The Ratification

Last night was a grand outpouring. It was glorious. The Guards paraded and Capt. Jennings was in his glory. The houses of all prominent citizens were illuminated; our own Band gave us music, and cheer after cheer rent the air, while the old cannon boomed her joy to think the campaign was over at last, and ended so happily for the cause of freedom, right and justice.

In the Hall Hon. D. H. Wheeler presided, and short ten-minute speeches were made by Messrs. Beeson, Brown, Capt. Shannon of Iowa, Strode, Sullivan, Chapman, Morrison, George S. Smith, MacMurphy and Bushnell, interspersed with witty remarks from the chairman, music by the Band, and spirited songs by the Glee Club. Regrets were mingled with rejoicings and when the boys looked at the old bar'l and the torches for the last time they al.. ost wished the campaign was not quite so near finished. The speeches were one and all appropriate and forcible; and this our last meeting in the great political campaign of 1880 will long be remembered by the young the old, and all who took part therein.

SULLIVAN'S MIRROR OF IRELAND.

Sullivan's Mirror of Ireland and Irish Comedy Company make their bow at Power's Opera House Friday and Saturday evenings next and Saturday Matinee. The company is one of the best that has ever appeared in this city. They are not a common band of strolling players, but are artists of merit. Mr. Dan Morris Sullivan is a host in himself; he keeps the audience in a roar of laughter whenever he appears upon the stage. Miss Josie Morris Sullivan is one of the brightest and most sparkling ladies. She is a second Lotta, and our music loving people should not fail to see her. Let there be a full house, and see the grand pictures of Ireland, besides one of the best entertainments that has ever been given in the city.

The County Fair.

Election being now over, it is time to say something about the County Fair more particularly than we possibly could at the time. The facts are that the County Society were very dilatory about getting the grounds in order, or moving the buildings at all from the old grounds, and had it not been for the officers of the Driving Park Association, we guess the buildings would have remained at the old place until to-day, and the fencing on the new grounds would be non est.

Be that as it may, after so long a time, and just so much fussing, the buildings were gotten over, and the day set for the Fair approached. Not a sign of work on behalf of the Fair seemed to be doing; and when the time originally set for holding the Fair came round, it was found that it was impossible to attempt it, both on account of the weather, the total lack of preparation, and the absence of Mr. Wheeler the President of the Association, without whose personal efforts it was felt no fair could be held. A postponment was made until Oct. 6th. Again no suitable interest was taken in the matter by our citizens, or farmers in the vicinity, and only a few days before the time set and on the arrival of Mr. Wheeler from Omaha were there any serious preparations for a County Fair.

Under such circumstances our fair was a wonder, a marvel, for there was really a better exhibit than usual and had there been larger buildings, many more displays would have been made. It is for the purpose of holding attendance [illegible] and cause there is some work needed on the grounds and buildings this fall that we allude to these matters now, believing that the people after the excitement of the fall may have a little leisure to do something for their material interests at home.

And because we intended to publish just as soon as we could possibly get the time and space, a review of the premiums awarded, and such other matters as might be interesting in connection with the annual exhibition, we refrained from saying anything about the matter, and now to get ready in time next year and make the Cass County Fair what the importance of the occasion demands.

The premiums awarded at this fair are as follows:

A Word to the Teachers.

Organization, as a means of mutual improvement and help, is of recognized value in all trades and professions. To none should it be of more importance than to the teacher. As the settled portions of our state become more stable and improved, it will each year become less excusable for the teacher to neglect this matter. He wishes to see his profession lifted higher in the popular estimation; more earnest and steady and less desultory and temporary work on the part of his fellow workers. Teacher should be better acquainted with each other than they are. Organization will aid in this. Then let the teachers of Cass County make the Association as successful as it can reasonably become. Once on a firm footing it will in a measure take care of itself.

CORRESPONDENCE.

From Cedar Creek.

MR. EDITOR:—On reading the HERALD of the 21st of Oct., I noticed a letter headed Hold Hengland, Liverpool and other points. I, as an English woman feel it my duty to comment a little on the unfairness of said letter, (that is) if you will allow me a small space in your estimable paper for I feel convinced that any stranger reading the said letter will without a doubt conclude that Liverpool the beautiful sea port city I know it to be, must be the vilest and most disreputable place on the face of the globe, but I am glad to say it is not so. The police authorities which number somewhere about 1500 men will not allow vice and immorality to run rampant, it is kept down as much as possible, there is no swearing or foul language allowed in the streets, and drunken people if annoying or causing any disturbance in the street are locked up. I resided in Liverpool 10 years prior to my coming to America and can say I never met with a better class of people in every sense of the word. Had he gone through Liverpool in the day time he would have seen a very different class of people, if he would go through some of the large cities in America at the same hours of the night I have no doubt he would see similar sights. He might have seen some few drunken women in Liverpool I am sorry to say, some of which are not worthy of the name woman, and there are some of them who deserve our deepest sympathy, but where there is one English woman in such a crowd there are 99 foreigners, he says he saw more drunkenness in his 4 hours promenade than he did here in 8½ years, that is another proof that he has not seen much of city life. I would advise him to become a night missionary in Liverpool so that such could Christianize and Civilize such characters, by so doing he would certainly merit the thanks of many who have been led astray by the use of intoxicating liquors, it is to be hoped that he was not so faultfinding when he arrives at his parents residence.

How Easy It is to Keep House Nowadays.

A couple may set up for themselves with very few utensils, scarcely any provisions, and next to no knowledge of cookery. A gas or oil stove takes the place of a costly and cumbrous cooking range. Coffee is not only parched but ground. Spices and pepper come all prepared for use. Every kind of bread, cake and pastry can be purchased at a sell ht advance on the cost of the material the contain. If one relishes the aspect of making them, self-raising flour may be had at any grocery. For a few shillings all ready for the table, can be purchased, dear as cheaply as that which nurse is prepared. Not only lobsters and lobsters, but salmon may be bought cooked and ready to be served at a price little above what the crude article cost; and cooked corned beef, tongue, pigs' feet and many more long bethought them of. Of canned national soups, there are [illegible] vegetables; mince meat, already to hand for [illegible] and [illegible] nerves in [illegible] fowls of all descriptions. Soda crackers keep moist prepared [illegible] Boston brown beans, already [illegible] and a great run [illegible] pea soup. Englishmen [illegible] nothing remains upon the [illegible] Less sandwiches witnessed the event of [illegible] as an article of commerce. Cans of cooked green corn, beans, peas, potatoes, curried rice and many [illegible] stand on the shelves of every corner grocery. It is no longer necessary to have cooks, or to be a cook, in order to keep house. Hotels [illegible] scarcely any cooking utensils to provide a warm meal. A can opener, a frying p n and a coffee pot are the principal requisites. Even the last is not absolutely necessary, since a mixture of prepared coffee, sugar and cream can readily be obtained. It is even practical, now, for the novice to dispense with a cook book, as the label on every can tells how to treat the contents.

Moorish Jack Shepherds.

Honesty is not to be met with in Morocco. Almost the people there is an avowed profession; and they take rank according to their dexterity in it. They go to work like an organized gang of London burglars on circuses in town, and [illegible] they are in the act of lying in wait in the town to attack the Jews, who are compelled by law to go unarmed, and who are generally worth plundering. Like mounted bailiffs they go great distances on horseback to make distraint on unsuspecting duars. They will dismount, and, like some of the low-caste Hindoos, strip to the skin, soap themselves all over and sup within the precincts, for the dogs will not bark at a naked man. They skate upon the ground like snakes, covered with grass, with straw, with leaves, dressed in sheepskins, disguised as beggars, as madmen, as saints, as soldiers. They will risk their lives for a chicken, and go ten miles for a copper. They will even steal a bag of money from under the head of a sleeping man. They do a flourishing business, and thrive

A Word to Mothers.

Mothers should remember that a most important duty at this season is to look after the health of their families and cleanse the malaria and impurities from their systems. There is nothing that will tone up the stomach and liver, regulate the bowels and purify the blood so perfectly as Parker's Ginger Tonic, advertised in our columns. The wonderful cures of long standing cases of rheumatism, neuralgia and malarial disorders is the reason why this pure and excellent family medicine is so generally esteemed.—Post. 30t4

Very Droll to Think of.

If not above being taught by a man, see Dobbins's Electric soap next wash day. Used without any wash boiler or rubbing board, and used differently from any other soap ever made. It seems very droll to think of a quiet, orderly two hours' light work on wash day, with no heat and no steam, or smell of the washing through the house, instead of a long day's hard work; but hundreds of thousands of women from Nova Scotia to Texas have proved for themselves that this is done by using Dobbins's Electric Soap. Don't buy it, however, if you set it yourself to boil it according to directions, that are as simple as to seem almost ridiculous, and so easy that a girl of twelve years can do it as well as a full grown lady tired. It positively will not injure the finest fabric, has been before the public for fifteen years, and for sale nearly every where. If your grocer has not got it, he will get it, as all wholesale grocers keep it.
