PRESIDENTIAL.

The Presidential question is still unsettled. The electoral college is divided.
It is not determined who are properly members of the electoral college.

It is not determined who is to decide who are members of the electoral college. The whole question hangs now on this matter. The republican organs have claimed that the President of the Senate determined this question, the democrats claim that Congress is to decide. In any event grave and serious matters are to be determined questions of too weighty import to be intrusted to one man. Hayes has received 185 votes. Tilden has received 200 votes, supposing the democratic electors in Louisiana and South Carolina have voted for him.

The State authorities in Louisiana and South Carolina have certified to the votes of the republican electors in those states, which of course were for Tilden. If the returns from the State governments are to be taken as conclusive the President of the Senate is to simply count those states for Hayes. But if that principle is adopted it will give Tilden the election.

For the Governor of Oregon, illegally and unjustly entitled to one electoral vote for Tilden in that state, which would give the democrats a majority.
To ensure a republican victory, the returns of the state authorities and state cadrast of the state governments must not be taken as conclusive.

If the Oregon returns can be investigated, the door is opened for the investigation of the Louisiana and South Carolina returns. To our mind, then, Tilden is elected, or the whole election must be re-examined in every state where there is a contest. One man should not possess the power of deciding such grave and momentous questions. If he does, and he is a republican, we may hope for the best. If Congress takes the matter in hand we have a democratic House and a republican Senate, and when they might agree is a matter of interesting speculation. The question, who is President, depends largely on certain contingencies, and these contingencies depend on circumstances over which we have unfortunately but limited jurisdiction.

THE Congressional investigating Committee are in Columbia, S. C., looking into matters. The democratic House in that state has instructed the judiciary committee to employ counsel and proceed against the republican governor, Chamberlain for treason.

The democrats in Congress are trying to rule out Colorado as a State.
Colorado's admission was not opposed before the election. It was considered a doubtful State, but having shown her republicanism she is to be counted out by the reform party.

Congressman Le Moyne opposed a resolution in the House, proposing that committees from the House and Senate wait upon the Supreme Court and ask its opinion on all mooted questions concerning the counting of the vote for President.

AND now the democratic House will impeach Grant for sending soldiers down South, and Lord is to introduce the resolution, and Lord is the man who in the last session introduced the resolution calling on the President to secure a peaceful election in the South. But Lord was only pretending, then.

GERMANY is determined to remain neutral, in the event of a collision between Turkey and Turkey.

Tilden got his one vote from One now to be a Tidener. In fact, at Bloomington on the 18th. Prof Wainwright is expected to present.

Business at the Law Office has not been very brisk. During the last month there have been only 20 hours of law practice, however, with the exception of the trial of the Hayes suit. Only twelve hours of the month have been used. During the same month the first two days of the 1st. as follows: Monday, 10 hours; Tuesday, 10 hours; Wednesday, 10 hours; 20 hours during the period of 20 hours under contract, except for 1 hour in each day.

The Guard thinks Bush is likely to get a lead. The points in them which take Prof. Dr. Bush indefinitely consist in the fact that he has not been a resident during the whole of the past year.

There is some prospect of the resumption of Frankfort county business as far as early as Dec. 1st. Prof. Dr. Bush and the Law Company have much surviving property, covering over the routes from the river to various points in Kentucky.

NEARLY all the democratic members of the legislature are abstaining from the special session called by the Governor to enrage the people of the State. Their object was to prevent a quorum and at possible prevent Nebraska from casting her three votes for Hayes. But it didn't go in.

Gov. GARFIELD led the State ticket in the last election. By some error it is reported otherwise in some of the papers. The Journal, however, corrects the mistake. Gardner's majority over England was 1,128.

A considerable number of the members of the legislature clearly will have their seats contested at the opening of the legislature. The New Constitution in the hands of dutiful candidates involves some questions in doubt and gives them straw to cling to.

BROOKLYN has an excitement this time which attracts the sympathy of the entire community. One of her theatres took fire the other night during a performance, and in the general rush towards the doors the aisle was so packed up with human beings that egress was impossible. Two hundred and eighty five bodies have been dug from the ruins, and it is supposed that the total number will reach three hundred and fifty.

On our exchange list is the CHIEF of the Red Cloud, Nebraska. It is a lively, spec sheet, and those of our readers wishing reliable news from the prosperous growing State of Nebraska, can get it by sending for the Red Cloud CHIEF — London (Loway Litho) 100.

Thank you, Prof. Dr. Bush, kindly notice by the press of Iowa and other state papers that our efforts to make a good paper of the CHIEF are appreciated. If the CHIEF was more generally circulated throughout the eastern states, the effects thereof would be manifested by the increased circulation of the CHIEF.
