

National Republican Ticket!

For President, JAMES A. GARFIELD, Of Ohio. For Vice-President, CHESTER A. ARTHUR, Of New York.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

G. W. COLLINS, of Pawnee. E. K. VALENTINE, of Cuming County. For Contingent Electors, T. J. MAJORS, of Nemaha County, For Governor, ALBENUS HANCE, of Polk County.

STATE TICKET.

For Congress, E. K. VALENTINE, of Cuming County. For Contingent Electors, T. J. MAJORS, of Nemaha County. For Governor, ALBENUS HANCE, of Polk County.

SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

For Attorney, Second District, J. C. WATSON, of Otse County.

REPRESENTATIVE DISTRICT TICKET.

For Representative in the 20th District, JOSEPH H. MCKINNON, of Cass Co.

COUNTY TICKET.

State Senator, ORLANDO TEFFT, of Avera Precinct. House of Representatives, R. B. WINDHAM, of Plattsmouth.

State Platform of the Republican Party.

1. The Republicans of Nebraska most heartily endorse the profession of principles formulated by the national republican convention at Chicago, and pledge their unswerving support to the candidates there nominated.

SEE S. C. Mayer's great ad. on our first page this week.

REPUBLICANS gained in all the town elections of Connecticut, on Tuesday.

WHEN the very Stones cry out it is time for very Republican stands by a pure ballot box.

THE Hastings Journal is for Mr. Paddock's re-election, in preference to any new and comparatively untried men.

SEVENTY democratic congressmen are on record demanding payment for Rebel claims, Hancock's letter to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE fall and other matters crowd our space this week. Next week we shall have something to say for Mr. McKinnon our float candidate.

WE've heard of a mad-stone and a snake-stone, and the "Blarney Stone," but we'll put Gov. Stone against all the other stones we know and he'll win the hat.

THERE is republican speaking at Ramey's school house to-night—Tefft and Windham. Also at Fairland school house to-morrow night, by same speakers.

THE reports from our Central Committee in the County are most encouraging, for the party. We must not be over sanguine though and neglect any necessary work.

THE members of the State Board of Agriculture presented Ex-Gov. Robt. W. Furnas with a handsome ebony cane, as a token of their appreciation of his twenty-one consecutive years of service as a member of the board.

REPUBLICANS, stick to your men; throw aside personal animosities, and help elect our own ticket—Don't sacrifice your own friends for the sake of revenge on some particular person; we must win and it may need every vote.—Sheridan Post.

THE above is so true, sounds so good, and is so applicable to home affairs that we must copy it.

DON't forget the meeting at Louisville Monday night. Hon. Geo. Collins candidate for presidential elector, Hon. T. J. Majors candidate for Contingent Congressmen and T. P. Kendall, Esq.; will address the meeting.

THE Louisville band will be out, the Plattsmouth Guards, and lots of other people.

THE Republicans of Greenwood had a very pleasant little meeting Saturday evening and organized a big G. A. Club. C. B. Hackney, President; James Crabtree, Sec'y; M. D. Abbott, Vice-President; and D. S. Foster, Treasurer.

THE Ashland District Fair was a great success. 1,500 people were present, the weather was fine and everything passed off pleasantly, except the accident to a boy on one of the race horses the last day. Quite a number of Cass Co. people were there and took their share of premiums. Mr. Shedd and the other officers deserve a good deal of credit for this enterprise and we hope the district fair can be kept up in the future. Lack of space alone prevents our saying more.

NEBRASKA School of Medicine. A Nebraska School of Medicine has been organized and located at Omaha which will open on the 18th inst., and continue twenty weeks. Dr. R. R. Livingston is president and lecturer on principles and practice of surgery and Dr. Mercer, Mansfield, Ayers, Denise, Leisinger, Moore and Gibbs, occupy the various other chairs.

THE democrats at Hastings, last week, nominated Dr. R. R. Livingston, of this place, for congress, Thos. W. Tipton, of Nemaha, for Governor, and with the exception of Dr. Bear and Frank Ponda, almost unknown men for the other offices. Tipton and Livingston were republicans formerly. It is understood Livingston declines, and he was the ablest and best known of the lot. Tipton has been the laughing stock of democrats and republicans for years. Mere consistency?

JOHN I. REDDICK writes for the democracy to-night. For fear they may forget the gentleman's pedigree, we publish it as a reference, and to give force to the wonderful announcements of republican shortcomings he will make:

Not long since he was a Territorial Judge, appointed by a republican administration and serving under a republican President. Just why he left there we won't talk now.

Later he went to Chicago, and hurried for Grant, and still later attended a Garfield and Arthur club meeting in Omaha and endorsed the republican nominees in the strongest manner.

After Hancock was nominated he suddenly came out on the other side and as suddenly discovered that the party was all corrupt. Now which party are we to believe?

Steadfastness a Synonym of Success. Over three years ago Rev. Benjamin F. Diefenbacher preached his first sermon in Louisville. After a few months a small body of believers were gathered and organized as the First Congregational Church of Louisville.

A neat and commodious church building has been erected and is free from debt.

This church justly prides itself in the enjoyment of the longest continued pastorate, and the ownership of the first and only church edifice in the town.

It is written "The laborer is worthy of his hire," and rejoicing in the past, and content with the present, the church at a meeting on Monday last by unanimous vote, extended to their pastor invitation to serve them another year.

CONGREGATIONALIST.

The Meeting.

One of the largest attended, and most enthusiastic meetings yet held by the republicans took place here on Tuesday.

Ex-Gov. Stone, literally one of the old war-horses of republicanism, talked for two hours, and gave us the soundest, and most logical review of the good deeds of the republican party, since in power, we have yet had. He also delivered the most scathing and merited rebuke to democratic fraud, villainy and ill-doing often heard.

Without slang, in bright but burning words he held their record up to view in such a manner that no thinking, reading man can consistently vote for Hancock and English after hearing this true history of the party that nominates and backs these candidates.

On Tuesday this Congressman appeared and spoke a few moments. Having been delayed by the train, and the audience already detained long enough, Mr. Valentine thought best to make his speech short, but every word was replete with good sense and honest thought.

While the Glee Club were singing Dr. Livingston came on the stage, shook hands with Valentine and Gov. Stone, and remained there while the Club and audience sang "Rally 'Round the Flag." It was a remarkable group.

Three old soldiers once more brought together for a moment throwing aside all differences of feeling, all rivalry, standing side by side for the glory and honor of the old flag, the old Nation and honest, true citizenship.

The Glee Club sang gloriously, and the Guards locked and acted like real soldiers, as they would all be, did the occasion again demand.

It was a glorious meeting, a soul stirring meeting, and every republican went home rejoicing in his party, its record and its men; now, and evermore the true heroes and saviors of the country.

Dirty Work in the Bark. The democrats here, evidently by order from Mark Barham at head quarters, have posted all over the town the porches, fences and walks of republicans a silly little poster with $29 printed on it. This is the latest, silliest dodge that a bankrupt and hard up party are resorting to all over the country.

Ladies and gentlemen, do you believe this can be truthfully said in the name of the republicans of this Union to-day, which the Democratic party control absolutely?

The Republican party is a party of progress and of liberty toward its opponents in the field and in the factory, and it encourages general education of the poor as well as the rich.

The Republican party is a party of progress and of liberty toward its opponents in the field and in the factory, and it encourages general education of the poor as well as the rich.

Whatever Garfield may have done or undone he never called honest American, Irish-born soldiers "flannel mouthed sons-of-a-bitch," and "red-mouthed sons-of-a-bitch," as Hancock is charged with doing.

When the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another, it favors repudiation of its obligations, and the honest payment of its debts in another (where public opinion would not tolerate any other view).

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

A GREAT Republican Meeting.

held at Warren, Ohio, on the 28th of Sept. Gen. Grant presided and Senator Conkling made the speech of the occasion. Gen. Grant's opening remarks were so good, containing such an epitome of the true situation that we publish them as the shortest, truest statement of a Republican's faith made yet.

Ladies and gentlemen: I hope we may be able to have quiet and order here. It is not important, so far as anything that will have to do with you is concerned, because I shall not be able to make many of you hear; but after we come a speaker whom I know you will all be glad to hear, and you can do so in keeping quiet and orderly.

In view of the known character and ability of a speaker who is to address you to-day, and his public career and association with the leading statesmen of the country for the past twenty years, it would not be becoming in me to detain you with many remarks of my own.

On Tuesday this Congressman appeared and spoke a few moments. Having been delayed by the train, and the audience already detained long enough, Mr. Valentine thought best to make his speech short, but every word was replete with good sense and honest thought.

While the Glee Club were singing Dr. Livingston came on the stage, shook hands with Valentine and Gov. Stone, and remained there while the Club and audience sang "Rally 'Round the Flag." It was a remarkable group.

Three old soldiers once more brought together for a moment throwing aside all differences of feeling, all rivalry, standing side by side for the glory and honor of the old flag, the old Nation and honest, true citizenship.

The Glee Club sang gloriously, and the Guards locked and acted like real soldiers, as they would all be, did the occasion again demand.

It was a glorious meeting, a soul stirring meeting, and every republican went home rejoicing in his party, its record and its men; now, and evermore the true heroes and saviors of the country.

Dirty Work in the Bark. The democrats here, evidently by order from Mark Barham at head quarters, have posted all over the town the porches, fences and walks of republicans a silly little poster with $29 printed on it. This is the latest, silliest dodge that a bankrupt and hard up party are resorting to all over the country.

Ladies and gentlemen, do you believe this can be truthfully said in the name of the republicans of this Union to-day, which the Democratic party control absolutely?

The Republican party is a party of progress and of liberty toward its opponents in the field and in the factory, and it encourages general education of the poor as well as the rich.

The Republican party is a party of progress and of liberty toward its opponents in the field and in the factory, and it encourages general education of the poor as well as the rich.

Whatever Garfield may have done or undone he never called honest American, Irish-born soldiers "flannel mouthed sons-of-a-bitch," and "red-mouthed sons-of-a-bitch," as Hancock is charged with doing.

When the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another, it favors repudiation of its obligations, and the honest payment of its debts in another (where public opinion would not tolerate any other view).

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

voice and my feelings could reach the 1,600,000 voters of my race in the United States there would not be a free trade majority in the congress of the United States."

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Voyage Across the Atlantic.

STALIAN NEAR NEWBETH, ENGLAND, Sept. 10, 1880. ED. HERALD:—I am now about to fulfill my promise, of giving you a brief account of the voyage across the briny deep.

On August A. D. 1880, I, with about 175 fellow passengers, of all ages and both sexes, embarked at New York, on the ocean ship "Scythia" of the Cunard Line, bound for the Old World.

The "Scythia" is a screw steamer four hundred and fifty-two feet long, fifty-two feet wide, and draws twenty-four feet of water, so it can be easily understood that a few trips around this ship would give a person an appetite for meals. I was invited by one of the firemen to the ship that has average daily consumption of coal was seventy-five tons.

At 8 o'clock the gong sounded "all aboard" the gangway was withdrawn and the passengers were ordered to the deck. The steam was applied to the ponderous machinery and we start on our journey, with prop pointed to the far East.

We passed Sandy Hook, Long Island and other places of interest near New York. Just as we were opposite New York island a great occurrence which will be remembered by the passengers and crew of our ship for many years.

We had noticed ahead of us a small steam pleasure yacht such as ply between New York and Sandy Hook and other places, we saw a boat in the distance and found the decks crowded with passengers.

The Republican party assures protection to life, property, public credit, and the payment of the debts of the government, state, county, or municipality.

The Democratic party does not promise this.

If it does, it has broken its promise to the extent of the hills, and as many Northern Democrats can testify to their sorrow.

I am a Republican as between existing parties, and I feel that I ought to be in the field and farm, and of manufactures, and it encourages general education of the poor as well as the rich.

The Republican party is a party of progress and of liberty toward its opponents in the field and in the factory, and it encourages general education of the poor as well as the rich.

The Republican party is a party of progress and of liberty toward its opponents in the field and in the factory, and it encourages general education of the poor as well as the rich.

Whatever Garfield may have done or undone he never called honest American, Irish-born soldiers "flannel mouthed sons-of-a-bitch," and "red-mouthed sons-of-a-bitch," as Hancock is charged with doing.

When the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another, it favors repudiation of its obligations, and the honest payment of its debts in another (where public opinion would not tolerate any other view).

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

It favors the taking of money in one place and good money in another, in favor of the "pooling of all issues" not favored by the republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, in favor of an improvement in one section and against this in another.

ed by the Custom House officers, we were permitted to take our departure, and so we arrived safely in the great city of Liverpool.

EDWIN JEARV.

From Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 4, '80. DEAR HERALD:—Our political horizon is less studded with greenbackers than in former campaigns. This is perhaps accounted for by the numerous republican speakers in this vicinity. The occasional rains this fall have been detrimental to the hay makers considerable, and we fear a shortage of that crop.

Corn is coming in very moderately. C. W. King has a fine large stock of lumber on hand, from which the farmers are wisely selecting for the sheltering of their stock and crops. Shipping has been remarkably light so far.

Quite a number of our farmers are feeding cattle this winter, which we think is a very profitable way of disposing of a very unprofitable crop of corn. During the winter there were 24 cars of cattle shipped in to be fed. Merchandising has been unusually brisk this fall.

Our merchants are carrying large and well selected stocks, and are crowded with customers continually. The following statistics we get through the kindness of our friend Toman, and shows the receipts at this station during the month of September only:

Lumber 12 car loads, coal 2 car loads, cattle 24 car loads, merchandise 13 car loads, wagons 1 car load, agricultural implements 2 car loads.

Of the above Weeping Water received little over one third. We need a first class hardware store and tin shop here very much. More news.

Our Temperance Column.

EDITED BY THE WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

"For God, and Home, and Native Land."

The Whisky Sellers' Contentions. The whisky sellers of this state held a convention in this city last week, and were present in quite large numbers.

The main purpose was to induce concerted political action, in order to secure the repeal of what little legislation the people have been able to obtain for the protection of themselves, and to prevent the ruin of their children at the hands of these men.

It will be observed that these whisky keepers are at all times ready to forego their partisanship in order to promote the interest of whisky selling. Temperance men and churches, men or Harrison was introduced to this body of poverty and crime makers, and made himself right at home by uttering the following sentiments:

"He said that a man could eat so much as to make a gallon of himself and become a nuisance to his neighbors. He might drink so much whisky as to make himself a bad husband, an unkind father, and an undesirable neighbor."

Other things equally absurd followed. Did Mayor Harrison ever know a man to eat enough or drink water enough to cause him to rush out of a city of half a million inhabitants, as has been done in this city more than once? Or to go home and roast his child on a stove, as was done by a drunken man in this state not long ago? Or to become a pauper, as is as a frequent event? We are hardly able to determine whether our Mayor, in these remarks, was sarcastic or grossly ignorant.

He ventured on sarcasm with men whose favor he was endeavoring to secure, and for whose votes he was preparing. But that the chief Magistrate of a city of half a million inhabitants should be guilty of the unbecomingly manifest in the utterance of such sentiments, is a disgrace to his constituency, and a disgrace to the protection of their persons from the business of out-throat and banditti. Have they not the same right to insist upon the protection of their property from the handiwork of the saloons, and from having their property taken away from them to pay the public expenses of the whisky business? Have they not a right to legal protection, or perhaps to the protection be all on the side of the destroyers?—Chicago Standard.

The Evening Journal in speaking of Edwards county in this state, notices another characteristic for which it is singular and distinguished from all the other counties. It says that the property owners have got into the very sensible and commendable habit of paying their taxes promptly.

The list of delinquent taxes for the past year, recently published by one of the local papers, consisted of only 111 lines, the printer's fee being only $1.40, all told." The cause of this thrift and promptness is the same as that of the other counties, and is creditable to Edwards county has not had a saloon or other place for selling liquor within its borders for over thirty years. Absolute prohibition prevails. I have not seen a prisoner to the penitentiary for thirty-two years. The Clerk states that the calendars of its courts are next thing to blanks, both on the civil and criminal dockets. The people are a moral, intelligent, religious, and above all things, a thrifty people, ready to meet promptly their public and private obligations. One that the people of all the counties would learn wisdom by such an example of the working of prohibition. It would reduce the criminality and the poverty of the state three-fourths, and save millions of our present grievous taxation.

The other day T. G. met an old friend who was formerly a prosperous young lumberman up North, but whose habits of drinking resulted as they often do, though he has since reformed and is trying to do better.

"How are you?" said T. G. "Pretty well, thank you, but I've just been to a doctor to have him look at my throat."

"What's the matter?" "Well, the doctor couldn't give any encouragement. At least he couldn't tell what I wanted him to find."

"What did you expect him to find?" "I asked him to look down my throat for the sawmill and farm that had gone down there."

"And did he see anything of it?" "No, but he advised me that