

RED CLOUD CHIEF.

R. V. R. Time Table.

Table with columns for Station, Time, and Destination. Includes routes to Blue Hill, Inavale, and Bloomington.

CITY AND COUNTRY.

The corn crop in the Valley this season will be simply immense. Mr. Lutz is selling her summer hats at cost. Try G. W. Dow's forty cent tea. Nimbale Six-pence Grocery store.

Extra copies of the CHIEF for sale by I. O. Martin P. M., at Blue Hill. Who knows the indebtedness of this county? That's what we would like to know.

The bridge question up in Inavale is likely to be one of interest before it is settled. H. Stevenson, G. W. Knight and Mr. Harvey were among our callers last Monday.

The road bed of the R. V. R. R., in Webster Co., is assessed at $5,318 per mile. Mrs. Newhouse, wife of the new merchant like the CHIEF and takes it a year on trial.

The goods in the Post Office clothing store are being boxed for shipment back to Ashland. We have been to the country recently and was gratified with the splendid appearance of the crops.

Who is chairman of the county Republican Central Committee? Isn't it about time that gentleman was coming to the surface. Communications sent in for publication this week have had a poor show on account of the Blue Hill article. More room next week.

We had the pleasure of a call last Tuesday from Gen. J. C. McBride, ex-State treasurer, and editor of the Nebraska Farmer.

A mule team belonging to a farmer ran away in Red Cloud last Monday with the wagon, they collided with one of Uncle Sam's hitching posts and stopped. We feel called upon to announce that Red Cloud has not been swallowed up by an earthquake as yet, though in all probability it will be the next thing in order.

Robbery.—Last Monday night the clothing store of J. A. Jury was broken into and several suits of clothes purchased. The whereabouts of the thieves or the extent of the loss is not at present known.

When at Cowles the other day we were asked if any one was making brick for sale at Red Cloud, and the same inquiry has been put to us since, a number of times. If you have brick for sale, let it be known.

During the rain storm last Monday evening the building south of Mr. Richardson's house, known as the "Turkey ranch" was struck by lightning. No one was hurt and the building escaped with little damage.

A washout on the railroad between Cowles and Blue Hill last Monday evening caused a delay in the arrival of trains, and the mail that was due here on Monday evening did not arrive until Tuesday evening. The break has been repaired and trains are now "on time."

The fourth, the glorious fourth has again passed with its lemonade, tumult and noise. There was a large crowd of people at Red Cloud on the 4th, to hear Judge Gaslin orate and to see the fun, and all seemed to enjoy themselves hugely, which is highly proper on such occasions.

A little unpleasantness occurred on the evening of the 4th between the town Marshall and Mr. Zeiss, but no serious damage was done; one or two arrests were made, and in view of the fact that a law-suit or two will result, we refrain from commenting upon the occurrence for the present, and await future developments.

The Rev. (?) Patter writes in the Arrow again and says that when the CHIEF writes about him it is doing a good turn for the cause of Christ. We most heartily agree—every time a canting hypocrite is shown up in his true light the cause of Christ is surely benefited. The best part of it all is, the Rev. wants to work for the soul of the CHIEF.

Our columns are so crowded that we cannot publish the 4th of July address delivered by Judge Gaslin, as much as we would like to have done so. We do not wish to be understood as reflecting discredit upon the effort of the Judge, when we say that our readers lose nothing by it not being published, because, in the language of the illustrious sage, "They have read something like it before." Fourth of July orations are about the same everywhere, and have been for the last hundred years.

The annual meeting of the Red Cloud Cemetery Association will be held at the School House, July 15th at 7 P. M., 1879, for the election of officers for the ensuing year, to-wit: A Clerk, Treasurer, and one Trustee; and for the transaction of other matters of business that may be brought before the meeting.

At a meeting held at the meeting. J. M. Payne, Clerk.

PICTURES! PICTURES!!

Mr. Chaney has "pitched his tent" in Red Cloud and will remain a short time to supply those who are desirous of having good pictures. "Secure the shadow ere the substance fades."

LEWIS-TURN.—At the residence of the officiating clergyman in the city of Red Cloud, on the 4th of July 1879, by Rev. Geo. O. Yeiser, Mr. Dallas S. Lewis and Miss Susie Tuel, all of Webster Co., Neb.

LANDLEY-BIDDELL.—July 2d by Rev. Geo. Bent, Mr. Samuel Lindsay and Miss Adda Biddell both of Inavale.

Bro. Kenney, we understand, is building him a house, and we are negotiating the purchase of a place to live. Just think of it! the idea of the newspaper men owning the house they live in! Let's shake fraternal hands, let's bury the little hatchet of war ten thousand fathoms deep. The CHIEF will buy some new wearing apparel (if we can get trusted) and then we will all wear good clothes, and we'll buy a nickel's worth of peanuts in partnership and get on a "bust"! Whoo! we feel like swinging our old hat in the air and flaunting our tattered garments in the breeze.

Concerning Final Proof. A greater part of those who have filed a notice of their intention to make final proof, presume that they are compelled to be at the Land Office, to offer such proof, at the expiration of thirty days from the date of the "notice of publication." This is a mistake. They may appear at any time thereafter, provided the seven years limitation does not expire, at the expiration of thirty days. No proof will be heard or considered until the notice has been published five consecutive weeks, and an affidavit to that effect from the publisher is on file in the Register's office. Parties had therefore better not wait until the seven years has expired, but file their intention immediately after the five years has expired, and then offer their proof at any time during the next two years.—Smith Co. Pioneer.

Raspberries. About this time would take a corn knife and go over the rows cutting off the tips of the new growth. This keeps them within-bounds, causes them to throw out laterals and bear more freely, than if allowed to grow at will, when the fruit is in the proper time to clip the tips, in addition to causing the bushes to set more fruit buds they are kept of manageable size to be mulched for winter. Should these laterals grow more than 2 1/2 feet, it will be well to clip the tips of them.

The red varieties of raspberries must not be allowed to sucker too freely. Keep them in hills allowing but 5 or 6 canes to each. If allowed to grow a dense mass of bushes, but little fruit will be obtained. Those who grow only a small plot in exposed locations would do well to support them by staking or by stakes and light poles, or wires on each side of row.

This season the Furber is finest flavored of all, not quite as hardy as the Mammoth bushes but much better quality. After the middle of June, mulching with corn stalks, hay or straw is better than cultivators on small plots, retains moisture and keeps ground cool.

If it is desired to propagate plants from the Black Cap or Tip varieties, about August 1st or whenever the tips get woody, bend the bushes and set the tips 4 inches deep behind a spade. Plants are readily and rapidly propagated in this way but less fruit is obtained the next season. Blackberries need substantially the same care in clipping tips of new growth to stocky and fruitful. Do not allow them to become a dense mass of bushes. Keep in narrow rows for convenience in picking and greater fruitfulness. On approach of winter, mulch heavily with straw or hay. We find the Snyder most reliable.
