CURRENT COMMENT

The Chicago opera house managers have discontinued the use of lithographic advertisements.

At Albany, N. Y., recently the House passed a resolution instructing the Attorney General of the State to take the necessary steps to set aside and annul the franchise of the Broadway surface road.

It was stated in London that Mr. Gladstone was preparing a bill providing for the expropriation of land in Ireland by means of State funds. This bill will precede the other Irish measures which the Government intends to present to Parliament.

At a meeting of the House Committee on Invalid Pensions recently it was agreed that the bills extending the arrears of pensions acts, should be reported to the House. Three reports will be made—two recommending the extension of the arrears until 1888; another extending it so as to include all applications on file at the present time, and the third will be adverse on both of these propositions.

PRINCE KRAPOTKINE, the anarchist, delivered a lecture in the Salle Levis, Paris, the other evening. He predicted a revolution at the end of the century which would sweep away government, permanent armies, religion and all abuses interfering with the liberty of subjects. He avoided political allusions. His speech was applauded. He was followed by Louise Michel, who delivered a similar address.

A WASHINGTON special says: It is stated seventy-five thousand Italian women, girls and men are held in bondage in this country, and that the number of girls imported for immoral purposes, is increasing yearly. Testimony to that effect will be offered before the House Labor Committee, and it will be averred that Italians high in position in this country are the men who profit by these practices.

The total values of the imports of merchandise during the twelve months ended January 31, 1886, were $660,749,374, and during the twelve months ended January 31, 1885, $617,172,414, an increase of $43,576,960. The values of the exports of the merchandise during the twelve months ended January 31, 1886, were $665,676,776, and during the preceding twelve months $750,309,405, a decrease of $90,222,629.

In the Lower House of the Diet at Berlin recently, in the debate on the second reading of the Polish bill, Herr Wirsbinski passionately denounced the projected German colonization of Poland. He declared that Poland would not perish although a life or death struggle was imposed upon her. Minister Lucius said that the bill was an act of necessity and self-defense. The Poles, he said, were unwilling to become Prussian subjects, and dreamed of a restoration of Poland, although they owed their prosperity to Prussia.

The iron bridge over the Mississippi at Keithsburg, Ill., built by the Phoenix Bridge Company, of Philadelphia, for the Central Iowa Railway Company, was completed the other day. It consists of one draw-span, three hundred and sixty-five feet long, and eight fixed spans. Total length, two thousand and fifty feet on masonry piers. This is one of the most substantial bridges over the Mississippi river and places the Central Iowa road on an equal footing with the trunk lines in competition for business and to both Peoria and Chicago as far north as St. Paul and Minneapolis.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN, President of the English Local Board, was visited recently by a deputation of unemployed workmen, who stated their grievances and asked what the Government meant to do to relieve the prevailing distress. Chamberlain deprecated riots and all similar forms of disturbance to manifest the need of help. He said he was opposed to emigration as a means of relief unless the distress was chronic. This opposition was based on many grounds, not the least of which was the fact that the colonies would refuse to welcome large numbers of paupers, because among other reasons their influx would cheapen the labor market. Chamberlain added that he hoped the Government would soon be able to establish the British laborer upon the soil he tilled.

An association was incorporated in Washington recently under the name of the Clerks' Beneficial League. It is composed of Government clerks, and its object is to assist discharged clerks by giving to each two hundred dollars when removed. The association was formed a year and a half ago, but was not incorporated because of the change in the administration, the projectors being fearful that it would not succeed on account of the sweeping discharges that were expected. The present administration's policy has been so conservative in that respect that it was thought safe to go ahead. Each member is required to pay an initiation fee of two dollars, and whenever a member is discharged a sufficient sum to make up the two hundred dollars is assessed upon the remaining members. Branches will be established in all the large cities for the post-office and custom districts.

THE RIGHT OF REMOVAL.

Views of the Minority of the Senate Judiciary Committee on the Question of Removal from Office.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The minority report of the Senate Judiciary Committee on the issue as to the right of removal from office, and embodies the resolutions, Mr. Fugh asked that the report be printed and placed on the calendar, and it was not read in the Senate. The report says that when President Cleveland came into office he found about 95 per cent of the offices filled by Republicans appointed as a reward for party services. The party to whom the President owed his nomination and election had been excluded from all participation in the civil administration of the Government for nearly a quarter of a century, and the friends and supporters of the President made application for a redistribution of the public trusts. No other President had ever been subject to such a severe trial of his ability to select his cabinet and his other officials, and when an appointment was made, it was not made by the President, but by the party to whom he owed his nomination and election.
