THE CHIEF.

M. L. THOMAS, - - Editor.

FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1883.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR waited until Susan B. Antuony went to Europe and then fired her brother out of the Leavenworth postoffice.

THE Missouri Legislature has passed a license law which requires the saloon keeper to furnish with his application for license a petition from a majority of the assessed tax-paying citizens in the block or square in which the dram-shop is to be kept, asking for such license to keep a dram-shop in such block or square in such town or city. This gives women a voice on the question.

THE jury in the slander suit of Helen M. Gougar, editor of Our Herald, and public lecturer on woman's suffrage, against Henry Mandler, chief of police, brought in a verdict assessing the damages at $5,000. It was alleged by the defendant that Mrs. Gougar had been seen in the law office of Captain Dewitt Wallace, a prominent politican and attorney. The defendant pleaded justification, and the trial was a bitter one, lasting eleven weeks. The defendant moved for a new trial.

IN commenting on the speech of Senator Van Wyck, criticising the administration of the department of justice, the Sedalia (Mo.) Register says: "This country cries out in deep distress for a few score of such men as Van Wyck to stand in the halls of the nation's capital and fight back the hungry, snapping packs of greedy wolves, who have gained access to the treasury through the suffrages of the people, and are using muscle, brain and blood-thirsty determination to devour the very vitals of our government. What a pity that we can't have more men in congress like those from the far west." The same paper says: "We would like to see a presidential candidate in 1884 from such timber as Nebraska seems capable of furnishing."

THERE will be a tremendous immigration from Illinois to Nebraska this spring, as is indicated by the following extract from the Inter-Ocean: "The wholesale exodus from central Illinois keeps up with undiminished vigor. To morrow morning from the little town of Emden, Logan county, twenty-seven families, including some of the most prominent people, will take up their journey for Nebraska, where they will colonize. They take a train of twenty cars of goods. On the 26th, a colony of 128 will leave Logan county. While in a fortnight 100 or more will depart in one body from Pontiac, Livingston county. It is estimated that the emigrants from five counties in this section will draw out of bank and take away with them over one million dollars."

THE Presidential party encountered so many annoyances incidental to ordinary tourists that the journey to Florida cannot be remembered with unmixed pleasure. To begin their list of inconveniences, on the day of departure and as lunch time drew near and with appetites whetted by new air, the travellers were preparing to enjoy the elaborate collation that had been ordered for the trip with so much care, to their great consternation and physical discomfort the victuals could not be found. By some blunder they had been sent to the White House instead of to the railroad station. Then, later, a conductor who had not been notified that his passengers were invited guests of the corporation insisted upon collecting their fares, thus subjecting the president of the United States to the humiliating emphasis of the fact that he was a dead head. The conductor was with difficulty brought to terms, but finally with reluctance agreed to defer collection until the authorities could be consulted. At night the car coupling broke, and the president's car was left miles behind the rest of the train before the accident was discovered. This delayed the train, and to surmount the climax, when they reached Jacksonville the people insisted on giving the president a public reception, the particular sort of thing that he was flying from Washington to avoid. He is the first president who was ever within the borders of Florida, and he may expect the curiosity of the people to catch a glimpse of him will amount to a panic. He was much disappointed to learn that his steps were to be dogged by newspaper men, and that his very uprising and downsitting was to be flashed electrically over the United States. He had actually in some moments of simplicity dreamed that he was going into retirement for a few weeks. He selected a secluded island in Kissime river for his fishing stand. He took with him the rules prepared by the Civil Service Commission which he will study carefully while waiting for the fish to bite. It is a spot accessible only to intruders that can swim.

Testimonials, Etc., Etc.

York, Neb. July 12th.

Mr. L. D. Fowler, fogeman for L. Cahill & Co., completed his work in York county, and with his corps of salesmen has gone to Aurora to continue his work in Hamilton county. Since the 9th of May these gentlemen have sold 290 plow carriages and fifty-seven corn plows, from this point, a good indication that they are handling good goods, and know how to handle them. But a better evidence of both is the fact that no complaint has been heard, either of the men or the machines, but those who have purchased are well satisfied with the machine, and pleased with the fair and gentlemanly methods of the agents, who made many friends in York county. Mr. Fowler is an energetic and competent business man, and his agents seem to be made of the same kind of material. We heartily commend them and their machines to the people of Hamilton and adjoining counties.—York Times.

Mr. L. D. Fowler, foreman for L. Cahill & Co., manufacturers of Sulky Plows, Carriages, Corn Plows, etc.—This is to certify that I have thoroughly tested one of the Cahill plow carriages, and bought one of Mr. A. H. Keyes; one of your salesmen. I plowed in the ground, when I could not plow with the Buford Sulky plow. We took the same plow off the Buford and attached it to the Cahill carriage, plowed in the same ground where I had tried to plow with the Buford sulky, and it did number one work. I was surprised after giving the Cahill a trial to see how easily handled, and so much lighter draft. I consider this carriage is what every farmer needs, and will buy, if they give it a trial.

MICHAEL McKENNA

Dated Adanas Co. Neb., Sept. 20, 1882.

Sept. 23rd, 1882

Mr. L. D. Fowler.—Dear Sir. I have been in the country thirteen years and have bought of the Cahill plow carriages, of your salesmen Mr. Connor, and I have used it about two months, and I consider it all or more than recommended, and I can without hesitation recommend them to all farmers in this and adjoining counties. Can work any style of plow on the carriage, including plows of all heavy sulkies, and can run them nearly a horse lighter.

W. E. TYLOR.

Doniphan Neb., Sep. 20th 1882.

Mr. L. D. Fowler. This is to certify that I have bought one of your sulky carriages, of your salesman, A. P. Frantz. I put my old Crosby sulky plow on it. I found it ran a horse lighter than my old one. I think it one of the best plows I ever saw. I can recommend it to all farmers. I bought the carriage July 28th, 1882.

S. WHITE.

Doniphan Neb., July 30th 1882.

Mr. L. D. Fowler. I have this day tried one of your sulky plow carriages, and tried my Corey plow on it, and I am satisfied that it runs a half horse lighter than any other, and does as good work otherwise. I was well pleased, and bought one. C. C. LYON.

Adams Co., Neb., Sept. 23 1882

L. Cahill & Co., Gents.—This certifies that I witnessed a trial of the Cahill sulky attachment and bought one of Mr. O. D. Smith (one of their sales men) and know it to be correct. I was perfectly surprised at the work in such hard ground, as will every farmer be who sees it tested. My son is using it and is well pleased with it in every respect. Several men have told me they can plow with it where they cannot with any other J. W. FOOTE.

News For All.

We are now in full blast on our brick yard, turning out 8000 brick per day, of good quality. Having an experienced molder and burner, we intend to give satisfaction to our numerous customers throughout the country, and hope you will call and see us when you are in need of brick.

Respectfully,

37 t2 W. H. LUDLOW & SON.

To the Farmers of Webster and Adjoining Counties.

As the firm of L. Cahill & Co., manufacturers of sulky plow carriages and corn plows are located at Red Cloud for the purpose of introducing their carriages, they desire us to state through the columns of our paper that they are here to do a straight business. It has been reported by dealers here that they sell at diferent prices, which is untrue. This firm is perfectly responsible; they are quoted in Dun's commercial report, of New York, from three to five hundred thousand dollars. They ship nothing but car lots, send their own teams and men, doing away with the middle man altogether. It has further been reported by parties at Red Cloud that they were offered the same sulky at eighteen dollars. This firm never sold to any dealer, nor offered to sell. They always have done all their own business.

This carriage is made of wrought iron and the best of timber and can be used either on right or left hand wood or iron beam two or three horse plow, also attach double corn plow to same carriage at the small expense of twelve dollars.

A card from a party at Hastings who bought a carriage, October 4th 1882.

L. D. Fowler, foreman for L. Cahill & Co.

Dear Sir:

There is a man here that wants one of your attachments; he will pay $36.00 cash; if you can send one up to-night I will let him have it; his name is Thos. Shaw, he bought one of you last fall.

Yours,

April 15th, 1883. C. J. ALEXANDER.

THE case against Dick Liddel, a notorious member of the James gang, who was convicted at the last term of the United States court of conspiracy to rob, sentence being then suspended, was called last week. Judge Bruce released Liddel upon his personal recognizance. This is regarded as a settlement of the case. Liddel is free and can now testify in Frank James' trial in Missouri. All efforts to have Liddel pardoned by the governor proved unavailing, but his release under the circumstances virtually removes the probability of his being imprisoned on the charges which convicted him.
