

RED CLOUD CHIEF

Speaking while his wife was at home.

Desiring the bounty on the bill and yet run the state legislature.

Desiring the state reform bill to pass, the only points being the time and amount of exemptions and amounts of penalties.

The revision committee is now completed and is being studied with the utmost care.

Mr. Thompson deserves the praise of every newspaper man in the country for his frankness, kindness and courtesy toward this winter.
Prairie Home and

Home, former capt. of the blind army of Colorado City presented a short speech which was allowed, after being passed over, by the House to have a vote in the Senate.

Report of the Senator Association Held at Red Cloud, Webster Co.
Feb. 7th 79.

Spending morning a goodly number of the members, with many of our extreme members at the school building, to give and receive instruction on the methods of teaching the various branches of knowledge in our common schools. It was a disappointment not to have Hon. Thompson with us, as he was expected to speak up much of the time.

After 10 A. M. the association proceeded to order by the President; Mr. A. A. Pope, and opened with prayer by Rev. Maxwell.

Prof. F. D. Brinsford and Capt. H. B. Williams of Bent County were made Honorary members of the Association.

The second session was entirely occupied by C. W. Springer, who continued in Anatomy and Springer is an old and experienced teacher and conducted his recitations in plain and simple manners making himself master of the subject.

He then gave the teachers a few remarks on remissive their expecting somewhat recuperative and the meeting was adjourned.

It was then entertained by Mr. W. H. Good. The meeting was then interestingly and profitably discussed.

Mr. Nichols was opposed to the bill because he was a "Prohibition" member of the bill, and of no account. He was "friend" to temperance and much other plausible stock such as a good lawyer can get off against any measure good, bad or indifferent.

Hon. Pollock the grayhaired advocate of prohibition spoke, as he always does, ably, effectively, and in favor of the bill.

Hon. Scott the young lawyer from York, and chairman of the judiciary committee, spoke eloquently on the bill, which he had introduced and stated that his constituency knew him to be an earnest advocate for prohibition and voted for him for that reason.

Hon. Sisson delivered a long speech against the bill, after stating that he would vote for it and thus called down on his devoted head the fire of both parties.

Hon. Stone thought that the gentlemen from Adams, Hon. Baity had delivered a sermon, and caused that gentleman to turn pale and tremble at the, to him, thought. Hon. S. made strong points against those who opposed the bill and said the fight would go on after he had passed away.

Hon. Trobridge made a very few forceful remarks about listening to the pleading of lawyers, and allowed them to influence a man's judgment.

"The Schoolmaster is Abroad."—The question was asked at the association desiring information as to the origin of the title of this article. Here is The words were uttered by Lord Brougham, in a speech on the promotion of Wellington to the Premiership after the death of Canning. The connection in which they occur gives additional force to them, and many will be glad to see the whole paragraph in the midst of which the now familiar saying had its first setting: "Field Marshal, the Duke of Wellington, may take the army, he may take the navy, he may take the great seal, he may take the mint. I make him a present of them all. Let him come on with his whole force, sword in hand, against the constitution, and the English people will not only beat him back, but laugh at his assaults. In other times the country may have had cause to dismay that "the soldier was abroad." It will not be so now.
Let the soldier be abroad if he will, he can do nothing in this age. There is another abroad, a personage less imposing; in the eyes of some, perhaps, mischievous. The Schoolmaster is abroad; and I trust to him, armed with his primer, against the soldier in full military array.

We were well entertained as to our physical wants, as we always are at Red Cloud.

The Invale Sunday School held a concert last Sunday, which was very interesting, all taking a part, from the oldest to the youngest.

The literary society is increasing both in interest and numbers, also the order of Good Templars the same.

distaster.

The literary society is progressing finely, their next meeting is to be held at Wm. Gathers. The boys are developing astonishingly and it may be the means of some of them taking their way to the big house in the future.

The whisky vendors of Blue Hill are unhappy and fear the strong arm of the law. We hear some of them will go where the woodbine twines about the time court sits.

Yours truly,
MACK

INVALE ITEMS.

We went to Red Cloud Saturday and attended the Teachers Association but was disappointed at not finding the State Superintendent there as was expected, having a remount and gathering of that kind several years ago where we were highly entertained and instructed by our former S. S.
Prof McKenzie. But some of the exercises were interesting and instructive especially the lectures on Physiology.

It is just a year since I attended an Association until this one, and it seems to me they have not progressed in orthography at all. One of the teachers remarked to me that when they were disappointed in any part of the programme they always fall back on orthography. That is all right, it is a very important study, but why remain in the elements all the time?

The trouble is there is too much discussion on unimportant points, and that takes up the time.

physical wants, as we always are at
Red Cloud.

concert last Sunday, which was very
