The good people of Amboy and vicinity got up a tree on Saturday evenng. Dec. 23, on which there was a fine display of things substantial and otherwise, and which was altogether, an enjoyable affair. The Rev. Mr. Young was the recipient of some valuable Will school officers and those who presents from the tree, and some money contributed by those present. The tions are at the court house on the their display on Monday evening at first Saturday of every month, at no the school house in district 24. Their other place and no other time unless tree was loaded with presents, and publicly advertised, there will be no made a very fine show, but the house need of misunderstandings hereafter. | was crowded so uncomfortably full as The state superintendant has called to detract somewhat from the enjoy meeting of county Supts. at Hastings | ment of the occasion. The Willow Dec. 28. Questions of vital impor- creekers also in a substantial manner tance in the school system of our state remembered their preacher, Rev. Jacob Hockett.

While there is much to commend our way of distributing presents, from a Christmas tree, there is one custom against which I protest; a custom which committees of arrangement might generally prevent. I allude to the custom of making sport for the many at the expense of a few, by giving such presents as are neither needed nor desired. For example, presenting very diminutive garments, no large enough for anything but a small doll, to parties who have no doll, nor any need of one. The excuses for it ese" "it is so funny," "kindly intended" or that it is so "suggestive." Suggestion of my own happy(?) feelings when I was the recipient of a small swit for which I had no earthly use, and was not likely to have. Years have passed and the fair doners are widely seperated, one living in a distant state; while have a small garment carefully laid away,-not as a sad reminder of a Clothing, Blankets, Bed Comforts, loved little one departed,-but as a mements of days when friendships were formed which I would not have beoken. If they were a little naughty, I freely forgive them, feeling that they would not intentionally inflict pain on any one for the amusement of others; and should either of them chance to read this, I wish them to know that this is written in a kindly spirit, with a wish to discourage the habit in others

Such sport is akin to that which boys sometimes enjoy when they tie an old oyster can to a dog's tail-"just for fun." I have firmly resolved that if ever a dog comes to me with an ovster can and a string in his mouth, and lays them down at my feet, then turns around and by unmistakable signs, indicates that he wants me to tie the can to his tail, I'll do it; but not under any other circumstances.

I am reliably informed that they had a magnificent tree, and a very pleasant time at Cowles on Christmas night, winding up with a dance. The people of Cowles usually make a suc-
