A PORTION of the Otoe tribe of It dians, who went out to hunt last November, accompanied by their Agent, have been camping near the river this week. They number 306, while 151 remained on the reservation. They attracted considerable notice during their stay near town, and sold some of their robes and furs to our citizens. We learn that they have not been very successful on their hunt, and that this is their last trip to themselves.
