Our Temperance Column.

EDITED BY THE WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

"For God, and Home, and Native Land."

Introduction of Temperance Text-Books.

The more we enter upon the various phases of temperance work, the more thoroughly are we all convinced that formation is better than re-formation, and the more we are impressed that this cannot begin too early and that we must pre-empt every power against this fearful foe of drink.

The time has passed when we thought that children and youth were safe; that girlhood was impregnable; that this was a temptation incident only to young men. Our eyes are opened to the awful pitfalls spred for young boys; to the nets set for the feet of mere youth; to the fact that at a restaurant we see young girls quaffing beer—at public resorts they drink it; that families—father, mother, down to the prattling infant—all share the glass on the excursion or pleasure party. So are our efforts directed to educate every faculty, just as soon as the feet are set on the pathway of life against the terrible seductions of the vice of strong drink, mind and soul, brain and heart, must be fortified. To reach an immense class, the effort has been to place Temperance text-books in our schools; and in this, wonders have been accomplished. "Dr. Richardson's Temperance Lesson Book has been introduced into the schools of London, Leeds, Liverpool, Birmingham, Edinburgh, and many smaller places, and into the schools of New York and Rochester.

It would seem that there is much prospect for the success of Prohibitory amendment in Michigan, judging by the howls of the "M. L. D. P. A." (Michigan Liquor-Dealers' Protective Association). It is out with circulors calling upon all who have any interest in the trade, to see that no man receives nomination for any office who is not in every respect with them and their business.

September 21st was the day for the meeting of the saloon-keepers and liquor-dealers of Illinois in Convention at Chicago. The State W. C. T. U. appointed to observe the same day as a day of prayer. That, with Mary Queen of Scots, the saloon keepers fear the prayers of God's children, is evident from the blasphemous utterances in reference to these prayers, claiming that the "harmony and unanimity of the meeting" was due to the power invoked by the Christian women of Illinois, appealing for their families and their homes, for purity and christianity. That they fear women's work under God's guidence, is evident from the official expressions of the Convention "that they will prevent the election of men either too cowardly to resist the allurements of Temperance women, or too stupid to comprehend the vicious effects of sumptuary legislation." Also, calling upon "the saloon-keeper to organize themselves in every Senatorial district if possible, so that the politicians who now fear the "blue stockings and water saints may be brought to the point where they will fear the saloon-keepers. They must show the people they are in fact the supporters of true Temperance. We earnestly trust the people may be brought to the true fear of the saloon-keepers, and to learn the meaning of true temperance.

Winstead, Conn.

The citizens of Winstead are most thoroughly aroused in the temperance work, and are determined that the saloons about thirty in number, shall be closed; and while the real work falls on a few, many stand by with open purses, ready to aid in the warfare. Though the town has voted license for two years, the rum-sellers are very strong and defiant. Detectives have been employed, and last April one hundred cases were brought against them, at the Superior Court, and they were beaten. They paid between $2,000 and $3,000 fines, and promised to give up the business; ten have actually closed their doors, and the rest have violated their pledges.—Our Union.

Good Company Number Thirteen.

Good Company, Number Thirteen, ($3.00 a year, Springfield, Mass.,) begins a new volume and subscriptions are therefore due at once. The feature which many will welcome most, perhaps, is the opening installment of a new serial story by Ellen W. Olney. It is entitled Rose and the Doctor; and while it will as may be judged by the opening chapters by no means be without a love affair, the plot hinges but in part on that. The principal complete stories of the number are That Letter, by Edward Bellamy, author of A Nantucket Idyl; one by Horace E. Scudder; and Our New Editor by Miss Louise Stockton.

Maurice Thompson has a contribution, An Idyl of the Longbow, which besides having the full flavor of the woods and bow-shooting piques curiosity as to a certain eminent editor whose name is withheld.

The number abounds in sketches of travel and foreign lands. Henry R. Elliot, who was for considerable time a resident there, writes of Tokio, the immense Japanese capital. Mountain Folk tells of experiences in Switzerland housekeeping, with some account of the government. Days in the Island of Capri is by B. F. DeCosta.

E. S. Gilbert has a graphic word-picture of Niagara; there are some reminiscences of the author of Home, Sweet Home; Mary B. Ferry and Lucrece have poems; and among the shorter articles are included Boating on the English Thames, and The Whispering Ghost.

An Illustrated Weekly—16 Pages, suited to boys and girls of from six to sixteen years of age. Volume II commences November 2, 1880. Now is the time to subscribe. Within a year of its first appearance, Harper's Young People has secured a leading place among the periodicals designed for juvenile readers. Storming of the Bastile.

On the fourteenth of July, in the year 1789, the people of Paris rose in their might and took the Bastile. It was an ebullition of popular sentiment against the tyrants of the day, and the old prison had become odious on account of the political secrets which had been buried with living victims within its walls. On that day the true and glorious commencement of the French revolution took place—the prostration of the monarchy and the inauguration of the rule of the people. An incident of the storming of the Bastile occurs to us, as we record the above fact, which is, perhaps, not very generally known to English readers. It is a bit of the romance of history which will bear recording here, illustrating the saying that fact is stranger than fiction.

A girl of sixteen, and of remarkable beauty, Mlle. de Monsegney, daughter of the commandant of artillery of the Bastile, lodging in a neighboring quarter, learned by the regular discharge of the cannon that her father's life was in danger. He was her idol, and instinct drew her towards his side at once. She rushed through the crowd with dishevelled hair, calling her father's name, and asking only to be permitted to die with him! At first the crowd fell back and made way for so lovely a vision, and respected the filial affection that actuated the soldier's daughter; but suddenly a man of the people, drunk with fury and the carnage of the scene, shouted to his comrades: "Let the monster who is firing his cannon upon us cease, or let him behold his own daughter devoured by the flames before his eyes!" and while this leader held the defenceless child, a heap of straw and chips were hastily got together in the middle of the court yard. The terms were shouted to the artillery officer; but no reply coming to the ears of the mob, the match was applied, and Mlle. de Monsegney was rudely thrown upon the blazing pile! Aubin Bonnemere, a gallant young citizen, saved her at the risk of his own life, and she was restored to consciousness in a neighboring house. Her father had just before been killed by a pistol shot.

De Launay, governor of the Bastile, finding the fortress-prison attacked by the people and the regular soldiers combined, displayed a white handkerchief, surrendered and was brutally murdered. Lamartine speaks of him thus: "Such was the death of M. de Launay. The victim of honor, he only surrendered with his last breath the sword which his master had confided to him. The court, the army, the royalists and the people have odiously cast on him their improvidence, their cowardice and their blood. His fault was that of the court, of Marshal de Broglie and M. de Bezenval, who knew not how to succor him or relieve him of his duty." With De Launay's death ended the famous day of the fourteenth of July, the beginning of the French revolution, which republican France has now inaugurated as a national holiday. Truly, the pages of history teem with vivid pictures.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. Granger, Presiding Elder of the St. Alban's District.

ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan. 29th, 1880.

Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents: In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame, and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better; but when I put him on the road he got worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming. I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure, and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

Respectfully Yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. C. F. GOODMAN, Ag't Omaha, Neb.

BEST IS CHEAPEST! LEWIS' CONDENSED BAKING POWDER STRICTLY PURE!

We will give $1000.00 for any Alum or other adulteration found in this POWDER.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best chemists in the United States. It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world. It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed. It is COMMENDED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial. It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders. It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.

Good food makes good health; and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.

Lewis' Baking Powder always makes good food.

One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.

It makes bread whiter and richer.

More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.

The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.

Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.

This is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is PERFECTLY PURE.

It makes the BEST, lightest, and most nutritious BREAD, BISCUIT, CAKE, CRULLERS, BUCKWHEAT, INDIAN, AND FLANNEL CAKES.

A single trial will prove the superiority of this Powder.

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY G. T. LEWIS & MENZIES CO. PHILADELPHIA.

For sale by E. G. DOVEY & SON, GUTHMAN, WECKBACH [illegible] BAKER & CO., and dealers in general.
