R. A. Batty, of Hastings, and a disciple of Blackstone, was in town the forepart of the week, attending court. Last Saturday and Sunday were terrible wintry days for having had such nice weather be fore, besides if we were going to be hurried right into the midst of winter at once, but Monday and Tuesday, began to assume some of the former pleasantness, and prospects now are, that we may have quite a spell of nice corn husking weather yet. And we need it, as there is much corn to husk yet.

Jewelry at cost. I will sell jewelry for the next 30 days at cost, and don't you forget it. T. F. Moody, opposite Chicago Lumber Yard.

The Pettit wash machine seems to be the great attraction and excitement in Red Cloud now. It is becoming a matter of interest to the people to learn that a washing machine has at last been invented that children and young women can wash on with ease and speed and pleasure. Such a one is the Pettit, as we learn from every one that tries it, and some that do not. Davis sells territory.

The ladies of Red Cloud and vicinity will celebrate Thanksgiving by serving a dinner in the M. E. church. It will be a regular old fashioned, New England, thanksgiving dinner and they make the announcement thus early, that families may be induced to patronize thus as it will be cheaper than to cook their own thanksgiving dinner, and will also be helping the church, for what is made on that day is to be used to refurbish the church, which has been thoroughly renovated and needs some new furniture. There will be a dime social at the church on the evening of thanksgiving day.

We hear that the Riverton sufferers have in custody, a man whom they think can convict of the crime of setting the fire, which made so many of them homeless, and out on the big wide world all alone. If the guilt could be proved the halter training would probably exert the most benign influence in all respects of anything that could be done. Such demons in human shape should not go unthrottled. The world is getting too full of them and the old law seems to have lost quite too much of its "terror to evil doers."

Work and low prices are the best references. I can give you both of these and sell you the only reliable wind mill made, the old Eclipse. You don't have a loose rattling wheel full of joints and nuts, in other mills, and I will make the price less than you will pay for inferior goods.

A PROPOSITION TO WEBSTER COUNTY.

LAGRANGE, IND., Nov. 10th, 1882. Replying to yours of the 6th will say I have sold my factory and will locate in Webster county on the following conditions:

They put up a building at a cost of not exceeding $500. I will furnish all the machinery and pay them 8 per cent interest on the cost of the building the first year, and the second year 8 per cent, and at the end of the second year, I pay full amount of cost of the building and the building becomes mine until that time the building theirs.

I want the milk from at least 300 cows, pledged for two years, delivered at the factory. I will furnish everything in the manufacture of the cheese, furnish boxes, box the cheese and deliver when sold to nearest R. R. station (not to exceed ten miles) for 25 per cent of sales for 300 cows.

If the milk of 400 or more cows is secured, I will make as above for 25 per cent of sales. I want every farmer that subscribes cows to pledge himself to say me $5 per cow, for each cow he has to furnish. If he fails to furnish the number he subscribes.

The reason of this pledge is this, when I came here a great many pledged me from 10 to 25 cows simply to get me to locate here, and never furnished a cow; the result was I lost about $600 the first season.

Now if when we started there had been only 20 or 30 cows short of the number I would never say a word, but where it falls 300 short, I should want some redress. If a man was sick or something of that kind, I should not call on him. All I ask is a guarantee that I will have the number of cows I am pledged. This plan of conducting a cheese factory, gives the best satisfaction of any plan I have ever seen tried, as it puts the manufacturer on equal footing and gives the patron the benefit of all high prices, and vice versa.

(Concluded next week.)

SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION AT RIVERTON, NOV. 20. REV. J. W. OSBORN, CONDUCTOR. Opens on Saturday at 10 a. m. Essays, discussions, etc., by good writers and speakers. On Sunday at 9 a. m. Social meeting, Sabbath school, and sermon by Rev. Osborn of Fremont. Every body is invited to attend and make the convention one of mutual profit and interest. Local Com. Riverton November 7th, 1882.

SENTIMENTS.

About 6 weeks ago we were at one of sessions of the Congregational association held here, and were exceedingly pleased as well as interested, and benefited by the sentiments expressed by several, and while we listened to the suggestions made, by which the influence of the pulpit, or the occupants of it might be more widely extended we could not resist the conviction that the press, might be made the medium of leading the most benign influence into the families of our various communities. For instance let a half column of our weekly papers be occupied by the Sabbath school representative either committee for the purpose, or pastor. Or superintendent. Matter wisely selected and arranged in this way would be interesting and profitable to many families and children who do not, and can not well otherwise enjoy Sabbath school instruction. And the same may be said of the preached gospel, and in this issue we have in our paper the publication of epitomized sermons. Our copy this week is supplied by Rev. Harris of Presbyterian church of Red Cloud and vicinity. We deem the printed word more enduring than the spoken, and the press more potent in its influence than the pulpit, because of the more enduring, and far reaching nature of the sentiments promulgated, and are glad to be able and willing to lend the aid of our press to accomplish what is commonly conceived to be the mission of the pulpit, or its occupants. To do good, love and practice justice and influence others to do likewise, are the noblest aspirations of a lofty, and virtuous humanity, and if spoken, or printed thought, or word of ours shall influence a single fellow mortal to higher, or holier aspirations and achievements, then shall our labors not have been in vain, nor our efforts abortive. In this connection allow to suggest that the crying need of the age and the times is intelligent, faithful, persistent, candid, serious thought, and independent faithfulness to the fair conclusions of such thought. Attain to this estate, fellow mortal, and our opinion for it, then will find peace of conscience, and happiness of soul.

OBITUARY EQUINE.

Our "Lady White Stocking's," has "passed in her checks." She probably died of a broken heart in consequence of the defeat of the proposed constitutional amendment, and the astounding success of the democratic party.
