Thanksgiving Proclamation of the President.

It has long been the pious custom of our people, with the closing of the year, to look back upon the blessings brought to them in the changing course of seasons and return solemn thanks to the All-giving Source from whom they flow. And although at this period when the falling leaves and past months call for our fervent gratitude, and make it fitting that we should rejoice with thankful hearts, still, since sorrowful and even this calamity has been tempered and in a manner sanctified by the generous compassion for the sufferers which has been called forth throughout our country. For the past few months, the voice of the nation should go up to God in fervent homage.

Wherefore I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, do recommend that all people observe the 24th day of November inst., as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, by ceasing as far as may be from their secular labors and meeting in their several places of worship, there to join in asserting honor and praise to Almighty God, whose goodness has been so manifest in our history and our lives, and offering earnest prayers that his bounties may continue to us and to our children.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington, this seventh day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR, President.

Jas. G. Blaine, Sec. of State.

McVeigh's resignation has been accepted.

The tax on bank checks ought to be abolished now. Put that in, Mr. Arthur.

Some paper wants Wm. Penn Nixon as Secretary of the Navy, because he is an Inter Ocean man. Some relation to Salt Water at least.

NINE JURYMEN (one colored) have been selected so far in the Guiteau case—out of one hundred talesmen, Secretary Blaine has been summoned as a witness.

EX-SENATOR PADDOCK is in Beatrice, so says the Express. It also notes that his chances for a Secretaryship under the present administration are favorable.

DR. HAMMOND makes a report on the treatment of President Garfield unfavorable to those in charge. Other surgeons disagree and think death inevitable from the wound.

Kass "of the Lincoln Democrat" has been propounding again—He wants to know where that $14,000 has gone to? We don't know, you tell. Perhaps some Democrat has got it, they keep a good eye on those things.

THE Lincoln Democrat thinks Dorsey and Slocumb are setting their paws for Governor next fall, now that Davis was defeated in Saline. We thought Cass was to have a candidate for Governor next fall. How's that?

With the compliments of Senator VanWyck we receive the Extra Census Bulletin on "Cereal Productions of the U. S."

From it we learn that Cass County in 1879 produced 4,312,032 bushels of corn on 97,907 acres; and 394,701 bushels wheat on 39,443 acres.

The fight for the Speakership is getting livelier. Keifer of Ohio, is a strong candidate, now. "Hiscock's" own weapons turned against him as he argued last winter that Ohio ought not to have it because she had the President, &c. Now N. Y. has the President.

HAVING been asked a dozen times this week what we were going to say about matters, and if to use the common expression "we were going for some one now," we make a few remarks that such readers may not be disappointed, or at least that the HERALD may not be misunderstood, as many seem looking for some wonderful explosion, or exposure to be made instantly. To such we must say they will be mistaken. We never intended to keep up a useless, or what might be construed as a personal fight, for the mere fun of fighting, or saying what might be called smart or cutting things, even if it does help a newspaper and most of the people like to see what they call the "fun" go on. The matters and points we wished to bring out, are, or we think they are, of importance to all who are interested in public affairs and consequently they require time and attention such as we have not been able to give them last week or this, outside business, setting the "Official table" and Court week combined have taken up too much time for us to attempt to write what we desired now. We have not, however, nor do we intend to forget our promise at once. There is a long winter to come, remember, and time enough to make the fur fly, if needed, in the future.

THE Omaha Republican rather attempts to advance the theory, that Col. Smith might have shot himself accidentally, instead of being murdered as heretofore supposed. It states that Deputy U. S. Marshal Ball, did purchase for Col. Smith, a bull dog pistol, of the pattern found at his feet some time previous, and that it is suggested that in coming out of his office with his hands full of papers, and this pistol in his upper left over coat pocket, he dropped his papers on the floor and in stooping to recover them the pistol fell from his pocket and was exploded. There is a remote possibility of this being the case, accidents having occurred in the most unaccountable manner in the world, but the probabilities and surroundings of the case are, in our opinion against this view.

THE result in New York being of great interest we copy from the N. Y. Times a few words on the bearings of the Campaign there. The result in this State must be regarded as a decided proof of Republican strength. A party which can win a victory under such embarrassments and discouragements as those attending the State canvass this year, has a vigorous constitution, and may be counted on for much excellent work. We have heard a great deal within the past few years of the decay of the Republican Party, but the vote of Tuesday shows that the party is still sound, and capable of performing its legitimate functions. It must be borne in mind that New-York is a great State, with greatly varying features as to population, interests, and opinions. It includes from three-quarters of a million to a million voters, of every intelligence, many nationalities and an infinite variety of prejudices and political ideas. From the lumbermen of the North Woods to the men of means and leisure in the great cities, from the immigrant who can barely read or cannot read to the thriving capitalist, the party has sought its vote for ruin or money to the shrewd and independent merchant—every class and every group of men that can be brought together in a vast modern community has its representatives. It would be strange if in such a body of voters the results of succeeding elections should not present striking changes, and every approach to steadiness is the more remarkable. In such a community, moreover, a party like the Republican Party is at a disadvantage, so far as mere discipline is concerned, because it is compelled to serve great consistency between its purposes and its methods, is forbidden to resort to means which the Democrats can use with impunity, and it reaches very soon the limit beyond which partisanship cannot be relied on. It is restive under leadership, even a legitimate kind, and receives its impulse more from the free elections and sentiments of its members than from the plans of its managers. That it is free, or nearly free, from the vices to which large parties are exposed, it would be foolish to contend; but men who thrive by these vices much more readily and quickly come to the end of their resources and are retired, than is the case with our great rival, the Democrats.

This year the Republican plurality is over 13,000, and may easily reach 15,000, and there is probably an absolute majority as well. It is impossible to deny, under the existing conditions, that this is a decisive victory, that it establishes beyond a doubt the steadfastness of the party and its ability to hold its own against any ordinary obstacles, under any fair management of its affairs.

JUDGES POUND holds court with all the suavity of a dignitary on the supreme bench; but duck cases do upset him now and then.

As the Weeping Water man seems to be "disposed" to walk into his friend and brother the Deacon, we think the HERALD must give "Bush" a chance. Two at once on so good, pious and temperate a Christian as the Deacon, might ruffle his temper until he'd say ungodly things.

THE Inter Ocean quotes this of the "Step Ladder Statesman" Husted, of New York, who was lately defeated:

Men may, indeed—

Rise on stepping-stones—

Of their dead selves to higher things—

But, as Mr. Husted now knows, stepping-ladders will not serve in the place of the stones.—Granby.

The Lincoln Weekly Tribune, the temperance paper of the state, has climbed the rickety stairs and is no more. John B. Finch ran it in ground and at the same time sunk about $300 of the money of the temperance people of the state. The want of patronage was the cause of its death. John B. it is said, will open a law office in Lincoln, soon. John ought to make a good lawyer for he can beat the best living.—Neb. City Press.

GUITEAU's trial is progressing. The crowd began to fill the court room at Washington shortly after daylight, Monday. Court opened at 10 a. m., Scoville's wife, Guiteau's sister, and Robinson sat by and around the prisoner. Guiteau, himself, seemed calm and collected this time, except when he attempted to speak, which he did several times in spite of the attempts of his counsel to prevent him. Judge Cox was forced to command him to be seated, several times.

The progress of the trial developed the fact of a difference of opinion between Scoville and Robinson, Scoville (and Guiteau) being ready to proceed, and Robinson asking for more time. The Judge seemed disposed to grant Mr. Robinson more time to prepare his case, but said they could proceed with the selection of a jury which would take some time. Accordingly that was done and the regular panel was soon exhausted, and an extra panel of seventy-five citizens was called. Five jurors had been obtained from the court adjourned Monday evening.

Their names and occupations are as follows: John A. Hatlin, restaurant keeper; E. W. Baudenberg, cigar maker; Chas. E. Stewart, flour and feed dealer; Henry J. Bright, retired from business; Thos. H. Langley, grocer. The panel was then exhausted and the court adjourned till Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

JUDGE FOLGER was serenaded by his townspeople at Geneva, New York, previous to his leaving to take charge of the Treasury of the United States, and in his reply speech he used the following terms; in speaking of his acquaintance with and knowledge of Garfield:

A few months later the atrocious act of an arranged mind put out the light on earth of a great soul.

And of Arthur thus:

An old proverb says: "There are but two good men, one is dead, the other not born." We must put our hand upon our mouth and our mouth in the dust before the mystery of Providence, and humbly confess a good man dead. But are we as those who have no hope? Has not another good man been born? Ever since that dreadful second day of July, dis inter, dies illa, solvit seculum in favilla.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR has maintained a quiet decorum and unostentatious dignity and wise reticence that evince a soul of no common mold. He made no haste to power. He used not power when attained; and he wisely chose to do the purpose he found incompetently performed. He has no greed of fame, save that which will come from acting well the part that has been given him to do in such a fearful and unexpected circumstance. May we hope that having been thus lifted up he may draw all hearts unto him. He has called me to a part in his counsel. I hope, I trust, I shall be found like minded with him.

THE River.

From a report of the Neb. delegation to the Governor, on River improvements the following synopsis has been made:

The Nebraska delegation has been moreover instrumental in securing the passage of an act amending the act of July, 1879, as above suggested; and for that reason a convention of the Missouri river States and Territories will be called at Kansas City, before Congress meets. To this convention your excellency will be invited to send a delegation, by the committee which has the matter in charge.

Considering the fact that Major Sutor, of the United States engineers, who has completed his survey of the Missouri river in accordance with instructions from the War Department, approximated such improvements with a depth of twelve feet from St. Charles to Sioux City, at a cost of eight millions of dollars, it seems strange, in view of the magnitude and suits that would be derived from such an undertaking that we should find any trouble at all in securing the necessary appropriations to commence the work during the year 1882, so that by 1885 sand bars, snags and changing channels will have made room for a splendid stream of water, and no place less than one thousand feet wide, and at every place and for all time twelve feet deep. Major Sutor's report is very comprehensive on this subject. It presses for Nebraska should have untiring energy and unremitting devotion to the cause of cheap transportation, use its best endeavors in creating such a public opinion as will be favorable to all else. If so doing the press would do its duty, and only its duty to the people.

Mr. Touzalin Retires from the General Management of the B. & M.

A circular issued from the headquarters of the B. & M. railroad announces that from Nov. 7th, the general management of the affairs of this company will be assumed by Mr. T. J. Potter, who is general manager of the whole B. & M. system.

Also that until further notice the General Superintendent, Mr. Holdrege, will have the local direction of affairs and the business of the road in other respects will be conducted as heretofore. Reports, etc., which have been made to the general manager's office in this city will be forwarded there as heretofore.

Thus Mr. Touzalin retires from the general management of the B. & M. and his place is taken here by Mr. T. J. Potter, who is general manager of the C. B. & Q. whose system embraces that of the B. & M.

PENNSYLVANIA went republican by 15,000.

The Washington Correspondent of the Globe Democrat, says:

While Burlington loses, Washington is to be congratulated upon gaining such an addition to its official circles as it finds in the person of the new Assistant Postmaster General and his family. Mr. Hatton has been a regular visitor of Washington for several winters, and on many of his trips has been accompanied by his wife.

Mrs. Hatton is a charming little lady of fine mind and unusual complexion, dark hair and brilliant eyes, and at the same time sunk about $300 of the money of the temperance people of the state. The want of patronage was the cause of its death. John B. it is said, will open a law office in Lincoln, soon. John ought to make a good lawyer for he can beat the best living.—Neb. City Press.

China Wedding.

Last Thursday, Nov. 10th, being the 20th anniversary of wedded life of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Barnes, they invited in their friends and neighbors to celebrate and rejoice with them; but alas! they forgot to include the clerk of the weather in their list, and to be revenged he visited upon this quarter such weather as he thought would effectually nip in the bud all festivity and rejoicing. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes' friends determined however not to be outdone by a snow storm and assembled in such numbers as to assemble everyone. Rev. and Mrs. Gee and daughter from Lincoln came in ahead of the storm, and after the guests were all assembled, Mr. Gee assisted by Rev. Mr. Wilson, re-united the happy couple for another twenty years sail upon the sea of matrimony, and gave them some most excellent advice as to their respective duties which the guests showed their appreciation of by peals of laughter. A goodly array of china testified to the kindly wishes of the friends assembled and consisted of the following articles:
