Some of our enterprising citizens, or the board of trade, should see to it at once, that efforts are made to get the necessary money raised for the soldiers reunion. If Red Cloud is successful thousands of dollars will be brought to Red Cloud. The effort should be made at once and with a good will.

It is a pleasure to be able when one is looking for clothing or other goods carried by the old established firm of C. Wiener to enter his store. You will find that he carries as large a stock as most houses do in Lincoln or Omaha, and his store would be a credit to either city. It must be that he has treated his customers well, and expects a liberal patronage to induce him to keep up such an establishment in our midst. You may always expect honest treatment at his store.

He Declines.

Editor Chief.

The enclosed letter of declination was handed me for publication, as my paper is out for this week and the time for holding city election is so close at hand will you kindly publish in your paper and greatly oblige. Yours, THOMAS J. WARD.

Red Cloud, March 28th.

T. J. Ward, Esq.

Dear Sir:—While I fully appreciate the honor of being nominated by the caucus of last Wednesday evening for the office of councilman from the 1st ward, I cannot consistently accept. Mr. Todd is the choice of the railroad element and I was one to bring him before the caucus of Tuesday evening. Please consider this as final. Yours, H. H. EASTRDAY.

The merchant tailoring department of the Golden Eagle has been a success from the beginning. C. Wiener formerly sent off for suits to be made up, but found that they were not much better than ready made, only that he and his customers had to pay more for them. He now carries a large stock of press goods and employs four good tailors and charges no more than if he sent away to have them made. He is prepared to pay for the cost of the goods, and to give the best of service.
