New York and The Politicians. There has been a tremendous contest in the city of New York, which is very significant and interesting. As we write the contest is at its thickest and dirtiest; for it is the struggle of the citizens to escape the dust, mud and filth, breeding discomfort and disease.

The Big Morning Star. A suggestive, if humble, contribution to current literature is furnished by the Eagle, which has published a few letters recently written by the pupils of the Carlisle school to their Indian relatives, who were perhaps set at the meaning of them through the agency interpreters.

All Around Us. Our Western exchanges complain that it is too dry. Come along and take a little of our rain. We can spare a little just as well as not. D. T. Sherman, formerly of Seward and Aurora, has removed his printing office from Harvard to Sterling, Johnson county, Neb., and will publish a paper there hereafter.

One View of It. It is generally conceded that Senator Conkling made a splendid impression before the Republican caucus yesterday. He was able to say in the presence of his brother Senators that he had never asked a favor of Mr. Garfield, who he defied any man in the country to find the applicant for a single office-seeker which bore his endorsement.

WOLF QUIVER. Wolf Quiver will probably have some strange thoughts in his Indian brain when he gets this appeal from his own son Peaton: "Peaton, father, you must try to follow the white man's road. You must be lazy, you try the white man's road as soon as you can. You must not be mad, no bad. You be a good man every day."

James Makes an After-Dinner Speech. Special Dispatch to the Globe-Democrat. NEW YORK, May 10.—At the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce to-night Post-master General James said: I am directed by the President of the United States to say that it was his intention to be present this evening, but owing to the severe, though I am glad to say not serious, illness of Mrs. Garfield he finds himself unable to attend.

German Feast Bread. When fresh German or compressed yeast can be obtained, a very nice light bread can be made in about three hours' time. For two large loaves of bread use three pounds of flour, one quart of lukewarm water, one tablespoonful of salt and two ounces of yeast; dissolve the yeast in the water; add it to enough of the flour to make a batter thick enough to hold the drops from the stirring spoon when they are shaken from its surface, and set this batter or sponge near the stove to rise; it must be placed where the hand can be laid without burning, and covered with a folded towel. When it is light and foaming mix in the rest of the flour and salt, and knead it for five minutes, using enough more flour to keep it from sticking to the hands or to the bread-board, upon which it is kneaded; form it into two loaves, place them in separate pans near the stove, and let them grow double in bulk, then prick them with a fork and bake them for an hour in a moderate oven, taking care that they do not burn.

THE SHEARING FESTIVAL. The sixth annual sheep shearing festival was in progress last week as we went to press, and as we were unable to give any extended account at that time it was our intention to give it a special notice this week. But a press of news prevents, and hence a brief outline only can be given. A large number of persons from abroad were present. Some fine stock was exhibited, in fact all were fine grade animals, and the number of contestants for prizes were numerous. The shearing, with weights as found by the committee, were entirely satisfactory, and without flinching. The dinner at the Opera House was the best ever set out by the Beatrice ladies and all justice was done it. Ex-Governor Furnas delivered a masterly address, the first member of the board was followed by Peter Jan- sen, Esq., in an able paper on sheep raising. The ball in the evening was a magnificent ending to the festival day, and closed an epoch in Beatrice festivities.—Beatrice Courier.

Meeting of the Fish Commissioners. The State Fish Commissioners, Gen. R. R. Livingston and W. L. May met at the Commercial Hotel Saturday afternoon, the first meeting of the board since the resignation of the late Hon. H. S. Kaley being absent on account of sickness. Nine bids for the location of the State fisheries were opened but none of them were deemed worthy of acceptance therefore they were all rejected. The board will meet again in Omaha next week.—Globe.
