The Oldest Magazine in America

Although every one knows of Godfrey's Lady's Book, it is not generally known that it is the oldest publication in America. Established in 1830, it has outlived all other magazines, and might with propriety be called the mother of magazines of this country. Gray-hair men and women remember it as an entertainer when their hearts were young, and young people associate with their first introduction to stories of romance. And the rising generation find it as pure and interesting did its parents, ay, its grandparents did in days of "Auld Lang Syne." It is an old and well-remembered landmark in our American literature, and we doubt not that many of our readers will recall with its pleasant memories of other days. The young editor and proprietor who now publishes it, has evidently determined that all who seek to renew their acquaintance with the old favorite shall not be disappointed. As viewed mechanically it is excelled by none, while its corps of literary contributors includes many of the best known names of magazine writers. It certainly speaks well for it and our people, that notwithstanding the enormous efforts made by the publishers of the numerous "penny dreadfuls," it finds such a large patronage, not only in America, but all over the world. Although its low subscription price ($2.00 a year) may somewhat influence its large circulation, we are inclined to ascribe its popularity to intrinsic merit, and we most cordially bid the old book God-speed on its second half-century.

BULWER LYTON'S BRIDGE.

Where it Touches the Shores and the Great Columns in Midstream.

"What a beautiful bridge between old age and childhood is religion. How intuitively the child begins with prayer and worship on entering life, and how intuitively, on quitting life, the old man turns back to prayer and worship, putting himself again side by side with the infant," remarks Sir E. Bulwer Lyton, in his "Strange Story."

Yes, but between its distant abutments the bridge of life has many high and awful arches, through which the wild waters dash and roar in wrath and desolation. Prayer and worship alone do not sustain these. Nature's solid rocks must lie unshaken beneath, and human art and skill must rear and solidify the structure overhead. God's will is best exemplified in the laws He has made for the creatures whom He has placed under their control. Neither the child's truthful "Our Father," nor the old man's "Forget me not, in the midst of mine infirmities" will alter this by the weight of a single grain.

Science and art first—then faith and prayer—is the order of Heaven itself. Divinity heals through its agents, and those agents are the discoveries of man; not the vague announcements of prophets or seers. Is life a burden to you? Does time drag? Is your power to cope with life's problem and duties weakened. You are not well. Your blood is sluggish and tainted, perhaps; or some organ is torpid or overworked. This fact may have taken the form of dyspepsia, rheumatism, gout, malaria, pains in the stomach, chronic headache, or any of a dozen other ills. Parker's Tonic will invigorate you, as fresh air invigorates those who have been shut up in damp, fetid cells. It is powerful, pure, delicious, scientific—the keystone of the central arch of the bridge of life.

"Acme" Pulverizer

How rarely does a farmer contemplate a newly harrowed field with satisfaction? He walks over it and sees here and there seed uncovered; here a furrow slice untouched because the surface was not quite level, and there a bunch of stubble drawn into a heap having dragged the soil and seed before it for yards. He shakes his head sadly and wishes there was a harrow that would do the work perfectly: leveling the rough places; breaking up the clods, and not only pulverizing the soil, but turning it over the seed so that this is all covered to an even depth and without waste. But the farmer who uses the "Acme" Pulverizing Harrow, Clod crusher and leveler has none of the sadness and disappointment for his fields are leveled and mellowed and smoothed and the seed properly covered. Fall plowed ground especially needs this perfect work which is done quickly and without the need of any sowing plowing. This also is a good cultivator until the corn is above twelve inches in height.
