EDITORIAL NOTES.

H. H. Hoakins, editor of Norcatur Register, was in Red Cloud this week on business and made our editorial wigwam a pleasant visit.

E. M. Coldren, editor of the Oberlin (Kansas) Herald, was a pleasant visitor to our tepee this week. He runs the only "pop" paper in Oberlin.

While other people went to church last Sunday, Grover Cleveland went fishing. The old line democrats should never whip their boys, hereafter, for fishing on Sunday.

This week the Columbus (Montana) Express, published by Aitken & Potter, came knocking at our sanctum table marked X. The Potter in question is Archie Potter of this city. The Express starts out in nice shape and is brimfull of news and is very neatly printed. Archie being one of THE CHIEF's off springs, typographically speaking, we must wish him an abundance of success and bespeak for him fame as a newspaper man. He has got the right kind of ring to become such.

J. A. TULLEYS of this city has for the second time been appointed custodian of the grand lodge. Mr. Tulleys is a 33^d Mason, and has the confidence of his brethren. Mr. Tulleys has no equal as far as efficiency in masonry goes. He belongs to some fifteen or twenty different societies and with a numberless number of degrees, yet it is said of him that he never makes a mistake in any of the lodges but has the work down to perfection on all of them. The grand lodge has made no mistake in this appointment.

The raise of 70 mills in Pleasant Hill by the board of supervisors is a very unjust affair to that township. The board attempted to raise the valuation of live stock, and took the above method, which not only raises the live stock but all personal property, but rather than to pick out the value of live stock and raise it individually the increase was made on all personalty, which will cause merchants, for instance, living in Cowles to pay a greater amount of taxes on their stocks than those of this city would pay. The slipshod assessments and the slipshod equalizations are enough to compel a fellow to exclaim "where are we at" for good business men to transact our business.

TAYLOR, the Dakota treasury robber after eluding the vigilance of the detective force, returned to Dakota and received two years in the pen. Cheap for stealing $300,000.

The railroads of the various companies in this county were assessed as follows: Republican Valley, 43 79-100ths miles, per mile $4,300; Nebraska & Colorado, 26 3-100ths miles, per mile $3,300; Pacific railway, 15-100ths of a mile, $498.

Out in Webster county, near the Francis school house, lies a little unknown grave, almost obliterated by the passage of years. A slight depression the ground is all that indicates the spot where years ago an emigrant laid his little child away to sleep, who had sickened and died in the long journey across the plains. No stone to mark the spot; no kind heart to remember the lonely grave; only a parent's knowledge that somewhere on the vast prairie their little one was laid away. But on last Decoration day the children of that school carefully restored the little grave, cleared the surroundings, and planted shrubs to mark the spot, afterward literally covering the little mound with fragrant blossoms. At the conclusion of these ceremonies they marched around the grave two by two and, pausing at the head, lifted their childish voices in the hymn "O think of the home over there." Beautiful childhood, with the God-given love of fellow creatures yet undimmed by worldly experience, the kindly impulses of your heart, so tenderly carried out prove the strength of human sympathy, and the universal brotherhood of man. Every mother blesses your fragrant deed for the sake of the lonely mother who, years before, left so much of her heart and life on the wild Nebraska prairies.—Syracuse Journal.

Thirteen gentlemen with wheels (paradon us, we mean bicycles) from Red Cloud invaded our city last Sunday. With one or two exceptions they were the same jolly band that got badly hypnotized through the influence of four gallons of new milks which was harmlessly supplied them at Smith's pond on the previous Sunday. We have the authority of THE CHIEF for this last item, and of course that paper, like ourselves, is infallible. There was a heavy wind blowing on Sunday forenoon, and the boys from the county seat were obliged to "pump" for all they were worth. Some of them were pretty badly used up, notably Bart Wright, Al Albright and W. A. Sherwood. In fact, if we had not seen their wheels, we would have been tempted to imagine that the whole crowd had been, for 20 miles, wasting their utmost energies trying to produce in unison a top B flat from each of 13 asthmatic cornets—at least, that's just what their faces indicated. Wright and Albright came into town last, threw their wheels down on the middle of main street, and pitched themselves in a corpse-like fashion on the nearest sidewalk. As they lay there at full stretch, they seemed to wish that some of our benevolent citizens would dig a deep grave, fill it with ice water, then empty them in, saying a prayer over them and bidding a long farewell to their respected hardware clerk and worthy grocery merchant. Charley Landmesser headed off to shock the tenderly religious and Sabbatarian sensibilities of our blacksmith by strongly suggesting to him the absolute necessity for a new crank on the pedal of his wheel, and during his absence the two semi-unconscious gentlemen were partially revived. When they realized, however, that we had nothing here but that dreadful new milk, and that none of our worthy citizens would tax his conscience with the fearful responsibility of supplying them with it, they resolved on going right away to Blue Hill. So they commissioned Charley Robinson to telegraph over there, ordering dinner for thirteen and "new milk" for sixty-five. We have not heard of the gentlemen since, but we feel certain that that beautifully golden colored and finely transparent new milk, which is so plentiful in Blue Hill, had an entirely different effect on their physical system to the naturally adulterated substance which comes direct from those unobtrusively useful animals at Smith's pond. This unlucky number should drop off, or add a man to their band.—Bladen Enterprise.

From Tennessee.

The following letter to ex-Congressman McKeighan from J. L. Miller, of Johnson City, Tenn., will be of interest to many Red Cloud people:

JOHNSON CITY, TENN., June 9, 1895.
Mr. W. A. McKEIGHAN—Dear Sir:—

I write you this morning to let you know that we are still in the land of the living and are all well. I hope this will find you and the family well. I have nothing of importance to write at this time. We have a fine season and all kind of crops are good, wheat and oats are very fine and corn is good but not very large yet. We have a fine garden, peas, new potatoes and beans. This is a fine climate, very healthful, and very pleasant to live in. I would not go to Nebraska and live again for anything, as we can live in comfort and not be burned up or frozen up nor blown away. I have not seen a storm or windy day since I have been here, and the nights are cool and one wants a blanket to sleep under. Our business is increasing, and I am of the opinion that we will build up a big business here in time. We have not enough money to run the business as it should be, as it requires considerable in the tanning business, as we tan our leather from eight to twelve months and it takes that time to get a return from the money invested in hides and bark and labor. We have a thousand pieces of leather in process of tanning and finishing at this time, and at the present advance in leather will make us a nice profit. We do not sell any leather except shoe leather. We make harness, saddles, collars and leggins and all kinds of strap work and bridles. We have a fine saddle trade, yesterday we sold four saddles, and two sets of harness, and a lot of small things such as collars and bridles. If we had more money we would be in it. I see by the papers that Nebraska has had big rains and that the prospect for a crop is good. I am so glad for the people that have borne the burden for years, that they have a prospect for a new lease of life. Please let me hear from you at an early date.

Yours,
J. L. MILLER.
