A meeting of the McKinley and Hobart club was held on last Friday night at the court house and a large crowd of both gentlemen and ladies were present. In the absence of Judge Swezey, J. M. Chaffin spoke to the assembled audience and also A. G. Willis and Joz. Garber. The ladies and gentleman's quartette furnished splendid music for the occasion and were repeatedly called back. Considerable disturbance was made by members of both political parties out in the entry way during the speaking. This was not right and should have been squelched. The man who disturbs a meeting of any kind should be thrown out bodily and we hope that each side will hereafter secure a bouncer and see that this is done no matter who is making the disturbance.
