last Sunday.
Mr. Wm. Beacham and E. E. Rogers of Thomastown, were callers at these headquarters last Monday.
Mr. John Sablin, of Guide Rock was among those who called to renew their subscription last week.
Rev. Geo. O. Yeiser will preach at the Congregational church next Sabbath; morning and evening.
Mr. O. A. Russell, a legal light from the state of Ohio, has located here in the practice of his profession.
M. R. Bentley, we are glad to say, is slowly convalescing. He has had a long and severe spell of sickness.
W. W. Hoyer left this morning, having obtained a situation with Jones & Magee at Creston Iowa.
Mr. Geo. E. Coon, of Silver Cliff, Colorado, can't do without the CHIEF, he says, and consequently renews his subscription.
It was expected that Rev. J. M.
Fryse would return from Blue Springs this week to spend a few days with his family, but we have not learned of his arrival.
Mr. C. C. Coon was a pleasant caller at these headquarters last Tuesday.
He thinks that the present season will be a favorable one for the cultivation of the water melon.
Mr. E. C. Vanuiken, living in the north part of town, doesn't propose to be behind in the matter of improvements, he will soon have completed and ready for occupancy a fine new residence.
Mr. D. S. Coomb has recently completed a very nice little cottage in the north-west part of town. We are not at liberty to give the name of the fortunate young lady who will soon be his mistress.
Mrs. Fowler has just received from Chicago a large stock of the latest and most stylish millinery goods. Ladies will do well to call on her as a first class trimmer, is always in attendance, and satisfaction is assured.
We have but little use for money, and we have no desire to hoard up wealth, but we would be glad if a few of our subscribers whose subscription accounts have been running for two or three years, would come in and settle for the same.
We have received, through the courtesy of a former employee, Johnny Kewler, we suppose, a copy of the Jews city Post, a German paper, printed entirely in German. We have obtained a world of valuable information by the perusal of said paper.
The Plattsmouth Enterprise, under the management of H. M. Bushnell, is, in our opinion, as good a paper as that town has ever had. By the way, Deacon, have the girls put sand burrs in your bed since the good old days when "you and I were young."

WOMEN'S COLUMN.
This column is not meant for the use of the women of the country, and they all have the right to get the most in the discussion of any question of interest to the sex. The editor of this paper will not hold himself responsible for anything that may appear in this column, but he will give the views of the writers and opinions of correspondents.

On the Suffrage Question.
Before I address the meeting as I have been called upon to do I should like to hear a good argument against women suffrage, then I could rebut it, but at present and from my stand point, I cannot see why any one should oppose so just a proceeding.

I suppose there are men who have been educated from their youth up, to consider women as inferior beings, not knowing what is best for them, only as they are informed by the superior sex. It will be hard for them even to think of women as equal to them and probably they will never do anything to cause them to become so. But such men are few, they are old foggyish, they have not kept up with the times. One objection that some men bring forward is, that the women do not want the ballot. They do want it, they need it, and the nation needs it, that they should have it, and I hope Nebraska will do herself the honor of being the first state to give women the ballot. Many more will come to the state than will leave it on that account. There may be some women who will say they do not want to vote, they have been taught that it is un-ladylike, and will be a disgrace to them, and the teaching has been kept up by tyrannical brothers and husbands, 'til they believe it. But if there is any doubt of this desire for the ballot, a good plan would be to leave it to them, let them vote on it.
Their cause would be safe in their own hands.

The best, the most cultured and refined women in this state are working for it, and I believe the majority of the educated men are beginning to see the justice of it.
Why! An ignorant, indigent Irishman, who has only been in this country a few months, is of more importance politically, than the best educated, most wealthy woman in the state, just on account of his sex.

The women who own property, in their own name, have the same injustice met out to them, that caused the Revolutionary war—that is, taxation without representation.
A property qualification for voters of both sexes would be more just than the present state of things.
Another objection that I have heard is, that it would be of no use, every woman would vote the same as her husband or father did, and the result would be the same. I claim that it is not so, the majority of women of this day and age, have ideas of their own and do not depend upon the men of the family for their principles, and would be more conscientious about voting, than the average man, and they would inform themselves more thoroughly on such subjects, if it would be of use to them.

Women's refining influence is needed in politics, also her conscientiousness. Temperance workers realize this and will do what they can to procure it.
I think we can safely count on being able to help elect the next legislator.

It is a mystery to me that men fear this woman's suffrage so much, they talk about it being a horror and about being driven from the country by it.
A society has been formed in Grand Island to oppose that and high license, they give a reason for opposing high license, but none for the suffrage question.

It has always been conceded that a woman is the better-half. Now why is it they are so afraid of the ballot in her hands? Don't be afraid gentlemen, it will not make us so very vicious, only we may not feel very good towards those who work and vote against us, therefore it will be for your interest to do what you can for it.
I advise young ladies not to smile on gentlemen who oppose it. I also advise all gentlemen who have future political aspirations, to look well to their ways and work for it with all their might.

We shall gratefully remember our representatives who voted for it, as also all those who worked so faithfully for it in the last legislature.
Probably I shall find more to say on this subject in the future. BETSEY.

A WENDOTTE COUNTY MAN IN NEW MEXICO.
CONTINO CAVEN, ARIZONA, MAR. 24, 1881.
ED. CHIEF.—Thinking that your readers would like to hear from this, the south-western portion of this great American Republic, with a description of the country past through, its people, their mode of living &c.
Having left Red Cloud Jan. 24th, via E. & M. to Pacific Junction, where after a delay of five hours, we took the K. C. St. Joe & C. B. which lands us in Kansas City at 5 a. m. next morning; at 9:35, we board the A. T.
& S. F. for the west, which lands us in Albuquerque N. M. at 3 a. m. Sunday, Jan. 30.

While passing through Kan. we saw some very fine country in the eastern part; along the Kaw river we saw the finest timber that we have seen west of the Big Muddy.
After leaving Lawrence we strike the prairie, and believing ourselves to be a judge of a prairie country, we must say that the central portion of Kan. is the finest looking country that I have ever seen our good fortune to behold; the farmers premises speak of thriftiness, having seen some very fine orchards, hedges and highly cultivated fields at Grand Bend on the Kaw River we struck the cattle range, the cattle look'd as though they had gone in 'very poor, all along the line of the road we saw large bunches that had died from the effects of short pasturage and severe storms.

We saw nothing of any historical note until we reached La Animas Colorado, where we see Fort Lyon, situated on a very beautiful plateau, on the north bank of the Arkansas river and garrisoned by a detachment of the 6th U. S. Infantry.
At La Junta Junction (La Junta)
Col., we branch off for Santa Fe, Southern New Mexico and Arizona, after a run of 82 miles we reach Trin-dad, a Mexican town at the base of Raton Mountain, where a second Engine is attached to the rear of our Pulman to help us over the mountain, the first six miles either way from the top of the mountain has a grade of 187 feet to the mile, while at the top the train passes through a tunnel 2,700 feet long, which enveloped us in total darkness, ourselves enjoying the luxury of the smoking car, did not have an opportunity to make love to, or embrace any of our angelical traveling companions.

The mountain scenery is not as beautiful as fancy had painted it to my mind's eye, the gulches, gorges, rocks and hills and mountain pine, draws quite a contrast to old Nebraska's beautiful landscape; a full and correct description of this romantic country would test the mental powers of a genius. I leave a more graphic description to you or some other celebrated person that may wander this way.

THE MEXICANS AND THEIR HOUSES.
The Mexicans are as a general thing a dirty indolent set of beings, and I should judge that the lower class were several grades below Nebraska Indians. Their occupation in winter seems to be to pack in small packs of Pinor on their burros which they sell for 25 cents and spend the money for poor whiskey. I believe the Mexican and burro to be closely allied to each other, as one seems to be about as ambitious as the other, the burro is a small animal of the Jack specie, and for a more accurate description, would say I should think him to be a cross between Squire Harvey's little white mule, and a jack rabbit.

Mexicans all live in adobe houses, built on the same principal of the sod houses of Nebraska, covered with dirt and plastered with adobe; I judge them to be more tidy and a better house than the sod. All Mexicans little and big, old and young sleep on the ground.

The next day after my arrival at Albuquerque three Mexicans—some of the murderers of Col. Potter of the geological survey—was arrested, one of them confessed that on the 5th day of last October five of them met Potter in the Zandia mountains 18 miles east of Albuquerque, he made some inquiries in regard to the road, they misdirected him, and by a short cut they came in ahead of him, and fired upon him from an ambush, killed him and his horse, robbed and burned his body. On Jan. 31st, three of them was brought into Albuquerque and lodged in jail, that night about 40 men took them out of jail and hung them. Now let us draw a contrast between justice in Nebraska and justice in New Mexico.
While in New Mexico three illiterate half civilized beings are strangled to death for the murder and burning of one man, in Nebraska, Olive, with refinement and wealth, invests $20,000 in the Supreme Court and goes scot free, so much for civilized Nebraska and uncivilized New Mexico. Let your readers be the judge which is the best way to dispose of man burners.

Now, Mr. Editor, if this article does not find an ignominious death in the waste basket, at some future time I may write something concerning Arizona. Respectfully,
D. G. HARVEY.

Dr. R. J. Kendall & Co., (Kendall's Spavin Cure) Having a valuable and speedy horse which had been lame from spavin for some time, I tried your Spavin Cure, which in six weeks restored all lameness and enlargement, and I have a handsome horse for over a year, and am sure to be a better horse than any other I have ever owned. The only horse I ever owned that was cured of spavin.
