Some of our exchanges are urging Hon. H. S. Kaley for speaker of the house of representatives. We would be pleased to see true merit thus honored, and the claims of the south-western portion of the state thus recognized, yet we can hardly hope for such a boon. There is another position, perhaps with less honor but nearly of equal importance, for which Mr. Kaley, by virtue of his legal ability, is preliminarily qualified, and that is the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee, by which he would be "speaker pro tem," in the absence of the speaker, and would be in position to be the legal light of the body, and where his voice could be heard on all important questions. —Neposus Banner.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U., held at Mrs. Levi Moore's, on Friday last, and the following officers elected for the ensuing year.

President—Mrs. George Bent, Mrs. R. D. Jones, Mrs. C. L. West.
Vice-Presidents—Mrs. S. Perkins, Mrs. W. B. Roby, Mrs. Ed. Kellogg, Mrs. S. Micks.
Secretary—Mrs. E. B. Warner.
Treasurer—Mrs. F. S. Sherwood.

In reviewing the work of this society for the past year, its members feel that though they have not accomplished all they could have wished, yet they have great reason for encouragement. We commenced with but few, our members have increased, the interest has also increased, and there seems to be a determination on the part of the members to work while there is work to be done, to drive the monster intemperance from our land.

Make home and the little ones happy, by laying their holiday gifts—both useful and pleasing.

BESLEY & PERKINS.

Large bottles, good medicine, is the reputation of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. It cures coughs and colds quickly. The price is only 25 cents and 50 cents a bottle.

Select your holiday presents from the stock of those dealers who advertise in the CHIEF, and you will get your money's worth.

TOYS! TOYS!! TOYS!!!
Besley & Perkins have a complete assortment of Toys and Christmas Goods. Come and see them.

Mr. Ed. Perkins and wife left for Chicago last Saturday morning, having been called there by the sudden death of Mrs. Perkins' only sister.

"Standing on the platform, waiting for the cars, a fine wintry night, was how he caught a severe cold. One bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup cured him."

BOYS AND GIRLS.
We offer you an immense variety of Toys, Skates and Christmas Goods, from which to select your holiday gifts. Call and see them.

It is generally conceded that A. Lauterbach makes the best bread to be found in town, and the secret of his success in the bread making line lies in the fact that he uses the superior flour, which is the best flour made, and is for sale only at Miner Bros. Call and get a sack and be convinced.

The CHIEF does not reach some of its readers as early this week as usual, owing to the fact that the publication was delayed somewhat, waiting for legal matter that failed to come to hand.

The repeal of the law requiring the publication of the delinquent tax list was only one of the many changes perpetrated upon the press and people of the state by the last legislature. We hope that the present legislature will see that some of the senseless and unjust laws passed by the last legislature are stricken from the statute books.

UNGRADED SCHOOLS.
Substance of Remarks by Prof. Makinson before the Teachers' Association.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—The theme which demands our attention is so comprehensive in its nature, that it requires more discretion in the selection of the sub-topics, for the present occasion, than deliberation upon the leading thought. In my remarks I shall adhere strictly to the primary department of our free schools.

The mixed school has some features which commend it more highly than any of the advantages of a graded school could possibly do. Children receive impression more readily from those near their own age, than from older persons. The influence of the teacher is more plainly perceptible when it is transmitted through example by the older pupils. This benefit is to some extent reciprocal. While the younger children are being profited by the experience and wisdom of the older ones, the latter have their manners and feelings toned down by their innocent associates.

Another advantage is derived from the gradual change from one course of study to another and the help derived from those who are in the higher classes.

I need not remind you of the fact, that comfort of body must precede the development of the mind, or that comfort cannot be procured without means, but I would entreat it upon your intellects, and that the very highest culture and refinement, true refinement, are as essential in the common ungraded school as in those of a higher order.

The adage—"As the twig is bent, the tree is inclined" meets with universal approval in language only. Our actions do not corroborate our words. While we own that it requires more talent, tact and deignance in the management of the younger scholars, we hold out every possible inducement—as increase of salary, honorable mention, etc., to "go up higher," and but little encouragement to remain in the low, so well begun, as though there were any more honorable or valuable services than those of the strictly primary teacher.

Our common school system is unique in its nature, it resembles a beautiful cone, but the cone is inverted.

If an unskilled pedagogue is permitted to guide the aspirations of the young, it is not probable that the more commendable desires will not be properly encouraged, and that the malevolent propensities will not be "properly pruned." And, in after life, as "Each fainter trace of memory holds In one broad glance the soul beholds, And all that was, at once appears," would it not be better for humanity, if we would foster, more tenderly, the "infant plant," to draw out the benevolent, and heroic affections, so that when the physical vigor of manhood or womanhood shall fall, the mind, grown strong in the pleasing discipline of youth,

"Sull o'er those scenes, in memory wake,
And fondly brood with wiser care,
And time the impressions stronger make,
As streams their channels deeper wear?"

Let us so deport ourselves toward the very young, in our charge, that the reflex shall not disturb our rest with accusations of delinquency, that his melo-dious light shall disclose a pleasing prospect, "the depth immense of endless gratitude."

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.
Proceedings of the Meeting Saturday.

The Webster County Teachers' Association met in Red Cloud, Nov. 27th, 1880. The following persons being present: Messrs. A. A. Pope, A. I. Funk, C. W. Springer, Fred Chaffee, J. C. Otis and John Makinson, Mrs. A. H. R. Dixon and Misses Elta Putnam, Jennie Pryse, Victoria Morton and E. W. C. Hawley.

The association was called to order at 11:30 A. M., Prof. Funk elected chairman pro tem, and an hour devoted to general remarks upon different subjects relating to teacher's work; school government was a topic which elicited some excellent suggestions. The teachers took a recess of an hour, and again met at 1:30 when they proceeded to the fulfillment of the regular program.

Mr. Springer favored the association with an address upon "Theory and Practice of Teaching," taking the department of class work as his special theme, he made a concise sketch of points which should receive the most careful attention in the plan of such work.

Mr. Chaffee followed with an address on "Geography." The gentleman has a clear idea of his subject, he believes in beginning with the solar system as a whole—then, taking the earth as a planet, dividing and sub-dividing. This plan led to the presentation of an opposite one and a discussion followed, both ideas, however, seemed to find favor. The clearness of Mr. Chaffee's blackboard illustrations was justly commended.

The consideration of the subject "Grammar in our Schools" was opened Mr. Otis who made some very appropriate remarks after which nearly all present took part in the discussion.

Mrs. Dixon followed with "Primary Teaching," speaking particularly of primary work in arithmetic, the lady evidently possesses two of the principal requisites of a primary teacher, viz: originality and tact.

Mr. Makinson closed the program by an address on "Graded Schools" presenting some strong arguments in favor of schools of that order.

Throughout the session, the teachers manifested an unusual interest and readiness to take part in the exercises and dispersed with the feeling that this meeting of the association had been a success.
