THE RED CLOUD CHIEF, FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1895.

TO YOUNG REPUBLICANS.

President Collins Sets Forth the Attractions of the Cleveland Convention.

To Nebraska Delegates, Alternates and Visitors to the Eighth Annual Convention of the National Republican League at Cleveland, O., June 19 to 21. The Nebraska delegation and their visiting friends will meet at the Great Northern hotel in Chicago on Tuesday, June 18, at 9 o'clock a. m. and at 10:30 a. m. of the same day leave for Cleveland via the Lake Shore railway, arriving in Cleveland at 7.55 Tuesday evening. Nebraska headquarters will be at the Hellenden hotel, room No. 101, where all Nebraskans will be made welcome. The national league headquarters are at the same hotel.

This will be the greatest convention of the league and every state and territory is expected to have large delegations.

William McKinley, Tom Reed, Chauncey M. Depew, our own John M. Thurston, Gen. Russell A. Alger, J. B. Foraker, John Sherman and ex-President Harrison are billed to be present and address the convention. Cleveland (the city) is making elaborate preparations to entertain its guests.

There will be free excursions on Lake Erie, about the city and to the parks and summer resorts; also a mammoth free banquets. There will be a cheap excursion to Niagara Falls.

The railroads offer a one fare rate for the round trip from Nebraska to Cleveland, good for return until June 30. Join us for the grandest event of your life, for the least money, and help us stand up for Nebraska.

F. W. COLLINS, President of the Nebraska Republican League.

I have two little grand crildren who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowels complaint. I gave them Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoes remedy and it nots like a charm. I earnestly recommend . it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself was taken with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this remedy cured me. Within twenty-four hours I was out of bed and doing my house work. Mrs. W. L. A Shadow Combat. People residing in Gay alley neighborhood witnessed a rather unique fight last night. Ed Cleary, a musician, who week's standing, while passing through the alley happened to look behind him and saw his shadow, says the Nashville American. He thought the shadow was a man and shook his fist at it, and the shadow in return did the same thing at him. This made Cleary mad, and he cried: "If you are looking for trouble I'm your game." Then he lay down and beat the shadow until blood trickled from his fists, and when he saw that his silent foe was invincible he got several rocks and ran the shadow for fifty yards or more. As he turned back he saw that the imaginary man was still chasing him. He increased his walk to a run and the shadow did likewise. Finally he recognized that the imaginary foe was clean grit and had got all the best of the fracas, and he continued a hasty retreat, the shadow chasing him into the arms of a policeman. At the station he wanted to shake hands with the shadow and make friends, but the officer hustled him off to a cell.

His Fad Restored His liealth.

It is odd what turns the collecting mania will take. There is a man in New York who never goes to the theater, but has for twenty-five years collected the programs of each New York playhouse weekly. Not only that but he has clipped from each Tuesday's papers the criticisms of the new plays. All this vast quantity of data he has carefully preserved. It is odd how he started in the quest of theater programs and data of the drama. In 1879 he was in very bad health. His doctor told him he must exercise more So ae decided that he would walk around to the different theaters and ask for a program. The walking he found of benefit to his health, and it is an interesting fact that in twenty-five years he has not missed a day to make his rounds of the playhouses. He is a very shy old man, and as he has grown older his walks have been lengthenes out, since new theaters have sprung up all over New York, at considerable distances apart.-Ex.

JEWELRY FOR MEN.

Nowadays men wear nearly as much chains, bracelets, and even necklaces are worn; in fact, all but earrings. Showy designs in jewiry, however, are confined to a small set in town. Edmund Russell, besides his numerous scarfpins and studs, wears a rather held in place by another chain which passes twice around the wrist.

A German count often seen on Broadway wears a scarfpin which well-nigh carried about his person a jag of a hides his scarf, says the New York Sunday Advertiser. It is a heart-shaped opal set in diamonds, and fairly outshines the glistening sun. As a balancewheel he sports a fob perhaps two inches in diameter, made of frosted gold, incrusted with diamonds. Large turquoise studs set in jewels are quite common. But the jewelers say that though the fashions of well-dressed men always run in small, modest designs, rich foreigners, such as Spanlards and Cubans, delight in large, expensive designs for rings and scarfpins. Specimen pearls of large size are much in vogue for sleeve links and pins. A Broadway dealer had an enormous diamond-studded horseshoe pin which he thought a drug on his hands. However, a well-known "horsey" individual saw it the other day, raved over it and paid the high price asked without a murmur. Designs at present run on outing ideas-yachting, tennis, baseball and golf emblems. Though some few exquisites may demand jewels whose size makes them only suitable for lovely women, the consensus of opinion is that good taste will prevent a general copying of the examples set by London swells. Not long ago a typical westerner, with a big sombrero on his head and a brace of pistols in his belt, was arrested in the tenderloin to keep him from losing a diamond watchchain worth thousands. Apart from his strange dress he was no more peculiar than the swell who swings gayly along dressed in the height of fashion, with his hands covered with jeweled rings, and perhaps a heavy bracelet, bespeaking effeminacy, on his wrist. Let us hope we will be saved the pain of seeing men adopt the jewels of women, despite the fact that the gentler sex are infringing on the fashions of masculine dress.

The Stomach Yawns.

Man, at this day, tends to fall into the stomach; man must be replaced in the heart, man must be replaced in the brain. The brain—this is the bold sovcreign that must be restored! The social question requires to-day, more than ever, to be examined on the side of hu-man dignity. . There is something beyond satisfying one's appetite. The goal of man is not the goal of the animal. A moral lift is necessary. The life of nations, like the life of individuals, has its moments of depression; these moments pass, certainly, but no trace of them ought to remain. . . . To five is to have justice, truth, reason, devotion, probity, sincerity, common sense, right and duty welded to the heart. To live is to know what one is worth, what one can do and should do. Life is conscience .-- Victor Hugo.

If you decide to make such a collection, buy a scrapbook which is strongly bound and which has paper smooth enough for you to write upon in ink. Such a book should contain written of dollars TRYING various remedies directions as well as printed ones. Do not make the mistake of buying too large a book. It is not only hard to and my hair came out, leaving me perfectly bald. I then went to fill, but awkward to hold and to store. and unless carefully classified or indexed, it is bewildering when laid away for a time. Do not paste the scraps even with the edges of the leaves. They will break some day and then the cuttings are liable to be torn. If you have a book with stiff pages it is well to bind the edges with strips of muslin, as is often done with music. Use flour paste or stickaline. All mucilage does not darken paper, but many kinds do, and it is not wise to risk such a mishap. I have seen scrapbooks in which paste made of gum arabic had been used, and the paper was so discolored that the print was illegible.

At the monthly meeting of the trustees of Columbia college held at New York, on Monday, it was announced that President Seth Low had given $1,000,000 to build a new library. This gift was supplemented by one from William C. Schermerhorn, chairman of the board of trustees, $3,000 to build the Natural Science building. Mr. Low said that he wished the library building to be a memorial of his father, the late
