PARM NOTES. Omelette. I have something to tell you; Omelette. I have something to tell you; Omelette. I have something to tell you;

THE FARMER SHOULD BE AN EDUCATED MAN. Formerly all necessary qualifications were physical development.

FARMERS MUST ARRANGE SO AS TO ENLARGE THEIR FARMS WITHOUT LEAVING THEIR HOMES CROWDED WITH HIRED HELP.

DO ALL WORK AS CHEAPLY AS POSSIBLE THIS YEAR, BUT DO IT THOROUGHLY. The prospect is good for remunerative prices, if economically produced.

THE CROCK-BURN.—Why is it that so many of our farmers, and nearly all of our city carmen, insist upon using a tight rein on working horses?

WASTED FERTILIZERS.—The Farmer's Home Journal says: On every old place in Central Kentucky there are such things as old wood-piles, where chips have accumulated and decomposed for fifty years.

FRENCH MUSTARD.—A fine French mustard, called mustard superbe, is thus made: Salt, one and one-half pounds; scraped horseradish, one pound; garlic, two cloves; boiling vinegar, two gallons; macerate in a covered vessel for twenty-four hours.

SOME egg-raisers claim that the best use for skimmed milk is to give it to hens to drink; that it is worth twice as much for this purpose as for feeding hogs.

THE COMING GIRL. She will be of some use in the world, will cook her own food, will earn a living, and will not die an old maid.

PRESERVING POTTS.—Every farmer who has to fence his land knows how well quickly posts planted in the earth become rotten, especially in a damp spot.

Some years ago I discovered a way of rendering wood more durable in earth than iron itself, says the author of the communication.

FARMERS' FOOD.—In the last report of the Massachusetts Board of Health, Dr. J. F. Adams, of Pittsfield, one of the most accomplished physicians in the State, has presented a long and valuable report upon the health of farmers.

THE LENGTH OF WHALES. Mr. Scoresby, a very high authority on this subject, declares that the common whale seldom exceeds seventy feet in length, and is much more frequently under sixty.

HYDRATE OF CHLORAL. In an article reviewing the evidence which from time to time has been brought forward for and against the use of chloral hydrate as a sedative.

MEAT IS TOO HOT TO BE FRIED. Baked beans and salt-pork, although a highly nutritious diet, to be really healthy, being indispensable for persons.

THE FARMER'S HOME JOURNAL. The farmer's home journal is usually copied in full, and is tried for a week in all other newspapers.

at this point Dr. Lawrence tells the story in a few words: "As a general rule, farmers sleep in the poorest rooms in their houses, which are very small and poorly ventilated. They are an abomination."—Exchange.

CHAMPAGNE HAM.—Boil the ham very tender, skin and cover with brown sugar, moistened with champagne. Repeat three times and brown in an oven. Slice cold.

A NICE DISH.—Grate into a dish a layer of coconuts, then place a layer of quartered oranges and sprinkle them with sugar. Continue alternating until the dish is full, with a grating of coconut on top.

The Country Gentleman recommends linseed oil meal for horses that are never allowed to run out to grass, being slightly aperient. A handful in each feed, morning and evening, is about the quantity usually fed.

RUE.—Three cups of sweet milk, one cup of yeast, one cup of sugar, mixed over night with flour enough to make a stiff batter. To this mix one cup of butter, one cup of sugar, add cinnamon and soda. Mold and let them rise before baking.

TO DYE GREEN.—Boil the article first in alum-water for an hour, then for three hours in a preparation composed of four ounces of verdigris, two quarts of white wine vinegar, and four quarts of water.

HAIR OIL.—One pint of alcohol; two ounces of castor oil; a few drops of perfume. Shake well to cut the oil. This is said to be a splendid and nicely prepared hair oil. It opens the hair, promotes its growth, and prevents it from falling out.

FRENCH MUSTARD.—A fine French mustard, called mustard superbe, is thus made: Salt, one and one-half pounds; scraped horseradish, one pound; garlic, two cloves; boiling vinegar, two gallons; macerate in a covered vessel for twenty-four hours, strain, and add enough of musta to make a rather thin paste.

SOME egg-raisers claim that the best use for skimmed milk is to give it to hens to drink; that it is worth twice as much for this purpose as for feeding hogs; and that by its use in winter chickens will lay constantly. This must be their only drink; and let them have access to it at all times.

THE COMING GIRL. She will be of some use in the world, will cook her own food, will earn a living, and will not die an old maid. The coming girl will not wear the Grecian bend, dance the German, ignore all possibilities of knowing how to work, will not endeavor to break the hearts of unsophisticated young men, will spell correctly, understand English before she affects French, will preside with equal grace at the piano and the washboard, will spin more yarn for the house than the street, will not despise her plain-clad mother, her poor relations, or the hand of an honest worker, will wear a bonnet, speak good plain English, will darn her old stockings, will know how to make doughnuts.

Young Dunning's Escape From the Mill River Torment. (From the Ripley Post.) The marvelous escape of young Dunning at Leeds has already been referred to, but his story is so interesting that it is worth giving in detail.

The alarm was given by a work in the spool-room of the Nonotuck millworks, and rushing out of the mill, his first thought, of course, was for his family. He found that his father, wife and three children had all left his house. He shouted to them to run for their lives, at the same time pointing to them what direction to take. His wife and children obeyed him and were saved; but his father, an old man of seventy-eight, thinking that something might be got out of the house before the flood reached it, went back. In dashed his son after him, begging him to leave the doomed building. While raising one of the windows a great flood in full sight struck his feet and his father disappeared from his sight. The young man had just time to clamber out of the window, and as the house tipped over crawled up its side to the roof just as the building broke up, leaving him but a fragment of a plank to lean on, and on he went sailing down that awful flood in full sight of his wife and children, who, as they looked on in terror and agony, expected momentarily to see him sink beneath the surging mass. In a few seconds his frail raft was crushed like an egg-shell, but his presence of mind never deserted him. He jumped for another, and when that failed he clung to a log. He was hastening down with the current at a terrific speed, and, intent on the fearful task he had in hand, never once thought of the dams toward which he was hastening. The first one he reached in the awful crash and jam. He is hurried seemingly to the top of the mill to come down, and he is hurled over the first time far beneath the waves. As he came to the surface and clasped another piece of driftwood he realized with an intensity unimaginable by those whose lives have never been imperiled that another and higher dam was but a short distance below, and that he had no hope of escape unless he escaped from the flood before that point was reached, but fortunately the swollen mass of water and debris at that moment surged toward the shore, and seizing an opportunity, which seemed to him a chance of life, he sprang over a broken roof, which served him as a bridge, and with a leap again had a foothold on the earth. The feelings of a man, who, like him had scarcely a hope of life, finding himself escaped from the jaws of death, cannot be depicted. Only a cool and untroubled mind could have maintained that experience, and possibly Mr. Dunning could not but for his experience before as a craftsman in Canadian waters. He had been swept half a mile down the river, and was utterly exhausted by the intense strain on mind and body, nerve and muscle, yet he lay on the bank a moment to get his breath, and then he suppressed a smile at the appearance of a man who escaped from the flood near the same place by seizing hold of the limbs of a large tree on the bank. Fleas though he was, this man went up the tree like a squirrel, and did not stop till he was at least 30 feet above the water.

Mr. Dunning describes, as the most remarkable incident of the memorable ride, the heart-rending screams and groans of women and children in houses that were swept down with him and seemed to be beneath him. He says that he will ring in his ears the latest day of his life.

Cultivate Parity of Language. Avoid slang, my dear girls, as you would avoid any degrading habit; let your words be pure, simple and expressive—just such a form of expression as your little brother and sister may imitate. Never forget that what a "mother" says to her children, the educators of the household. It is painful to listen to many girls' talk. They begin with a "My goodness!" and interlard it with "oh's" and "sakes aliver!" and "so sweet!" and "so queerly!" and so many silly phrases that one can hardly believe that they have had no training at all, or else their mothers were very foolish women. There is nothing more disgusting than the twaddle of ill-bred girls; one is provoked often into taking up a paper and reading, and letting them rattle and gurgle on, like brooks that flow they know not whither. My heart warms with love for sensible girls and pure boys; and after all, if our girls and boys are not this, I fear that our fault that this great trust reposes in the heart and hands of the women of our land. If we have a noble, useful purpose in life, we will have the right spirit in the world around us.

Five Hundred Persons Baptized. A remarkable scene took place last Sunday on the Appomattox river, near Petersburg, Va., when five hundred colored persons were baptized by immersion, in the presence of a very large crowd. At 1 o'clock the candidates were seen chanting an anthem as the long column of candidates marched down in order to the water. Two lines of men were then formed, and the ceremony began by passing the candidates from head to head from the shore to the church, and then the bodies were carried to the water and plunged.

EVANGELICAL BOOTLE.—"I am so 'umble," said Irish Heep, and perhaps the influence of his awkward humility in the opinion of the people, renders him a very notable character. He is a native of a very poor village, and his only means of support is a small stall in the market, where he sells a few articles of his own manufacture. He is a very poor man, and his only hope of improvement is in the sale of his goods. He is a very poor man, and his only hope of improvement is in the sale of his goods.

WILSON'S TONIC.—A SAFE, SURE AND SCIENTIFIC CURE! The unprecedented sale of this world-renowned medicine proves conclusively that it is the best medicine for the cure of all diseases of the blood, and for the cure of all diseases of the blood, and for the cure of all diseases of the blood.

THE NORTHWESTERN HORSE-NAIL CO.'S PATENT HORSE-NAIL. The Northwestern Horse-Nail Co. has invented a new and improved horse-nail, which is the best in the world. It is made of the finest steel, and is of a shape that will hold in the hoof of any horse, and will not rust or break.

THE SNOW-FLOWER. A very remarkable account is admitted into the pages of a so-called snow-flower, said to have been discovered by Count Anthonoff in 1863, in the northernmost portion of Siberia, where the earth is continually covered with a coating of frost. This wonderful object first formed on the frost of the first day of the year, and then returns to its original elements. It shines for a single day, then the stem, leaves and flower are converted into snow. The leaves are three in number, and about three inches in diameter, covered with a kind of microscopic hair, which gives it a very soft and downy appearance. The stem of the flower is directed to the north. The flower, when open, is star-shaped, its petals of the same length with the leaves, and about half an inch wide. On the third day the extremities of the anthers, which are five in number, show minute, shining specks, like diamonds, about the size of a pin's head, which are the seeds of this astonishing flower.

THE GREAT MEDICAL REFORMATION.—The Satanic Theory that preparations which inflame the brain are, in any sense of the word, remedies, has been overthrown, and can never be re-established. The wonderful effects which have attended the use of Dr. Walker's VINEGAR BITTERS as an antidote to the causes of disease, and as a means of restoring the system to its normal state, have demonstrated the utter fallacy of the doctrine that alcohol is a tonic as well as a stimulant. The new and incomparable Vegetable Remedy which has superseded the death-draught of rum bitters, is as free from every intoxicating element as the dew of Heaven, yet it is as invigorating, refreshing, and purifying the blood of the scrofulous, strengthening the debilitated, arresting premature decay, and replacing despondency and weakness with cheerfulness and activity. Truly a grand Medical Revolution is in progress.
