What the people want is good laws and few of them, such as will benefit the people and relieve them from the burdens now upon their shoulders.

The legislature should surely pass the bill to regulate insurance companies. Next to the trust robbers comes the insurance leeches, who suck the life's blood out of the people to line their coffers, collecting large commissions on excessive insurance policies and when your property burns allow from one to two thirds of what the policy calls for, if they don't actually pay you out of the whole amount on some technicality.

Quite a little small pox scare was created in this city from the fact that so many people pass through here from Denver where there are seven hundred cases reported. However, while the scare may be groundless yet it behooves our people to be on their guard as there may be cases at any time, if the Denver report is true. Vaccination should be had where ever needed as a preventative.

Dr. P. Jans, President of the Nebraska State Medical and Surgical Institute, does not pretend to cure everything but claims to have better success than the general practitioner in CHRONIC DISEASES, on account of devoting his total time to such diseases and the large number he treats. He has with him about three thousand dollars worth of instruments for examinations and operations, among them a microscope costing in Europe three hundred and fifty dollars. Consultation free and diagnosis never fails. The doctor will be at the Holland House, Monday, January 29th.

How do you know that it is frost? The Lincoln Journal wants to know if the state press will kindly give as much publicity to the fact that Lincoln has discovered a fine water supply as has in the past been given to the fact that the water problem has been solved in that city. The fresh find is even now replacing the brine in a large section of the city. Lincoln is not unwilling to let this fact be known.—E.

For the life of us, it is the first time we ever heard of an editor being able to tell whether water was fresh or salty, they drink no little of it. Give the people something fresh Mr. Journal man, we don't want any stale water Johnny now.

A Change of Date. Owing to a confusion of dates by the Opera House manager, the date of Mrs. A. H. Jester's concert was billed for the first of February, while another company held the boards for a week, and in consequence the date had to be changed until February 8, just one week later. This was no fault of Mrs. Jester, however, and the arrangements will be perfected just the same as if there had been no change. There is no doubt but what the concert will be one of the best entertainments ever given in Red Cloud. Don't forget the date, February 8th, instead of February 1st, as formerly stated.

Step That Waited. Those who rail and howl vociferously because the board of supervisors does not divide the county printing with every newspaper in the land, will find food for thought if they will bear in mind that there is an over-production of that necessity in this community. The option of selecting the official papers remains with the board, and for our part we would not be guilty of shedding tears if we failed to get a hold on the public test, and certainly would not expect favors from those whose election we had opposed on the grounds of political differences, nor yet would we pose as the savior of the treasury by offering to do work free, in order to score a point against a political adversary. "The laborer is worthy of his hire." A man who runs a newspaper runs it for money and not for glory altogether. Glory won't buy clothes nor feed the children.

Opened Up. The Red Cloud National bank, which it will be remembered was closed just before Christmas, from causes which are well-known to this community, was re-opened on Wednesday morning for the transaction of business with Lew Albright as cashier. It is understood that the bank of Commerce of Kansas City and the Fort Dearborn National Bank of Chicago who were heavily interested are the principal parties who have put the bank on its feet again, this being the only way they could come out whole and save the stock holders loss which must have been the evident result had the affairs of the institution passed into the hands of a receiver, as it is the depositors will get their money and in time the stockholders will no doubt be able to make the bank pay if managed properly.

For and anon, those people who are too shiftless to make a respectable living elsewhere, force their presence upon some other community. In the west, north or south, and with more egotism than brains, begin to tell "how we used to run things from where I come from back yonder" to the evident disgust of his more astute brother, who has labored earnestly and long to develop the country and deprive himself of the pleasure and necessities of life in so doing, while the same "bones" are skipping out an ambition for some other locality. Immigration is welcomed at all times, especially in the west, and a stranger is usually shrewdly welcome to all the land affords, so long as he settles down to the realities of life. But there is one thing a western man dislikes and that is to have a new immigration begin to presume that he (the western man) has not the requisite to manage his own affairs, before the said acquisition has hardly acquired a residence in the community in which he has located. Western people can stand hardships, privations, &c., but "freshness" is the straw that breaks the camel's back. It's worn down.

A Kansas Editor's Sermon on Man. The subject of our sermon at the beginning of this grand year of 1889, will be the meanness thing ever created—man. The Lord made only one mistake in the creation; made but one thing that he was ashamed of. At least the Bible speaks of but one of his acts that he repented, and that was making man. All else was pronounced good. Since God made man and monkeys, and rats, and pole-cats, and bull-snakes, and ten thousand other creatures, and was not ashamed of them, but repented, having made man, we judge of his utter contempt of this creature made up of the leavings of everything else. But this does not include all men. There are some pretty good men in the world. But there is a sort of man you naturally hate and feel as if you would like to smash his head with a brick bat every time you see him. The Lord must have got hold of such a man when he repented. This man may be designated as a POOR SHREAT.

You will know him on sight—a little, insignificant, knobby case, with a sandy complexion, and hair on the nose. By some accident of birth or freak of nature he was born a man, and he imagines that it was the result of his own smartness.

The fellow who wrote the above must have lived in Red Cloud or seen the photograph of a living man, strongly like it often seen on our streets.

To Be Wedded. The cards of invitation are out announcing the wedding of Miss Ettie L. Skeen, one of Red Cloud's highly accomplished and cultured young ladies, and daughter of our friend Kenyon Skeen of this city to John O. Yeiser, a prominent and rising young lawyer of Red Cloud. The wedding will take place on the 5th of February.

A New $10,000 Jail. The board of supervisors with commendable zeal and enterprise, at this session this week decided to build a jail to cost ten thousand dollars, to be located on the north-east corner of the court house park. The building will be a handsome structure as a credit to our growing city; a building, although a jail, that our citizens will feel proud of. The contract was let to Pauley Jail Co. of St. Louis, Mo. This is an improvement that has long been needed in this county, and the board did well to let the contract at this time.

The Firemen's Tournament. The firemen of the state have practically selected Red Cloud for the next place for holding their annual tournament, provided Red Cloud will subscribe enough money to pay the prizes that will have to be given in order to secure the attendance of numerous departments in the state. The firemen here are greatly encouraged and the outlook for this county was never so grand as at the present time.

AMERICAN.

WALNUT CREEK. Storm week is past, and life and property are safe here. The winter, so far, has been remarkably fine, even for the superior climate of Nebraska. Stock is in excellent condition. Cattle are thriving and young animals are growing, though very few of them are getting any grain in this part of the country. Corn fodder is good, and hay is abundant and of excellent quality. Stock is better sheltered than it was in former winters. Farmers often learn by sad experience, as was the case last spring when so many cattle died from starvation and exposure to the storms. Though some did as well as they could under the circumstances, others could have prepared more food and better shelter.

Some think if their cattle are dehorned they have done their principal duty towards their herds. Dehorning may have some advantages, but the careful farmer will remember that he must keep his cattle warm, and supply them liberally and regularly with food and water. Young animals should grow all winter, and adult ones should retain their normal weight, as nearly as possible, to be profitable, for, as FRANKLIN says, "Starve your animals and they will starve you." Several farmers in this vicinity are fattening steers with good success. Corn being so cheap and the weather so good, we predict, that in the spring, some splendid cattle will go to the market.

FARM FOR RENT. 12 miles from Market. 50 acres more. Plenty of wood and water. For terms call on or address G. W. HANSEN, Red Cloud, Neb.

FARMERS' CEREAL. The season has been very nice this far and stock is wintering nicely, and there is an abundance of feed in the country.
