LOVE

BY ARD. THOMPSON.
Love sentimental I assert,
Is only but of small desert;
Yet more affection poorly shows
The mine of wealth that love bestows.

Like silk, the tender passion a string,
It endures much and suffers long;
And happy makes the little child,
And tames the savage force and wild.

The pearl love can only charm
The glowing life and keep it warm;
Mind this is no poetic whim,
But true of men as Bersaphim.

But know that love and life and light,
As uncreated, are of right;
Then we must them co-ordinate,
And unto God still relegate.

Love has no bounds of breadth or length,
Hence we may love with all our strength,
No height so high, no breadth so broad,
The word's the synonym of God.

In earth beneath, and heaven above,
The all of good's life, light and love,
Omniscience, Power, Benevolence,
Are here contained in largest sense.

No creature's love, no thing of breath,
But ever is more strong than death,
And the words "Omnis vincit amor"
Express far more than heathen glamour.

The love of father, and of mother,
The love of sister, and of brother,
The love of child, of husband, wife,
Inmate's indeed as love of life.

The love of neighbor, near in mind,
Is just the love of all mankind;
And gallant knight was ne'er afraid
To fight for's lady love, or maid.

A help-mate, or a wife must still
Be chosen as we can or will,
For better or for worse we may
And so it is that we may.

What suits us best God only knows,
But loving Him He will dispose
All for our good—then know dear friends
That all is well that just well ends.

Ye timid males fresh courage take
And of yourselves yet some use make;
Though Eve brought Adam once to shame
He was himself somewhat to blame.

You milder creature fair and tender
Denoted by another gender
Your dividend's our year of grace
Divide by four and wage your case.

Experience here's the only test
And most of husbands wives the best
Get still, then know the smallest number
Is badly suited. Please remember.

We give below a number of essays written and composed by scholars in the first intermediate department of the Red Cloud public schools. Miss E. A. Putnam, will have charge of the contributions:

DUCKS—A few years ago I had some ducks. They were white. There was a pond by the barn. They were paddling there in the water most all the day. They chased the pigs in the cornfield and I chased them out. Once a wolf caught the biggest duck, and my uncle shot the wolf. He got the duck but it was killed.

GOLD—Gold is a very valuable metal and is found in many different places. It comes from the Rocky mountains, California and Georgia. There are three qualities of gold, green, yellow and white. They make out of these three qualities of gold, watches, money, rings, bracelets, chains, watch charms, cuff buttons, collar buttons, pen holders, thinbles, napkin rings, and necklaces. Gold is so very soft that it is hardened with copper and iron. Copper when mixed with it makes it red; iron when mixed with it makes it blue. So gold is the most valuable metal in the United States.

JAY P. GENSLE, aged 12.
COFFEE—Coffee grows on a bush from five to ten feet high. The branches are almost to the ground. The plant stays green all winter. One bush will not bear more than a pound of coffee. When it is ripe they gather it and put it in a large room to dry. They scald it so it will not grow when it gets to our country. It has to have a moist climate to grow in.

SWEPT INTO THE STREAM. One Thousand Acres of Land and "Right Smart of Bears." On the deck of a big Mississippi steamboat stood an aged Southern planter. Indicating by a sweep of his arm the waters the boat was passing over, he said to a passenger from the north: "When I was twelve years old I killed my first bear on a new plantation my father was then cutting out of a forest that grew directly over the waters of this bend. That was a mighty good plantation, and there was right smart of bears there, too. But that one thousand acres of land went into the Mississippi years ago."

It is putting no strain upon the figure to say that great forests of youthful hope, womanly beauty and many strength are swept in the same way every year into the great turbid torrent of disease and death. Yet it should not be so. That it is so is a disgrace as well as a loss. People are largely too careless or too stupid to defend their own interests—the most precious of which is health. That gone, all is gone. Disease is simple, but to reckless or ignorant the simplest things might as well be complex as a proposition in conic sections. As the huge Western rivers, which so often flood the cities along their shores, arise in a few mountain springs, so all our ailments can be traced to impure blood and a small group of disordered organs.

The most effective and inclusive remedy for disease is Parker's Tonic. It goes to the sources of pain and weakness. In response to its action, the liver, kidneys, stomach and heart begin their work afresh, and disease is driven out. The tonic is not, however an intoxicant, but cures a desire for strong drink. Have you dyspepsia, rheumatism, or troubles which have refused to yield to other agents? Here is your help.
