HANNERS-MATHEWS .- At the re-idence of Geo. Zeiss, Red Cloud Neb., Nov 21st, 1875, by L. Tulleys, Probate Judge : MR. A. B. HANNERS and Miss Lucy J. MATTHEWS, all of Red Cloud.

The Carer is brightened this week by the notice of the marriage of our opular and esteemed townsman Ben-REL HANNERS to MISS JENNIE MAT-THEWS, a lady woose attractiveness of person and mind is well calculated to adorn any home. During his long residence in our town. Burr has shown himself to be a young man of industry. talent and morals, and has won the respect, and good will of the people of his adopted town. May his happiness be increased two-fold, and may his charming bride ever retain the attractions which now beautify her youth.

To the Subscri ers of the "Chief."

We have once or twice before this put notices in the paper that at a certain time we would stop sending our paper to all those who do not pay in advance; but after considering the ircumstances that surrounded a great many, and the fact that some would be unable to pay until they had realized something from their crops this fall, we have postponed taking this step until now. The facts are that this office has not paid its own expenses for the past year, because so many were behind on their subscription. Now in order for us to make a success of the paper, and be able to give you one that will be worth your money, we must have our pay. The amount that each man owes is comparatively trifling but when we come to look over our books and sum it up, it amounts to about $500 to $600. To us, which if we had at present, would enable us to furnish you with a better paper than we can possibly at present. Now in view of all this we propose to commence on the first of December on a pay in advance. We consider all our -An accident occurred one day last subscribers good for what they owe us, compelled to take this step. We propose to make the Postmasters or some other person at the several different offices in this county, where we send papers, our agents to collect old subscriptions and receive new ones, and hope that this step will meet with your approbation and that we may both be mutually benefitted.
