A Friendly Game. The gathering of a party against Prof. A. S. 'Say, mister?' said a tall, sunburned man with a wide-brimmed hat, as he edged his way into the managing editor's room yesterday afternoon.

'Why, yes,' responded the editor, 'I know how to play "everlasting" and "old maid," and things of that kind; but that's just what I want to ask you about. Now, in playing "old maid," suppose the man who holds the ace goes, and passes on the draw, whose bet is it?'

'That isn't the way I play it,' said the stranger. 'In my game the player who has a queen after the other cards are played is the "old maid."'

'Perhaps it is "everlasting" that I'm thinking of,' mused the stranger. 'Suppose in "everlasting" you should catch an old maid on the draw and when, the next time she comes up, she has a queen, you had a flush. What then?'

'I don't see how that question could arise in that game,' said the editor. 'Maybe you're talking of the game called "poker."'

'Poker? what's that?' asked the stranger, looking up in innocent surprise. 'That's where they have aces and fives and that sort of thing.'

'Do you know how to play it, stranger?' asked the tall man, drawing out a pack of cards. 'Will you show me how?'

The editor ran over the cards and dealt two hands rapidly. 'Now,' he explained, 'two pairs beat one pair, three of a kind beat two pairs, a flush beats three, and four of a kind beats a flush. What have you got?'

'I never heard the last about that "poker" up stairs, but that was the end of my violin practice.' - Willimantic (Ct.) Journal.

Thumps in Hogs. We have heard and read, says a correspondent of the National Live Stock Journal, Chicago, a great deal about the cure of thumps in pigs.

'I've heard of it, but I never saw it,' said the editor, 'and you can't see how it is done. It is a very injurious to the constitution of the pigs. Let your brood sows have access to a grass, clover or dry pasture that will give them plenty of fresh dirt and water, and don't feed them too rich food. Get the best of whatever breed you choose, always a pure-bred one, and you can't go wrong. They will make good feeders, to return a fair percentage for your labor and feed.'

Miding receptions are the newest in New York. They are held fortnightly at a fashionable equestrian academy.

The Artifice of a Flirt. In her last letter Clara Belle speaks of a trick to be played by a mischievous young lady on New Year's day, calculated to raise merry Ned with numerous hearts.

'I beat you,' said the managing editor, 'and you can't see how it is done. It is a very injurious to the constitution of the pigs. Let your brood sows have access to a grass, clover or dry pasture that will give them plenty of fresh dirt and water, and don't feed them too rich food. STREIGHT & MILLER.

Not Approved. An old lawyer, who says he plays "no kind of musical instrument whatever," has told the reason why he never learned.

'When he was a young law-student he and his brother, who was studying medicine, both boarded at home, and at one time both conceived the idea that they had more than ordinary musical talent, and determined to cultivate them.'

'So John bought a flute,' he said, 'and I bought a fiddle, and turning one of the staves into a study, we practiced there half the night.'

'We didn't want anybody to know about it, especially my father, who had very strict notions as to the value of time and no taste for music. So to make him think we were hard at work, I had quantities of law-books heaped up and John had a skull and lots of bones scattered about, to the horror of his mother, the housekeeper, who slept in the attic.'

'She was once our nurse, and was the only one who could hear us practicing, so we had no fears of her telling.'

'One morning a week or two after we had begun our musical night-work, we were late at breakfast, and looking somewhat unrefreshed, father said: "You mustn't study too hard, boys!"'

'No, sir, not at all,' we both answered, smiling.

'Just then Betsey appeared at the door, and looked mysteriously at mother. "Yes, what is it?" asked mother, surprised at the flurry Betsey seemed to be in.'

'Well, ma'am, I want to say that I'll have to leave you, ma'am.'

'Leave me? why, what do you mean, Betsey?'

'Yes, ma'am; it's the boys at last, ma'am. It's going on twenty-five years that I've lived with you, and it's the boys at last. It's not Christian-like, ma'am; I can't stand it any longer.'

'Why, Betsey, what have the boys been doing? Do tell us at once!'

'It's Mister John, ma'am; and sometimes I think Mister Tom helps him. He's got some poor creatures up stairs, ma'am, and he torments him awful, all night sometimes, ma'am, when you are asleep. The poor creature groans and screams and almost shrieks and screams, and it suffers I don't know, but it's dreadful.'

'I know they say doctors must do such things when they are a learning, but I can't stay where such things are going on. I never thought. Minding was the one to do so, but he does, and if it's all the same to you I'll go, ma'am.'

'Mother saw that there was some mystery about it, and says that Betsey would talk to her again, sent her from the room, when my brother and I were called upon to explain.'

'I have never heard the last about that "poker" up stairs, but that was the end of my violin practice.' - Willimantic (Ct.) Journal.

From Mc's X Roads. ED. HERALD:—Pinkey and matrimony is abating. Those afflicted are doing as well as could be expected; cutting, breaking, raking, and burning stalks is in order now. A few farmers have sown some wheat; there will not be so much sown this season as last.

John Hollenbeck returned from the west last week; with that bird for his new cage; please accept our congratulations and best wishes, John.

Tindell went south Saturday to see about that top with a string to it.

Our friend, J. T. Richey, returned from Illinois last week with rented T. D. Look's farm for another year.

Geo. Hamilton took a homestead in Antelope County; his brother-in-law, William Armstrong, has sold out to M. J. Dowler, and we understand, is going west soon.

One of the infant twins, sons of Wm. and Emma Rager, died Saturday, and the other is very ill.

T. G. Taylor and Clark Newlon are visiting friends at Valparaiso; Harry Pottinger has rented James McManis's farm.

McCroy is going to import his help direct from Posey County. T. Zink has done a boss job on his hedge and don't you forget it neighbor.

At the last regular meeting of the Elmwood Alliance W. H. Pool, Daniel McCaig T. P. McCarty and James Hayward were elected delegates to the spring meeting of the County Alliance at Weeping Water on the 11th; we are anticipating a good meeting if the weather is favorable.

We are glad the gentleman from the Dominion of Victoria had the hardihood to define his position. The time is not far distant when every voice will have to take sides in the irrepressible contest, either for the people or the monopolies.

ADRONACK. A NEBRASKA RUST-CUSS. NEW IDEAS ABOUT PARTIES. Does a Prospective Break-up Explain Arthur's Hesitation?

S. Y. Sun. WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—A gentleman as profound in politics as in legal learning, in a conversation about Arthur's slowness in completing his Cabinet, expressed some rather singular views:

'What is complained of proceeds neither from indecision nor intolerance. It is not a new nor an unpopular idea that a new formation of parties is at hand. Blaine early set out with it, and has proceeded confidently on that hypothesis. Few sagacious politicians will be found to declare that they expect party lines to
