

ATTENTION.

The citizens of Webster County are requested to meet in Mass Convention at Red Cloud, on Saturday March 20th, for the purpose of electing delegates to attend the District Convention to place in nomination two candidates for the Constitutional Convention. A large attendance is respectfully urged. J. F. SMITH, Chairman Central Com.

Election Notice.

Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday the sixth day of April, 1875, an election will be held in Webster county Nebraska, at the places hereinafter mentioned, for the purpose of electing two delegates to the Constitutional Convention; being the number apportioned to the District composed of Webster, Adams, and Kearney counties, which election shall open at 8 in the morning and close at six in the evening. The place of holding the election in each precinct will be as follows: Red Cloud precinct—At the Court House. Guide Rock precinct—At the School House in District No. 1. Walnut Creek precinct—At the School House in District No. 6. Basin precinct—At the school house in District No. 22. Harmony precinct—At Wells Post Office. Oak Creek precinct—At the School House in District No. 5. By order of the County Commissioners, this 10th day of March, A. D. 1875. J. A. TULLEYS, County Clerk.

The press of the state is a unit in upholding the veto of the Railroad Tax Bill by Gov. Garber. The Governor did his duty, fearlessly and faithfully, and the people rejoice to know that in their Executive they have a man above the corrupting influences of railroad corporations, and who is not afraid to do what is right. This one act alone will strengthen the ties which already exist between the Governor and the people, and proves that they did not misjudge their man when they called Silas Garber to the front.

At the head of this column will be found a call for a Mass Convention, to meet at this place on Saturday next. The near approach of the election, the fact that a county convention and a district convention will be necessary, and the difficulty of getting notice to all the members of the central committee, in order to hold a meeting of the same, have decided us to take the responsibility of calling the county convention in the manner indicated. It is about the latest day that a convention can be held in order to be ready for the district convention which will meet but a few days later. There is no time to give notices for precinct caucuses and to go through the routine usual in such cases, therefore we hope it will be satisfactory to meet in Mass Convention. We hope that the attendance will not be confined to citizens of Red Cloud precinct, but that every portion of the country will be represented.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Vetoing the Railroad Tax Bill.

Gratlemen of the Senate: Exercising the power vested in me by Sec. 19, Art. 3 of the Constitution, I herewith return Senate File 85 of current session, with my objections thereto, which are as follows: 1. It contains no enacting clause. Sec. 1, article 2, of the Constitution provides that the style of every law shall be in the following language: "Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Nebraska." This positive constitutional requirement is wanting in this bill.

2. Art. 8, Sec. 3, of the Constitution provides "that the property of corporations now existing, or hereafter created, shall forever be subject to taxation the same as the property of individuals." It is a well settled principle of constitutional law, that the property of individuals should be taxed in the ratio of its value, but this bill provides that a certain class of corporations shall not be taxed in this ratio, that the property of our railroad corporations shall never be assessed for taxation, at more than $10,000 per mile even though the value be greatly in excess of that sum. With equal propriety, the property of a class of individuals might be exempt from taxation over a certain stipulated amount, while the mass of the people would be held to bear the burden.

3. There is no due provision made for the payment of the interest on the bonds of the State, which is a matter of great importance. Granting that railroad corporations are exempt from taxation, this would not be sufficient to enable them to pay the interest on their bonds. It is in my judgment a class legislation, and repugnant alike to the letter and spirit of our laws.

4. While there is evidently a disposition on the part of the people of this State to encourage railroad enterprises they are scarcely able at this time to shoulder so great a burden as this. Many of these, through their various municipal organizations, have voted large subsidies to railroads, and with the understanding that their property should be taxed the same as that of individuals, or at least that the law respecting taxation of railroads should not be radically changed.

5. The law now in force being in a manner a part of their contract, to all such, this act would be an especial hardship, and in my opinion, it would in the end recoil on these corporations, by inciting legislation adverse and hostile to them. If it be true that some railroads in the State are true out of proportion to the benefit and the understanding that their property should be taxed the same as that of individuals, or at least that the law respecting taxation of railroads should not be radically changed.

THE SUFFERERS IN NEBRASKA.

Their Present Needs, &c.

New London, Iowa, March 1, 1875. DEAR FRIENDS: Some time since, I was in London to attend to some business, and I had the opportunity of seeing the sufferings in Nebraska, and also to ascertain while on the ground, the facts, as far as possible, about the reliability of the State and county organizations for the distribution of supplies. The intention of this last mission may be fully realized by stating that it had been reported that the State organization was perfectly unreliable and using the means and supplies placed at their disposal more to advance their own selfish interests than for the relief of the needy. Various reports were prevalent, also, about the extreme suffering and actual starvation in many parts of the State, but after traveling in about twenty counties in the State, I found that these reports were greatly exaggerated. I witnessed actual starvation, though very many who were greatly in need of the necessities of life, and who undoubtedly would suffer without help being given them. I arranged for the distribution of the supplies entrusted to me, in places where they were most needed, and in that way which would insure their reaching the most destitute. In regard to the State and county organizations, their condition and mode of distributing supplies, I found at first there had been much cause of complaint and many grievances in their reports; but that they had finally succeeded in getting efficient, honest and capable men to do the work and manage the affairs of the society. The executive committee and the workers instead of drawing their compensation from the funds of the society, were generally officers and devoted men who were government pay, so that all the means contributed could go at once where it was intended. Their manner of distribution was about as follows: The secretary of the State organization was required to issue monthly reports to county committees, and they in turn issue the same proportionate amount to precinct committees, who have a list of families needing help. Said heads of families on application on application being required to furnish a statement of their needs, and if no other safer medium for distribution than the State organization, and those who send direct to them at Omaha, may be assured that they are taking the best course to have their donations do the most good.

It is well known throughout the State that there are many irresponsible and dishonest persons traveling through Iowa and other States, soliciting aid, who manage to keep all that comes into their hands for their own personal use and benefit. Some of these on their return have claimed that they are entitled to the credit of donations sent, with which they had nothing at all to do, while whatever they did succeed in getting was appropriated by themselves. In my travels I ran across a man by the name of Kirkwood, a preacher who had sought and had been denied some responsible position on the local committee, and who, because I refused to credit his reports and recognize him as a reliable and trustworthy person, sought by every means in his power, to circulate false reports of my work in Webster county. Hearing of this some time after, I addressed a letter of inquiry to the local committee in Webster county, and received the following reply:

Mr. J. P. Bangham, New London, Iowa: Sir—Your favor of the 29th inst. is received. I would say that concerning Mr. Kirkwood, I do not support his statements, and that I fully endorse your proceedings while here. Furthermore, we believe you acted independently in the matter of his name, and by a member of the committee, and that we are glad to hear of your proceedings. As regards Mr. Kirkwood's conduct, we believe him to be a mischief-maker, and more than that, we believe him to be a man who is more than willing to make a party of his departure from here as a solicitor for aid, than to benefit the needy. We are glad to hear of your proceedings, and we are glad to hear of your proceedings, and we are glad to hear of your proceedings.

Ben Cloud, Webster Co. Feb. 3, 1875. Much complaint has been made that donations for private individuals sent to the State committee have never arrived at their destinations. This is no doubt owing in every instance to non-compliance with instructions issued by the society for shipping goods. They have not followed the instructions, which should be strictly regarded. In conclusion, I would say that the great and urgent present need of sufferers in Nebraska and Kansas, is for seed with which to put in their crops, as well as food for their teams to enable them to do the work necessary. I have been authorized by the State relief and aid society, to solicit of the people in this region, still further aid in seed grain for the destitute, and anything entrusted to me will be promptly forwarded. The people of Nebraska admit that among all the States which have nobly and generously responded to their distress, Iowa stands the first. That it supplies her has contributed vastly more than any other State, while others have contented themselves with donations. I shall be pleased at any time to make any further explanation that may be required, or to give any information in my power to any one desiring it. J. P. BANGHAM.

Published by authority. AN ACT. To provide for calling a convention to revise, alter or amend the constitution of the State of Nebraska. SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Nebraska, That a convention to revise, alter or amend the constitution of the State of Nebraska, is hereby called to meet at the capital, on the second Tuesday in the month of May, A. D. 1875. Said convention shall consist of sixty-nine members, and the members thereof apportioned and elected from the several counties, as follows: Richardson county, four members. SEC. 2. The members of said convention shall be chosen by the electors of the state qualified to vote at any general election, at an election to be held on the first Tuesday in the month of April, 1875. Such election shall be conducted in conformity to laws then in force respecting elections, and notices of the election of members to said convention shall be given by the officers whose duty it is to give notices of election for members of the legislature.

SEC. 3. The votes cast at such election shall be canvassed, and returns made in the same manner as shall then be provided by law for canvass and return of votes in elections for members of the legislature, and certificates of election shall be given to the persons entitled thereto, in the same manner as members of the legislature are entitled to receive the same; and in case of contested elections to the convention, the contesting candidates shall pursue the same course and be governed by the same rules, as provided by the law therein force concerning contested elections for members of the legislature.

SEC. 4. The members chosen to said convention, shall meet in the hall of the house of representatives, on the day before mentioned at the hour of 3 o'clock p. m., and before entering upon their duties, shall each take an oath, or affirmation, to support the constitution of the United States and faithfully discharge their duty as members of said convention. The said convention shall be the judge of the election and qualifications of its own members, and the said members shall be entitled to the same privileges to which members of the legislature are entitled.

SEC. 5. The members of said convention shall elect one of their number president. They shall also elect a secretary, and an assistant secretary, and such other officers and employees as the business of the convention may require. The members of said convention and the officers and employees thereof shall be entitled to receive the same compensation and mileage as provided by law for the payment of officers and members of the legislature.

SEC. 6. The Secretary of the State shall attend such convention, at the opening thereof, and it shall be his duty, and the duty of all other public officers, to furnish said convention with all such statements, books, papers, and public documents in their possession, or pertaining to their office as the convention may order or require. The Secretary of State shall furnish the convention with such stationery as they may require. The printing ordered by the legislature. The journal of said convention, and the debates of its members, shall be printed and distributed as journals of the Senate and House of Representatives are now distributed.

SEC. 7. The amendments, alterations, or revision of the constitution agreed to, shall be signed by the members of said convention, and together with the journal and debates, be filed in the office of the secretary of state. The amendments, alterations, or revision of the constitution shall be published in such manner, and in such quantity, as shall be ordered by the convention.

SEC. 8. The amendments, alterations, or revision of the constitution shall be submitted to the people, for their adoption, or rejection, at an election to be called by said convention, and every person entitled to vote by the laws in force at the time of such election is held, may vote thereon, and said amendments, alterations, or revision of the constitution shall not take effect unless adopted by a majority of the electors voting at such election. The convention shall prescribe the form or manner of voting at such election, and the votes cast at such election shall be canvassed, and returns thereon made in such manner as the convention shall prescribe. The convention shall also prescribe the ways and manner in which the said amendments, alterations, or revision of the constitution shall take effect, if adopted by the people.

SEC. 9. The Secretary of the State shall designate some paper in each county of the State wherein a newspaper is published, and each all papers published in foreign languages, to print this act for the information of the people, and such newspapers shall give the act one insertion before the first day of April, A. D. 1875, and shall, upon forwarding to the State Auditor a copy containing such publication, be entitled to receive pay for the same at the same rates allowed contractors for public printing of the laws of the State, which amount shall be paid by warrants of the Auditor drawn on the general fund of the Treasury.

SEC. 10. The sum of $15,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the general fund not otherwise appropriated, to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

SEC. 11. This act shall take effect and be in force, from and after its passage. Approved Feb. 20, A. D. 1875.
