

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

Household Hints. The skins of fruit, especially grapes, are often swallowed with the vague notion that they prevent any bad effects from eating said fruit.

There might be much amusement in tracing the origin of family names. Long ago—say about six or seven hundred years since—there were no family names at all.

Croton bugs and red ants can be driven off by sprinkling the floor with pulverized borax, and leaving a place for them to get out; to kill them mix borax with sugar, so they will eat it.

It is generally believed, even among the best horsemen in the country, that glanders is quite prevalent among horses. Many a valuable animal has been killed by direction of his owner because of an offensive discharge from his nostrils.

Yesterday Mr. House operated upon the horses of the Cambridge Breeding Stud, Dr. Flagg, C. M. Dyer, Washburn & Vaughn, and W. G. Strong, pulling or cutting, or filing the teeth of nearly every animal he examined.

At first sight there is a mystery as regards the different ways in which certain words are spelled. Smith is sometimes written Smyth, and in some instances Brown has an e at the end of it.

The animals rather appear to like having their mouths worked upon, and Mr. House says he never had one attempt to bite him. He runs his hands and arms into their mouths freely, works away upon the sensitive parts without causing the horse to exhibit signs of pain or uneasiness.

Budding Fruit Trees. There are two very well established methods now in very general use among experts in fruit culture for changing or multiplying varieties of the same class on the same tree.

An extraordinary story has just come to light at Bath. Some weeks ago there was received at the Bath Post Office a letter addressed to "The Protestant Minister of the Circuit of Bath."

There is a fact in the United States, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a remedial agent of uncommon power. As a consequence of the recognition, its sale has increased immensely at home and abroad.

When the whole top or any part of it is to be budded over, select the spot for each bud in a smooth part of the branch, not too large, say from one to two inches in diameter.

Humorous.

Two oysters in a gallon of lukewarm fluid at a church fair are no longer called stews, but aquariums.

What's the difference between a girl and a night-cap? One is born to wed, and the other is worn to bed.

On Danube's stormy banks I stand, and east a wistful eye toward Turkey's fair and unhappy land, where correspondents lie.

Paternalism: "To-morrow is the tutor's birthday; what can I get for a present?" Cleary (who has been watching the dogs in the street): "Get him a muzzie, papa; he is always biting the governess on the cheek."

"I don't believe in fashionable churches," said a lady recently; "but, after all, considering that we are all to go to the same Heaven, perhaps it's better to keep up the social distinctions as long as we can."

Good-looking young man who has called at the house on business—"I regret, miss, that your father is not at home. I had an important proposal to make to him."

A white minister in a Methodist pulpit in Charleston, S. C., a few years ago, after a sermon preached by another minister, prayed that what had been "shown in weakness might be raised in power," what had been "shown in corruption might be raised in incorruption," and so on through several phrases.

At first sight there is a mystery as regards the different ways in which certain words are spelled. Smith is sometimes written Smyth, and in some instances Brown has an e at the end of it.

The Rev. Dr. McCosh, of Princeton College, tells a story of a negro who prayed earnestly that he and his colored brethren might be preserved from their "upsettin' sins."

An editorial friend in New Hampshire sends this to Harper's Magazine: Some time ago an aged man, who had just lost his wife, came into our sanctum, and with tears standing in his eyes, eulogized the memory of the deceased, and asked us to record the death in our next issue.

"Want a peanut, Billy?" "Yes," answered the expectant William. "Stand on your head, then, and I'll give you one," she cried back.

Art needs solitude or misery or passion. Lukewarm zephyrs with it. It is a rock flower flourishing by stormy blasts and in strong soil.—Alexander Dumas.

It is base to filch a purse, daring to embezzle a million, but it is great beyond measure to steal a crown. The sin decreases as the sin increases.—Schiller.

A Remedial Agent of Uncommon Power. There is a fact in the United States, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a remedial agent of uncommon power.

Gems of Thought.

The clock of his age had struck 58.—Cellini.

The highest art is artlessness.—T. A. Durivage.

Years do not make sages; they only make old men.—Madame Swetchine.

All things are artificial; for nature is the art of God.—Sir Thomas Brown.

Old age is a tyrant that forbids the pleasures of youth on pain of death.—Rochefoucauld.

Well has it been said that there is no grief like the grief which does not speak.—Longfellow.

O, what authority and show of truth can cunning sin cover itself withal.—Shakespeare.

It is easy to defend the innocent; but who is eloquent enough to defend the guilty?—Publius Syrus.

The object of art is to crystallize emotion into thought, and then to fix it in form.—Francis Deisarte.

Life is an outward occupation, an actual work, in all ranks and all situations.—Wilhelm von Humboldt.

Let no man trust the first step of guilt; it hangs upon a precipice, whose steep descent in lost perdition ends.—Young.

It is only necessary to grow old to become more indulgent. Use no fault committed that I have not committed myself.—Goethe.

That which is usually called dotage is not the weak point of all old men, but only of such as are distinguished by their levity.—Cicero.

"CASKER IN THE HUD." You watch its development with expectant solicitude. The flower, exquisitely moulded bud which promises to unfold with the perfect flower.
