-Foremost among the promoters of "spelling reform" in England are Mr. Vanwyngaerdon Bikkers, Mr. Klaassen, Mr. Meiklejohn, Mr. Pagliardini and Dr. Schmitz, with a Mr. Arding for secretary. They probably feel the need of reform, and it is suggested they begin with their own names.

-Mr. Longfellow is known as a capital raconteur, and now and then tells with great zest a story on himself. A gentleman once remarked about the rudeness of Ruskin, believing it to be apocryphal, which prompted Mr. Longfellow to say that Mr. Ruskin, when introduced to him, drawled out: "Mr .-Long-fellow-you-know-I-bate-Americans," which had the effect of making him immediately feel at home. his surprise at this information, for, said nomenal child-actress. he, "I thought you were dead long
