

The Inter-State Democrat of Omaha is making preparations to enlarge and become the democratic organ of the state. Since the Herald was swallowed up by the World the democrats have been without an organ, and the Inter-State Democrat proposes to "fill the long felt want" of the Nebraska democrats.

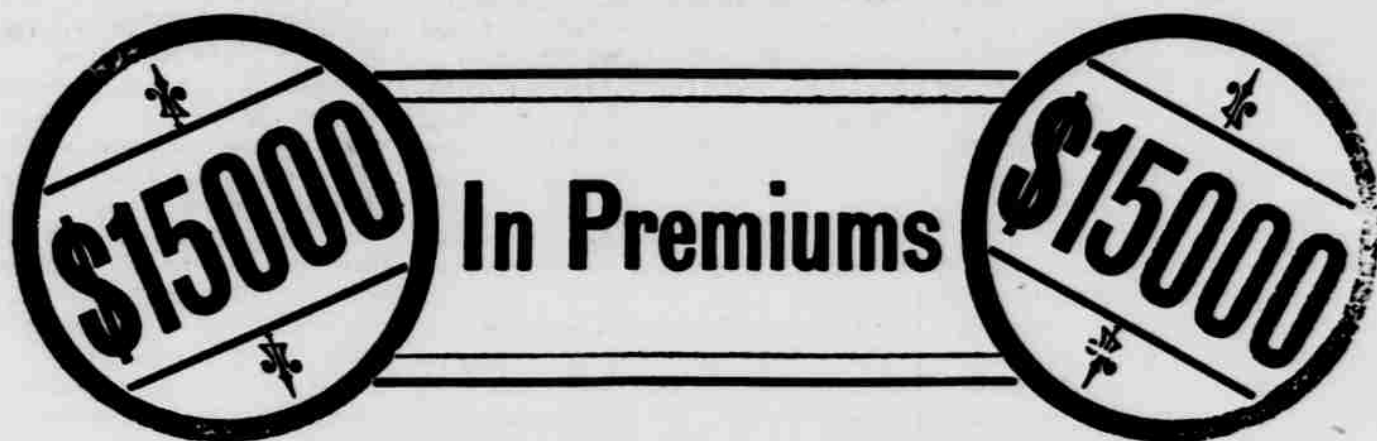

The political pot has begun to bubble and ere long it is presumed will be boiling over as the heat of the campaign approaches. As a general thing the battle is well fought before the convention takes place, and a nomination by the republicans in Webster county means an election. The Chief has heard the names of many prominent people mentioned for the various offices in the gift of the county, but presumes that it would be better to mention their names later on so as to say that most of those mentioned if nominated, will make good officers.

Uriah Heep of the Republican, takes Mr. Warren to task again in the last issue, and insists that the Republican was not established with blood in its eye, to afford him an organ through which to abuse and slander all who do not agree and chime in with him, in all matters whatsoever. That it was started as a purely genuine business enterprise and for the benefit of the poor starving (for good literature) people of Red Cloud, and Webster county. To be a strictly a literary and family paper, and that many of our "conservative business men" insists that it shall continue to raise its voice for peace(?) and use its influence for the good and quiet of the community. What an abortion. How wonderfully it has miscarried from the end in view. A genuine business enterprise(?) Not a stockholder in it, ever set a type or undertook to edit a paper before, and Mr. Heep has made a miserable failure of the task he has undertaken. Not a practical printer or newspaper man in the outfit. The last few issues names the child—

Admits That he Bolted.

Mr. Heep, alias McKeeby of the Republican admits that he did bolt a republican nomination. Very well. An open confession is good for the soul. He also tried awful hard last fall to bolt the republican club, but was sat down on so hard by the young men, and others whom he thought he could control that he acknowledged on the street, that he had made an ass of himself again. That was another time he admitted the truth about himself. Wonder if he won't keep on admitting? Oh! if all the truth about him were only known, it would open the eyes of the few who still think him a half way decent fellow. He tries to justify his bolt of McNitt by branding that gentleman as a felon, and declaring that he has the evidence to prove him such; that "it is still in existence and will be published if necessary." The commission referred to found no such evidence existing, and he knows it. We denounce the assertion as a malicious lie, incubated and hatched in the deminutive brain (the little he did not lose) of this mysterious, grim visage, stiff-necked nincompoop of the Republican. "Any further information with dates and names will be cheerfully furnished for the satisfaction of our accuser and their friends, if they have any." We are one of the accusers referred to, and we demand the names and dates and the evidence. We also denounce this would be aristocrat-lawyer-decorator-money-lender-usury taker-jack of all trades and master of none, except a general disturber of the peace, not only a liar, but a miserable coward and a slanderer of better men than he or his associates if he fail to produce it. The whole community demands that he verify his foul and slanderous charge, or eat his own words. Common justice and fairness demand it. Common decency and good breeding demand it, and we again demand it in the name and on behalf of the voters of Webster county, who have a right to see it if it exists. Even his own cappers and hangers look up to him with doubtful and suspicious eyes and demand it, for they too fear he has lied. Yes, he has lied. The community will never see the names and dates or any such evidence. He dare not undertake the manufacture of any such articles. He dare not put the names of respectable men in any such an article. Wait and we shall see. E.H. Mr. Heep.

We understand that Judge Sweazy will

While we never had any very high regard for the ability or moral standing of the present editor of the Republican, we always supposed, until now, that he did lay some claim to decency and respectability for himself, and that he could write a newspaper article calling the attention of the public to any irregularities in the body politic, without allowing the low, contemptible, degrading and brutal instincts of his depraved and malicious nature to crop out so vividly as he did in his last week's issue. Things contained in that issue convince us that he is capable of doing anything mean. Any man who can charge a poor farmer $237 clean bonus for making him a loan of $1000 of another man's money, has no conscience. Query, would he rob a man in any other way if he could cover it up so easily, or had no fears of the penal code? Ask August Pierstoff or old Mr. Malcom. They both know him to their sorrow. Did you ever stop to think who this pretentious fellow is, or what he is? Did you ever inquire into his previous history? Did you ever study his physiognomy, and read the real man that lurks within; if not, take a good look at him, and then shut your eyes and dream, and if you don't see the devil—the real ass who tries to run the organ of the big 8—before you awake, we miss our guess. Just try it, it won't hurt you, he's as tame as a kitten and as cowardly as a whelp. It's all pretention. There's nothing of him but good clothes, and those he can afford to wear—think of $237 while your eyes are shut, and when you open them look at poor August Pierstoff, and contrast the difference (in the clothes) between 100 per cent per month, for loaning another man's money, and the hard knocks and poor pay of the borrower. Eh! docky, what have you to say?
