

CARNOT MURDERED.

PRESIDENT OF FRANCE ASSASSINATED BY AN ITALIAN ANARCHIST.

Terrible Tragedy Occurred at Lyons—Carnot Attacked While on His Way to the Theater to Attend a Fete Given in His Honor—Police Save the Murderer.

LYONS, June 25.—The most intense excitement has been caused every where in France by the assassination of President Carnot. The president was visiting Lyons in connection with the international exhibition. After attending a reception at the prefecture, he visited the exposition. After spending some time at the exposition he proceeded to the palace de commerce, where a banquet was given in his honor. At 9:30 Sunday night President Carnot started for the theater where a gala performance was to be given because of his presence in the city. Several carriages were in the procession, the first one being occupied by the president.

When half way down the street, which was lined with enthusiastic crowds of people who were loudly cheering, a man rushed out of the crowd and sprang upon the steps of the president's landau. Just at this moment M. Carnot was waving his right hand and saluting with his hat in his left hand in response to the ovation that was being given by the crowd. Those close to the carriage saw the man standing on the step had a knife in his hand. By the glare of the electric lights they saw the bright blade glowing in the air as the assassin's arm descended, and then President Carnot was seen to fall back in his seat, his face deathly pale. One of his hands was pressed to his heart where the steel had entered the body.

M. Rivaud, prefect of Lyons, who was seated by M. Carnot, immediately gave the assassin a blow fall in the face, and knocked him from the step, thus preventing the man from again slaying the president, which it was his evident intention to do.

Instantly orders of "Le president est assassiné!" "Mort a l'assassin!" were heard on every side, and the crowd in the vicinity of the carriage swelled to enormous proportions, every member of it seemingly intent upon killing the assassin. He was grasped by a dozen hands, and his life would have then and there paid the forfeit of his crime had it not been for several sergeants de ville who seized him and attempted to draw him away from his captors. Blows were aimed at his face and head over the shoulders of the police, who soon received reinforcements, and many of the blows landed fairly.

In the meantime the news of the attempted murder had spread with lightning like rapidity, and mounted guards were sent to the aid of the police, who were struggling to preserve the life of the assassin. With drawn sabres in their hands the guards rode down into the crowd heedless of whom their horses trampled upon. The crowd gave way before the horses and at last the center of the crowd was reached. Then a cordon was formed around the almost exhausted policeman and their captive and the march to the police station begun.

Shortly after midnight the Archbishop of Lyons was summoned to the bedside of the dying president to administer to him the last rites of the church. M. Carnot remained conscious to the last. He realized that his life was rapidly ebbing away, and twice he said: "Je m'en vais." Dr. Poncet leaned over the bed and said to him: "Your friends are here, Monsieur le President." M. Carnot replied: "I am grateful for their presence," and a minute later he gasped for breath, there was a convulsive shuddering of his body, and the president of France had passed away.

After M. Carnot had been taken to the prefecture it became generally known his assassin was an Italian and the feeling of deep indignation among the crowd found vent in the form of attacks upon cafes kept by inoffensive natives of Italy. Three such places in the vicinity of the palace of commerce were totally wrecked by the infuriated mob. French flags, which were in abundance, were then procured by the crowd and with cries of "down with the foreigners," "Out with them," hundreds of people marched to the Rue de la Barre, in which street the Italian consulate is situated. There is no doubt the consulate would have been sacked had it not been for the prompt action of the police, who stopped the crowd and compelled its members to disperse.

Santo's Early History. ROME, June 26.—Cosar Giovanni Santo, the man who murdered President Carnot, is the son of Marie Broglio and Antonio Casavio. He joined the anarchists' association at an early age. In January, 1893, he tried, with two fellow anarchists, to start a newspaper, but was unable to raise the funds necessary. The police watched him until the end of 1893, when he went to Switzerland.

London, June 26.—A dispatch from Paris says the funeral of President Carnot had been fixed for Sunday. The remains will be laid in the Pantheon, Adjourns as a Mark of Respect to the Murdered President of France.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—There was a fair attendance in the galleries in anticipation of the opening of the income tax debate when Vice President Stevenson called the senate to order Thursday. Some preliminary business was transacted. Bills were passed as follows: To authorize a commission to draw a code of laws for the district of Alaska, to promote the efficiency of the navy, and to define the boundaries of the three judicial districts in the state of Alabama and to regulate the jurisdiction of the United States courts therein and the powers and duties of the judges thereof. The tariff bill was then laid before the senate. As soon as the clerk had read the first section of the income tax provisions, Mr. Hill, who assumed the leadership of the opposition to the provisions, took the floor and delivered a carefully prepared argument against the incorporation of an income tax in the tariff bill.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—There was little interest manifested in the house Thursday. When the antiopion bill was taken up speeches were made by Messrs. Grosvenor, Wheeler, Stockdale and Berry in support of the bill, and by Messrs. Covert, Bartlett, Quigg and Boatner in opposition to it. Pence (Colo.) spoke on the silver question.

Favors the Income Tax. WASHINGTON, June 25.—Quite a number of bills were passed before the consideration of the tariff bill was resumed by the senate Friday. The house bill to incorporate the supreme lodge, Knights of Pythias was reported favorably by Senator Faulkner and was immediately passed. The following bills were also passed: Senate bill for the relief of Charles College, Missouri, (being a payment for use of property during the war); senate bill appropriating $10,000 for the investigation and tests of American timber by the forestry division of the agricultural department; senate bill making the first Monday in September of each year (Labor day) a legal holiday.

When the tariff bill was laid before the senate, Mr. Kyle took the floor. He made a general argument favoring the tax. Mack's Antiopion Bill Passes the House. WASHINGTON, June 25.—Immediately on convening Friday, the house went into committee of the whole on the antiopion bill. The bill was read by sections for amendments, and Mr. Aldrich (Ill.) offered the first amendment, inserting "four" in the list of agricultural products affected by the bill. Mr. Crain (Tex.) speaking to a previous amendment, read from the Congressional Record a platform that was based on Populist doctrine, and asserted that the bill was vicious and deceptive. Hartner offered a resolution to recommitt the bill, with instructions to report it back with an amendment for free coinage of silver, at a ratio of 16 to 1. Ruled out on a point of order. The bill then passed—149 to 87.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Hill again denounced the income tax in the senate, but made no converts, his four amendments being voted down. An amendment was adopted exempting the president's salary from the tax. Express Sympathy With the French. WASHINGTON, June 25.—Both houses adjourned early out of respect to the memory of President Carnot of France. Chaplains Millburn and Bagby referred to the great calamity which had befallen our sister republic in the murder of its president. A message from the president was announced and Executive Clerk Pruden appeared at the main door bearing a large envelope containing the president's announcement to the senate and house of the death of President Carnot. Appropriate resolutions were adopted and the two houses adjourned.

Senator Allen Insists on Knowing. WASHINGTON, June 26.—With the thermometer standing 83 in the senate chamber Tuesday, the senate entered upon the 13th week of the tariff debate. At the opening of the session Mr. Allen made another ineffectual attempt to secure action on his resolution directing the secretary of the treasury to inform the senate of the exact number of persons engaged in protected industries whose wages might be affected by tariff legislation. Mr. Gallinger (Rep.) objected, and Mr. Morrill moved to refer it to the finance committee. Mr. Allen gave notice that so long as the resolution remained unacted upon he would object to all legislation by unanimous consent. Mr. Morrill's motion was defeated by a vote of 16 to 27. Then the senate resumed the consideration of the income tax provisions of the tariff bill.

Mr. Hill's amendment to relieve state, county and municipal bonds from the operation of the income tax was lost—25 to 30.

The following is the scale of advances: Classes 1 and 2, 5 cents per 100 pounds; class 3, 3 cents; classes 4, 5, A, B, C and D, 2 cents. There will be no advance on class E. The strain upon his nerves was so great that he was nearly prostrated when he found himself among friends, but he has in a great degree recovered from his prostration.

General Tarsney is a man of considerable pride and spirit, and he suffers from humiliation, perhaps, as much as he does from physical pain. Not only are his friends profuse in their manifestations of sympathy, but the public generally deprecate the occurrence and do not hesitate to give expression to their feelings. The general is about 55 years of age and served in the union army during the civil war.

Oats have headed with short straw and the heads are generally deficient in number of grains. The quantity of the yield is likely to be greater than in recent years.
