, When the yearning ambitions of manhood Are blusted at treenty eight. - Written in the State's Pri on, Jollet, III.

A COLORADO EXPERIENCE.

One tempest-tossed night, weatherbound at a small hotel on the stage-route from Santa Fe, we met a fellow-traveler in whom we became greatly interested. Among others, my companion, a finelybuilt, atmetic tellow, parrated an experience of the previous season, which, he said, "made every hair stand on tiptoe."
