Wm. Ingalls, living on the John Winter's farm is a living witness that lightning will strike twice in the immediate vicinity. The other day lightning struck his chicken coop and demolished the same, and during the rain on Tuesday, lightning struck his house, tore down a shelf and passed out through the siding, shocking two children perceptibly but not dangerously.

"Such a getting down stairs, we never did see, up one step and down two three," is the song of the boys who were rudely awakened from the little sport of playing "two come three" the other night when two well-known gentlemen came leisurely sauntering up the back staircase. One of the boys said it looked just like a lot of sheep jumping over the fence to get corn, only the boys jumped over the fence, and the sheep supposed to be minions of the law, there for the purpose of raiding the den. It was a great lot of fun and we are told that the den is closed for repairs.

Inadvertently, during our busy hours in going to press with our last issue there crept into these columns, a very personal item, from a new Cowles correspondent, which materially and wrongfully, we are informed, reflected upon the choir of the Christian church of that city. This paper does not like to publish, at any time, personal reflection upon anyone, either upon the church or other organizations, unless they should be well-founded and deemed of sufficient importance by its editor to appear in print. And again we ask our correspondents to simply send the news free from personal reflections of any sort.

If salt costs one cent a pound and ham 15 cents, what would a hog be worth that had been fed on Haller's Condition Powders? For sale by Deyo & Grice.

G. A. Hutton, has become a reader of the Great Family Weekly. He says the Foster letters are worth $10 to any farmer. Remember they can only be had in this paper.

There are some people in town who try to keep their premises clean and free from all impurities that breed disease, and for that reason will not allow a manure pile to accumulate, nor keep hogs to wallow in filth and taint the atmosphere. To these people it is not very pleasant to have a neighbor stick an old nasty hog-pen where the odor will come into the house and endanger the lives of the family, and it is not only unpleasant but it is a gross injustice, and it is only to avoid ill feeling that some of those who are doing this are not compelled to remove the nuisance and cease compelling their neighbors to breathe the poison which they have tried to avoid.

THAT WATER PROBLEM.—We have been told that the adherents to the present plan of securing better water, have said that they would get a never failing supply of good water, and unlike many of our citizens THE CHIEF believes that they will be partially successful, but then after this has all been done, will the supply be really healthy, and free from impregnation, that water so near the surface of the ground is said to be contaminated with? These things all present themselves to the minds of our citizens, and they have a perfect right to discuss the matter pro and con, for the people pay the freight. This paper has never been much in love with the water system of Red Cloud, and has intimated the same at divers times and places and do not know that we have ever had any evidence produced that would materially change that opinion. Evidence might do it but the present water, never. The plan of locating the present site of the engine house and wells was all wrong, and a useless expense of many thousand dollars, and still the money goes into the ground without results that will be lasting, we do not say it is an entire failure, but do say that no system whatsoever, in our opinion, can be efficacious in the present location. Sooner or later, and probably sooner, artesian wells, or some other means will have to be secured to obtain an adequate supply of good, fresh and wholesome water for the city's use. There is no use to quibble over it and the problem will have to be faced in all seriousness. Experiments with the people's money may be all right, but never-the-less the people will demand of its servants the best that can be produced for the money used. THE CHIEF hopes that the present efforts may be more beneficial and more successful than anticipated, but we must confess our weakness as to the general results, even if an abundance of water should be secured.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gilham were pained this week to learn of the death of little Edward, their youngest child, aged 2½ years, after a very brief illness. He was dearly loved by the parents and grand-parents, as well as by the other relatives, and was a great favorite among the children of the neighborhood. Those who have noted the seemingly unusual fondness of Mr. Gilham for his children, and especially this child, have a keen sympathy for him. Dr. Tulleys, the grand-father, gave him the very best of attention, and, although usually very successful in such cases, it seemed that his skill was not to avail in this. The children miss the pleasure of caring for him and listening to his quaint little attempts at imitating their language. The funeral services were conducted at the house on Tuesday by Rev. E. L. Ely, who spoke comforting words from the text: "He shall not return to me but I shall go to him." 2 Sam. 12:23, and were largely attended by friends.

UNION SONG SERVICE.—Sunday afternoon at 3:30 there assembled at the M. E. church, as per announcement, the musical people of every denomination in the city. The attendance was large and the interest manifested was noticeable in each person present taking hold and trying to sing their best. These song services will bring the musical people of our county closer together, and result in the upbuilding of larger attendance in all our churches and Sunday schools. Music hath charms and in union there is strength! Let us all rally to their support and make the County Song Service Convention, to be held at this place in September, a success. Arrangements have been made to practice with the Cowles schools next Sunday afternoon.

POLITICS.—The local political cauldron has begun to seethe in this county, and before the various conventions are held there will be numerous candidates for political favor. At present this paper has no particular candidates for the political boil, but has in mind several very estimable gentlemen who could fill any of the offices to be filled this fall, but does not think it opportune at this time to mention the fact. There are also several gentlemen in Red Cloud who aspire to county offices with fair prospects of success.
