At the next meeting of the board of supervisors there will be some action taken in regard to the county jail probably. The county jail is something that is sadly needed in this county and ten thousand dollars will build a good one.

Needles, 1 cent per paper, pins 1 cent per paper, thread 1 cent per spool, suspenders 5 cents per pair and the best thread in the world 2 spools for 5 cents is the way they sell goods at Young's C. O. D. Emporium, Moon block.

The Chief believes that the county board ought to take some action towards building a poor house. The county owns a good farm and it is a shame to have the expense going on for the care of the poor, when a good comfortable place could be provided on the farm for at least one half the money now expended for the same purpose.

The M. E. church has decided to have a Christmas entertainment different from the usual routine tree. They calculate to have an entertainment, the make up of which will be to make a donation for the poor. This is a sensible move on the part of the church, and the donations thus made will have the effect of making more hearts glad than all of the usual gift entertainments of the kind.

Owing to the recent break in our press which delayed THE CHIEF several days, we have been unable to catch up so as to get our papers over the country by Saturday, but by next week we hope to be out on time.

The little panorama, "after moonlight" in the west end, the other night was considerable fun for unwilling bystanders. There was said to have been a dreadful rustling of dry bones, it was so very sudden, you know.

F. P. Shields of the Blue Hill Leader who was arrested some time since for criminal libel at the instance of Geo. Burr of the Times-Winner, had his case called up in court this week and after a slight argument the court decided that Mr. Shields should be released on his own recognizance in the sum of $300. We presume this will ultimately settle the case, anyhow until the March term of the District court.

The agitation of the American people over our presidential term of four years is well timed. The four year rehearsal of our great political drama's most too often to keep the country in good condition financially and otherwise. The proper method would be for the coming congress to make the term eight or ten years. This would obviate the great political strife between contending parties. The agitation should be kept up until the question is finally settled and the term lengthened.

The saloon at Campbell was raided last Saturday night by Campbell people and the entire thing gutted from A to izzard. The citizens of that place do not intend to be fooled with on the whisky question.

THE CHIEF hopes the people of this city will at least try to be enterprising and make an effort to get a bonafide railroad company to agree to build into this city. This wild cat railroad business is all nonsense as it appears, and as we have had one or two deals of the kind, it is time now to turn our attention to something tangible. Within the next thirty days is the time to go after roads if we are ever to procure any. Will our people act in regard to this matter at once, and try and do something for Red Cloud? Red Cloud must be up and doing.

While Geo Starkes was returning from his sister's wedding on Monday night two fellows jumped onto him near the 4th avenue hotel and beat him very seriously over the face and head. Both of his eyes were blacked, his forehead and lips badly cut, besides being otherwise injured. Mr. Starkes as far as we can learn is a very peaceable young man, and the only cause for his treatment he thinks lays in the fact that he is working for the B & M railway in the place of some of the old employees who are out on a strike, the two men who pounded him being strikers as he alleges. He swore out warrants for their arrest on Tuesday. THE CHIEF has not much to say in the matter, but deprecates in unmeasured terms such conduct as shown by the two men in picking up a quarrel with a man who is not the equal in strength of either one of his assailants, and they should be severely dealt with for the act, which was decidedly cowardly and unbecoming if we have the facts correctly. THE CHIEF is opposed to lawlessness, let it come from whatever source it may.

The junior Latin class is progressing thoroughly and rapidly under the instruction of Prof. Curran.

Miss Myrtle Hines is missed from our school owing to a slight attack of fever. We hope she will soon be well and with us again.

No visitors this week would seem to indicate that the public is not as much interested in educational matters as the importance of the latter demands.

Prof. Curran gave a talk on short methods of multiplication and division Thursday morning which was enjoyed by all the pupils. The Prof. also conducts the geometry class on Friday afternoon but owing to his visit to the first ward school last Friday, Miss Thomas conducted the class as usual.

Miss Lulu Barber is not attending school at present, on account of a very sad accident that befell her brother. We are sorry to lose Miss Lulu as our schoolmate, but hope she may soon be able to return to our school.

A new ordinance in regard to "whispering" has been passed which we think will prove successful. It provides as follows: Whispering first time a reprimand; second time, ten minutes standing on the floor; third time the parents of the pupil to receive a written notice of pupils misconduct.

The philosophy class appreciates the new apparatus and has already derived some good from it. Prof. Curran explained very nicely the principles connected with the hydraulic press using the lift and force pumps in connection of the same.

The Friday afternoon exercises were conducted as usual, the most important feature of which was the excellent rendition of "The Curfew must not ring tonight" by Miss Rachel Letson. After the exercises Miss Hulbert gave a very pleasant talk on "Duty," which was highly appreciated.

Next Friday evening will be the regular teachers' meeting, when an interesting program will be given. Teachers and pupils will take part in the exercises.

A SAD, SAD TALE.

Two Unfortunates Met by Accident and Learn to Fity Each Other.

A stranger with a sad, tired look and a manner indicating that he wished to escape general observation, came wearily into a little Western town the other day. He stopped at the town well to slake his thirst and bathe his flushed face and brow, and while he drank a quart of the town draw near to quaff the cooling water. He, too, had a careworn face and air of general discouragement.

"Stranger here, ain't you?" he asked of the wayfarer.

"Yes—stranger now, but I used to live 'round here."

"No, did you? Lately?"

"No, it's nigh onto ten year since I left."

"And you ain't been back since?"

"No. There's been a good many changes, I see, since then, and I don't reckon there's many left 'luster know."

"Mebbe not; who'd you know?"

"Well, lemme see—there was a woman named Watta Iuster know—Sally Watta."

"Did you know Sally Watta?" asked the denizen of the town.

"Known her well. I—did you ever hear of Sally?"

"Yes, I—"

"Do you know Sally Watta?"

"Yes—I—"

The wayfarer looked carefully around, lowered his voice and said cautiously:

"See here, mister; I've a favor to ask. It ain't much, would you mind not mentioning it to Sally Watta that a stranger was 'round astin' for her? She'd know it was me, an' I'd rather have a hyecor on my trail than Sally Watta. She's an idee I'm dead, an' I want her to cling to that idee. If you know Sally Watta, mister, mebbe you know how near she comes to 'tain' kin to the devil. If she ain't a 'Jantappy' I never see one. Lockee bare, stranger; you've got a sympathetic kind of a face an' I'll leave you to know how to feel for a feller that's went through what I've went through with, an' I feel as if I'd like to confide in you. Stranger, I waster be married to Sally Watta."

The recipient of this confidence gave a little gasp and wrung the hand of the poor wayfarer, saying with deep fervor:

"Fity me, man; I'm married to her now!"—Detroit Free Press.
