DESIGN YOUR OWN JEWELRY. and Popular Fad-Resettful

That Are Not Generally Cook One of fashion's latest and most popular fade is for each individual to de sign his own jewelry. Until recently whatever the jeweler presented was selected from without question, as it had not dawned on the average customer that a jeweler's taste to jewels is apt to be on the job-lot order. In attempting to secure something novel, manufacturers of whom a large proportion of fewelers' stocks are purchased turn out all sorts of illustrative, entomologornaments are absolutely abourd. Fancy adorning one's self with coffee beans or with horses, dogs, yachts or bicycles! Yet these things are much more common than exceptional. A favorite form of pin on this order is the wearer's monogram in gems. This liver and kidney complaint is also a piece of bad taste that could only be rivaled by an imitation of a door plate pin with the name of the owner inscribed in full upon it.

Not a tenth of the beautiful stones available for jewelry are much used. Indeed, there are very few of them that are generally known. There is the flashing topas, the delicate peridot and chrysolite, the glowing garnet, the hyscinth of orange tint, the gircon, rang- good 30 days from date of sale. ing from oil green to wine red; the amethyst, the star corundum, with delicate rays pointing to the angles of the crystal; the chrysoberyl, the triple-colored titanite and tolite, the rich Spanish topas, the sparkting beryl, green, yellow, white and sky blue; the strange tourmaline, with its angles of opacity; the spinal, the lovely opal the moonstone, the sunstone, with its flery sparks; the turquois, the deep green malachite, the delicately marked moss agate, the oddly surfaced thomsonite and chlorastrolite, the clear yellow citrine, the rich red and green jasper these are some of the things that a jeweler will probable not show you, unless he finds that you are not attracted to his wholly conventional display of ornamenta and if should be approved by Mr. Foster, and he is like most jewelers he will not that the departments would have to show them anyway, for he hasn't got noon day when this remedy is used. Jewelry that is worth wearing at all should have some individuality, and in spite of the outery that is made against it, it should be worn freely and opulently where it can be afforded. > Reading at Public Libraries. In Paris, as well as with us, it is found that the value of public free libraries as a means of educating the masses is small. An attempt was made to induce people who frequent the sixty-four public libraries in Paris to prefer instructive books to works of fiction; but the only result of this was CHICAGO, Sept. 12 -An afternoon a decrease in the number of readers. paper says Vera Ava, the mysterious So the endeavor was abandoned, the "philanthropist" who came to Chicago authorities coming to the conclusion that it is better the public should read novels than not read at all. At present nearly 50 per cent, of the books taken out are novels. But in London and street and recognized by a New York | Paris we may as well accept the inevitable. The free library is not a place where the ardent student learns the latest lessons of science or studies the masterpieces of literature past and present.
