

THE TRUE TEST.

The Merit of Religion, Government, Person and Things Must Be Tested upon a Basis of Worth.

Some Truths Illustrating this, and Testimony of Value to All Readers.

(Continued from Page 1.)

The true test of any religion is the effect it produces upon the lives of those who profess it.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

It is not the number of converts, or the extent of its influence, or the power of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents, or the number of its converts, or the number of its adherents.

Our Young Readers.

So she pulled out the drawer and dragged it into the middle of the room.

When grandpa came in next morning to call the little girl she was very much alarmed, yawning, of course.

"What shall we do?" exclaimed the frightened mother.

"Consult our physician at once," papa was saying, when the sound of their voices caused Lizzie to open her eyes.

"Oh papa! mamma!" she said, before trying to get out of the drawer.

"Each looked at the other in astonishment."

"Tell me, grandpa," she continued, reaching her little pink-colored foot over the edge of the bureau drawer.

"Has the world got turned over?"

"Yes," returned the indulgent mother, "but you must not murmur during the hour, or in any way be unkind to papa."

"I'll be the goodest little girl in the world, mamma, the very goodest," and Lizzie spun round and round.

"The low-spoken, 'Be quiet, dear,' by mamma, who was tying her bonnet in front of the large mirror, was answered by Lizzie's 'I'm so happy.'"

"Happy—happy—happy!" she kept repeating, stooping over the cradle where baby Fred lay fast asleep.

"Yes, dear," mamma once more said, "you must be quiet, rock the cradle, and be good for you and me."

"Going to school" meant for Lizzie what a journey through Wonderland.

"Over and over, until it did seem that grandpa's patience must be completely worn out, had Lizzie said:

"'Can't I go to school, why can't I?'"

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Donald G. Mitchell's giving a series of readings on English literature in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Vennor says that to all demands of the kind he has but one reply: "I do not lecture."

Miss Isabella Bird, the great-wings traveler, is described as a little, delicate-looking woman, who suffers from some spinal trouble, and who starts on a journey to the roughest and most remote regions whenever she feels particularly ill.

Dr. Swift, of Rochester, has announced his intention of going to Africa to observe the total eclipse of the sun on May 16 next year.

The success of Miss Anderson, who has been invited to sing at the Lyceum, has incited two other Louisville young women to attempt the same feat.

Suppe, the operatic composer, is very fond of death sublime, and his liveliest music is said to have been written in a room, the walls of which were painted with innumerable skulls and bones.

A recent London dispatch says: "The publication of the 'Reminiscences of Carlyle,' very little advance has been made in the collection of subscriptions for the proposed memorial to be erected in Scotland."

The ripiest peach is on the highest tree," says James Riley, James shows it to you, and you eat it in the bottom layer of the basket every time, and it is generally about nine shades too ripe.

Edwin Booth's first appearance on the theater stage was made in September, 1849, at the Boston Museum, in the little part of Trevel, in Gibber's version of 'Richard III.'"

An Eastern paper says that "Brush, the inventor of the electric light, could not borrow $500 at the rate of 10 percent, but he borrowed an amount of $1,000 per day."

"Why I said the patent medicine man 'did I' I saw the bill of that Dr. Fred's medicine, and I went to write a puff for me, and then said that anybody who once used my medicine would never use any other."

A woman in Elmira, N. Y., sent "a three-cent stamp for twenty-five useful articles," and received twenty-five points of useful information, one of which was a small fortune for a three-cent stamp.

A gentleman in New York met a rather 'uncertain' acquaintance the other day, when the latter said: "I have a question to ask you, and you must answer it for me."

France had never been so near extermination, "The people," as the historian Martin expresses it, "were no longer bathed in their sweat, but they were drenched in blood."

Many people think it economy to buy cheap food, and save in articles which really are more necessary than they believe.

It is rather romantic, the first meeting of the Baroness and young Bartlett. It seems he was a boy at Highgate School, and Lady Coutts was a girl at the same school.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Donald G. Mitchell's giving a series of readings on English literature in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Vennor says that to all demands of the kind he has but one reply: "I do not lecture."

Miss Isabella Bird, the great-wings traveler, is described as a little, delicate-looking woman, who suffers from some spinal trouble, and who starts on a journey to the roughest and most remote regions whenever she feels particularly ill.

Dr. Swift, of Rochester, has announced his intention of going to Africa to observe the total eclipse of the sun on May 16 next year.

The success of Miss Anderson, who has been invited to sing at the Lyceum, has incited two other Louisville young women to attempt the same feat.

Suppe, the operatic composer, is very fond of death sublime, and his liveliest music is said to have been written in a room, the walls of which were painted with innumerable skulls and bones.

A recent London dispatch says: "The publication of the 'Reminiscences of Carlyle,' very little advance has been made in the collection of subscriptions for the proposed memorial to be erected in Scotland."

The ripiest peach is on the highest tree," says James Riley, James shows it to you, and you eat it in the bottom layer of the basket every time, and it is generally about nine shades too ripe.

Edwin Booth's first appearance on the theater stage was made in September, 1849, at the Boston Museum, in the little part of Trevel, in Gibber's version of 'Richard III.'"

An Eastern paper says that "Brush, the inventor of the electric light, could not borrow $500 at the rate of 10 percent, but he borrowed an amount of $1,000 per day."

"Why I said the patent medicine man 'did I' I saw the bill of that Dr. Fred's medicine, and I went to write a puff for me, and then said that anybody who once used my medicine would never use any other."

A woman in Elmira, N. Y., sent "a three-cent stamp for twenty-five useful articles," and received twenty-five points of useful information, one of which was a small fortune for a three-cent stamp.

A gentleman in New York met a rather 'uncertain' acquaintance the other day, when the latter said: "I have a question to ask you, and you must answer it for me."

France had never been so near extermination, "The people," as the historian Martin expresses it, "were no longer bathed in their sweat, but they were drenched in blood."

Many people think it economy to buy cheap food, and save in articles which really are more necessary than they believe.

It is rather romantic, the first meeting of the Baroness and young Bartlett. It seems he was a boy at Highgate School, and Lady Coutts was a girl at the same school.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Donald G. Mitchell's giving a series of readings on English literature in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Vennor says that to all demands of the kind he has but one reply: "I do not lecture."

Miss Isabella Bird, the great-wings traveler, is described as a little, delicate-looking woman, who suffers from some spinal trouble, and who starts on a journey to the roughest and most remote regions whenever she feels particularly ill.

Dr. Swift, of Rochester, has announced his intention of going to Africa to observe the total eclipse of the sun on May 16 next year.

The success of Miss Anderson, who has been invited to sing at the Lyceum, has incited two other Louisville young women to attempt the same feat.

Suppe, the operatic composer, is very fond of death sublime, and his liveliest music is said to have been written in a room, the walls of which were painted with innumerable skulls and bones.

A recent London dispatch says: "The publication of the 'Reminiscences of Carlyle,' very little advance has been made in the collection of subscriptions for the proposed memorial to be erected in Scotland."

The ripiest peach is on the highest tree," says James Riley, James shows it to you, and you eat it in the bottom layer of the basket every time, and it is generally about nine shades too ripe.

Edwin Booth's first appearance on the theater stage was made in September, 1849, at the Boston Museum, in the little part of Trevel, in Gibber's version of 'Richard III.'"

An Eastern paper says that "Brush, the inventor of the electric light, could not borrow $500 at the rate of 10 percent, but he borrowed an amount of $1,000 per day."

"Why I said the patent medicine man 'did I' I saw the bill of that Dr. Fred's medicine, and I went to write a puff for me, and then said that anybody who once used my medicine would never use any other."

A woman in Elmira, N. Y., sent "a three-cent stamp for twenty-five useful articles," and received twenty-five points of useful information, one of which was a small fortune for a three-cent stamp.

A gentleman in New York met a rather 'uncertain' acquaintance the other day, when the latter said: "I have a question to ask you, and you must answer it for me."

France had never been so near extermination, "The people," as the historian Martin expresses it, "were no longer bathed in their sweat, but they were drenched in blood."

Many people think it economy to buy cheap food, and save in articles which really are more necessary than they believe.

It is rather romantic, the first meeting of the Baroness and young Bartlett. It seems he was a boy at Highgate School, and Lady Coutts was a girl at the same school.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Donald G. Mitchell's giving a series of readings on English literature in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Vennor says that to all demands of the kind he has but one reply: "I do not lecture."

Miss Isabella Bird, the great-wings traveler, is described as a little, delicate-looking woman, who suffers from some spinal trouble, and who starts on a journey to the roughest and most remote regions whenever she feels particularly ill.

Dr. Swift, of Rochester, has announced his intention of going to Africa to observe the total eclipse of the sun on May 16 next year.

The success of Miss Anderson, who has been invited to sing at the Lyceum, has incited two other Louisville young women to attempt the same feat.

Suppe, the operatic composer, is very fond of death sublime, and his liveliest music is said to have been written in a room, the walls of which were painted with innumerable skulls and bones.

A recent London dispatch says: "The publication of the 'Reminiscences of Carlyle,' very little advance has been made in the collection of subscriptions for the proposed memorial to be erected in Scotland."

The ripiest peach is on the highest tree," says James Riley, James shows it to you, and you eat it in the bottom layer of the basket every time, and it is generally about nine shades too ripe.

Edwin Booth's first appearance on the theater stage was made in September, 1849, at the Boston Museum, in the little part of Trevel, in Gibber's version of 'Richard III.'"

An Eastern paper says that "Brush, the inventor of the electric light, could not borrow $500 at the rate of 10 percent, but he borrowed an amount of $1,000 per day."

"Why I said the patent medicine man 'did I' I saw the bill of that Dr. Fred's medicine, and I went to write a puff for me, and then said that anybody who once used my medicine would never use any other."

A woman in Elmira, N. Y., sent "a three-cent stamp for twenty-five useful articles," and received twenty-five points of useful information, one of which was a small fortune for a three-cent stamp.

A gentleman in New York met a rather 'uncertain' acquaintance the other day, when the latter said: "I have a question to ask you, and you must answer it for me."

France had never been so near extermination, "The people," as the historian Martin expresses it, "were no longer bathed in their sweat, but they were drenched in blood."

Many people think it economy to buy cheap food, and save in articles which really are more necessary than they believe.

It is rather romantic, the first meeting of the Baroness and young Bartlett. It seems he was a boy at Highgate School, and Lady Coutts was a girl at the same school.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Donald G. Mitchell's giving a series of readings on English literature in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Vennor says that to all demands of the kind he has but one reply: "I do not lecture."

Miss Isabella Bird, the great-wings traveler, is described as a little, delicate-looking woman, who suffers from some spinal trouble, and who starts on a journey to the roughest and most remote regions whenever she feels particularly ill.

Dr. Swift, of Rochester, has announced his intention of going to Africa to observe the total eclipse of the sun on May 16 next year.

The success of Miss Anderson, who has been invited to sing at the Lyceum, has incited two other Louisville young women to attempt the same feat.

Suppe, the operatic composer, is very fond of death sublime, and his liveliest music is said to have been written in a room, the walls of which were painted with innumerable skulls and bones.

A recent London dispatch says: "The publication of the 'Reminiscences of Carlyle,' very little advance has been made in the collection of subscriptions for the proposed memorial to be erected in Scotland."

The ripiest peach is on the highest tree," says James Riley, James shows it to you, and you eat it in the bottom layer of the basket every time, and it is generally about nine shades too ripe.

Edwin Booth's first appearance on the theater stage was made in September, 1849, at the Boston Museum, in the little part of Trevel, in Gibber's version of 'Richard III.'"

An Eastern paper says that "Brush, the inventor of the electric light, could not borrow $500 at the rate of 10 percent, but he borrowed an amount of $1,000 per day."

"Why I said the patent medicine man 'did I' I saw the bill of that Dr. Fred's medicine, and I went to write a puff for me, and then said that anybody who once used my medicine would never use any other."

A woman in Elmira, N. Y., sent "a three-cent stamp for twenty-five useful articles," and received twenty-five points of useful information, one of which was a small fortune for a three-cent stamp.

A gentleman in New York met a rather 'uncertain' acquaintance the other day, when the latter said: "I have a question to ask you, and you must answer it for me."

France had never been so near extermination, "The people," as the historian Martin expresses it, "were no longer bathed in their sweat, but they were drenched in blood."

Many people think it economy to buy cheap food, and save in articles which really are more necessary than they believe.

It is rather romantic, the first meeting of the Baroness and young Bartlett. It seems he was a boy at Highgate School, and Lady Coutts was a girl at the same school.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Donald G. Mitchell's giving a series of readings on English literature in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Vennor says that to all demands of the kind he has but one reply: "I do not lecture."

Miss Isabella Bird, the great-wings traveler, is described as a little, delicate-looking woman, who suffers from some spinal trouble, and who starts on a journey to the roughest and most remote regions whenever she feels particularly ill.

Dr. Swift, of Rochester, has announced his intention of going to Africa to observe the total eclipse of the sun on May 16 next year.

The success of Miss Anderson, who has been invited to sing at the Lyceum, has incited two other Louisville young women to attempt the same feat.

Suppe, the operatic composer, is very fond of death sublime, and his liveliest music is said to have been written in a room, the walls of which were painted with innumerable skulls and bones.

A recent London dispatch says: "The publication of the 'Reminiscences of Carlyle,' very little advance has been made in the collection of subscriptions for the proposed memorial to be erected in Scotland."

The ripiest peach is on the highest tree," says James Riley, James shows it to you, and you eat it in the bottom layer of the basket every time, and it is generally about nine shades too ripe.

Edwin Booth's first appearance on the theater stage was made in September, 1849, at the Boston Museum, in the little part of Trevel, in Gibber's version of 'Richard III.'"

An Eastern paper says that "Brush, the inventor of the electric light, could not borrow $500 at the rate of 10 percent, but he borrowed an amount of $1,000 per day."

"Why I said the patent medicine man 'did I' I saw the bill of that Dr. Fred's medicine, and I went to write a puff for me, and then said that anybody who once used my medicine would never use any other."

A woman in Elmira, N. Y., sent "a three-cent stamp for twenty-five useful articles," and received twenty-five points of useful information, one of which was a small fortune for a three-cent stamp.

A gentleman in New York met a rather 'uncertain' acquaintance the other day, when the latter said: "I have a question to ask you, and you must answer it for me."

France had never been so near extermination, "The people," as the historian Martin expresses it, "were no longer bathed in their sweat, but they were drenched in blood."

Many people think it economy to buy cheap food, and save in articles which really are more necessary than they believe.

It is rather romantic, the first meeting of the Baroness and young Bartlett. It seems he was a boy at Highgate School, and Lady Coutts was a girl at the same school.

MUGGINS' SURPRISE PARTY.

One day last week Mrs. M. suggested that I carry my dinner at a restaurant.

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

MUGGINS' SURPRISE PARTY.

One day last week Mrs. M. suggested that I carry my dinner at a restaurant.

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

MUGGINS' SURPRISE PARTY.

One day last week Mrs. M. suggested that I carry my dinner at a restaurant.

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

MUGGINS' SURPRISE PARTY.

One day last week Mrs. M. suggested that I carry my dinner at a restaurant.

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"Oh, no!" she said, "I shall be very glad to do so, but I must have a dinner for you if you go."

"I shall be very glad to do so," I replied, "but I must have a dinner for you if you go."