The licenses having expired, the saloons have been closed up pending the issuance of new license on next Saturday evening.

A number of railroad graders passed through the city from Indian Territory this week. They had been waiting to get work on the Omaha and Dodge City Ry., but had given it up saying that they had been informed that the road would not be built, only on paper. That's about the size of it we guess.

By a card received at these headquarters from Decorah, Iowa, we learn that Miss Lucie Thomson, formerly of Red Cloud, was recently united in marriage to Mr. E. C. McCullow, and has again returned to Nebraska to live. Her home will hereafter be at Curtis. THE CHIEF, with the numerous friends of Mrs. McCullow, extend hearty congratulations.

Head what you can buy at Young's C. O. D. Emporium and note the difference in prices. An exchange has caught the proper idea when it says that one of the freaks of nature that a newspaper man runs up against every once in a while in his travels is the man who thinks that a newspaper should "pitch into" somebody all the time. He would make a newspaper a sort of a smut mill for somebody to dump his suspicion, illfeeling and stenderous gossip into. In nine cases out of ten these fellows are cowardly, and would not make complaint against any man to his face, but they would rejoice to see the newspaper man peddle out their miserable yarns for them. The time for such business happily has gone by. The newspaper man is not quite such a fool as some people he encounters imagine.

The citizens of Council Bluffs are doing some hard work to make the Firemen's Tournament, to be held there June 11, 12, 13 and 14, a grand success. They have secured a rate of one fare for the round trip in Iowa and Nebraska, and have sent a committee to Chicago to try and get a rate of one cent a mile. They have raised $4,350 for purses, and are making preparations for the entertainment of at least 30,000 visitors. For full particulars of prizes, rules, rates, etc., address, J. L. TEMPLETON, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

A Red Cloud hopeful was asked the other day by a certain Sunday School superintendent if he ever saw a drunken man?
"Yes," was the quick reply of the little toddler.
"How did he look," said the S. S.
"He had a great big red nose," said the hopeful.
"Where did you see him," was asked.
"Oh! In the newspaper," was the innocent reply.
The S. S. subsided, and the Sunday school roared. The child had evidently been reading the "Judge."

Deceased.

Mrs. T. L. Trowbridge died yesterday morning at her home in Blue Hill. For some time she has been in delicate health, and her friends have been very solicitous for her life. Their anxieties culminated at 1 a. m. on the morning of April 8th. F. V. Taylor was called by telegram to embalm the remains, which, with those of her infant child, will be sent for interment to her old home at Rutledge, Ill. Her death will be a sad blow to her many friends in Blue Hill and Red Cloud. She was a consistent and beloved member of the Christian church.—Daily Helmet.

That Fire Tournament
The fire department have done nobly and are entitled to a great deal of credit for procuring the state firemen's tournament in this city. It will bring thousands of dollars here and one of the largest crowds Red Cloud has ever seen. The dates have been fixed for the 16th to 19th of July. The citizens should help the boys liberally in securing the guarantee as nearly all will be more or less benefited by the tournament. Come, let everyone help this enterprise, it will do more to advertise Red Cloud than any one thing that the people could put money into.

The City Council.
The new city council should commence the new year with retrenchment and reform as its motto. If the extravagant course of the past is persisted in it will only be a question of time until the city is bankrupted. There are many things that can be done without, viz: The city attorney's office, a decided luxury, then there is the city marshal's office, which could be combined with that of street commissioner at say $40 per month, and in fact there are several little corners that could be trimmed that would be quite a saving. There is no use to be mealy-mouthed about the matter. A useless extravagance should be eradicated as much as possible as there are many absolutely necessary things that must be had during the year in order to maintain the city government and keep up city improvements to the standard. We hope the new council will inaugurate a reign of economy for 1889-90.

New Laws.

Among the more important of the laws passed by the recent legislature is the valued Policy Insurance law, compelling companies to pay the full amount on which premium is paid by the insurer; the law to prevent combinations and pooling; the law to authorize cities with over 5,000 inhabitants to bond themselves for the purpose of erecting buildings and making public improvements; one to enable cities and villages to acquire real estate; a law providing for a new holiday called Labor Day; a law providing for the taxation of sleeping and dining-room cars; a law exempting pensioners and disabled persons from paying poll tax or working on the highways; several amendments to the township organization law; requiring insurance companies to pay a duty for support of fire department, a banking law; a law for relief of union soldiers and sailors and indigent relatives thereof; a law to encourage the manufacture of sugar in the state and a law providing for the pardon of two convicts from the penitentiary every fourth of July.—Ez.

Call for a Farmer's Convention.
To the farmers of Webster county. The time has come when the farmers of the west must organize for a united stand against the gigantic and outrageous combination known as the "Twine Trust." If they fail to do so they deserve to become the slaves of not only this but every other trust and combination with which this country is cursed. Immense crops were harvested before binding twine was known. What has been done can be done again. Twine can be manufactured and sold to the consumer for 12 1/2 cents per pound, leaving a fair and just margin of profit to the manufacturer and dealer. Such being the case why pay the exorbitant price demanded this year by the combination.
Believing in justice and equity, and realizing that this so called twine trust is formed for the purpose of exacting from us about double the value of binding twine for the harvest of 1889, we, the undersigned farmers call upon the farmers of Webster county to meet in general conference at the court house in Red Cloud on Saturday, April 20th, at one o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of considering this question and taking some united and intelligent action in regard to it. A few nights ago a gentleman who had undressed and prepared for bed blew out the lamp on the table and was groping his way across the room feeling for the bed when his toe struck something pliant. The thing seemed to open its mouth as he put the weight of his foot upon it and he jerked up his foot in double quick time, while the thing held on and dangled from his toe. There was a lively dancing around the room and the man made a lively racket with his mouth until he succeeded in slinging the thing across the room. Then he jumped on the table and stood there until he could secure a lamp.
Over near where the thing struck the wall he saw his wife's bundle lying on the floor. He kicked himself a few times and went to bed, but his wife kept him awake an hour laughing at him.
