If We Knew,

If we know the woe and heart-sche. Waiting for us down the road. If our lips could taste the wormwood, If our backs could feel the load, Would we waste the day in wishing For a time that ne'er can be? Would we wait in such impatience For our ships to come from ses?

If we knew the baby fingers Pressed against the window pane Would be cold and s iff to-morrow-Never trouble us again -Would the bright eyes of our darling Catch the frown upon our brow? Would the print of rosy fingers Vex us then as they do now?

Ab! these little ice-cold fingers, How they point our memories back To the hasty words and actions Strewn along our.backward track. How these little hands remind us. As in snowy grace they lie, Not to scatter thorns - but roscs-For our reaping by and by.

Strange, we never prize the music Till the sweet voiced bird has flown : Strange, that we should slight the violets Till the lovely flowers are gone ; Strange, that summer skies and surshis e Never seem half so fair As when winter's snowy pinions Shake their white down in the air?

Lips from which the seal of silence None but God can roll away, Never blossomed in such beauty As adorns the mouth to day; And sweet words that freight our memory With their beautiful perfume, Come to us in sweeter accents Through the portals of the tomb

Let us gather up the sunbeams Lying all around our path ; Let us keep the wheat and roses. Casting out the therns and chaff. Let us find our sweetest comfort In the blessings of to-day, With a patient hand removing All the briars from our way.

Heart-Rending Case,

"What I want to know," said a white headed young man of twenty, as he stood before the Sergeant in charge of the Central Station yesterday, "what I came here for was to get some advice." "Proceed." said the Sergeant.

"You know Nancy Thompson, don' vou?"

"Never heard of her." "Well, she's a widder, over forty years old, and I've been boarding there." "Yes."

He thought a first it was living, and creeping closely up, fired his gun at it, but the bird did not budge an inch. He thought it very strange and walked up to it. He found it dead, and in trying to pick it up, was astonished at its immense weight. It had turned to stone, and a mark on its wing, near the forward joint, showed where the shot had struck it, knocking a piece off. He managed to raise it up out of the ground, and when he laid it down a piece dropped from its breast, disclosing a hollow inside, from which ours, clear water commenced running. Its feathers were very natural, and its so lifelike. He took it to his cabin, down the canal, a few miles back o Washington, where it can be seen by those who wish to see such a strange and unusual sight.
