Description of the Girtanner Attachment

For burning Straw, Hay, Corn, Cobs, Corn Stalks, Etc.

HOW IT OPERATES.

FIRST. It is a scientific fact that seventy-five per cent of the fuel burned in the ordinary way is lost. Nearly all of this loss is averted by feeding the fuel from an air-tight magazine, charing the same and consuming the smoke, thereby making complete combustion.

SECOND. By the use of the down draft, it heats the lower portion of the room first, making an even temperature throughout, and at the same time avoiding the necessity of making such intense fires in cold weather.

THIRD. By giving double the heating surface.

FOURTH. By a skilled arrangement of drafts, the fire is at all times under perfect control, and can be kept for many hours with one filling.

FIFTH. Ten pounds of straw, weeds or trash, or twenty pounds of cobs, will burn from three to six hours, with sufficient heat for cooking, or for heating the rooms.

It can be readily seen that the farmer saves his entire fuel bill by the use of the Girtanner Attachment; and the towns-people save from forty to sixty per cent, thus keeping the money at home.

Further than this, it makes a new home industry, instead of sending millions of money to the coal combines, the heretofore waste products of the farm are utilized to supply the need.

The Girtanner Coal Attachment

For Stoves, Furnace and Boilers.

The principles involved in this attachment are very simple. The attachment makes the fuel self-feeding and is air-tight. The down draft is also applied, and it burns the smoke and gases before they leave the fire-box.

Seventy-five per cent of the strength of the fuel ordinarily escapes in the smoke. By this method of burning, the tars, pitches and carbons which are contained in the smoke are utilized. It also avoids the gas, smoke and soot which is created by the ordinary method of burning coal.

It gives a larger heating surface and avoids the necessity of making intense fires to get the desired temperature.

Physicians recommend the Girtanner Attachments for the general health of the home.

They can be used with any old stove thus avoiding the necessity of buying a new one.

Saves 40 per cent on your coal bill.

Consumes the smoke and gases.

The down draft and the scientific principles of utilizing the smoke, gases, tar, etc., as fuel.

Now to the point. The Girtanner Attachment consumes its own smoke, fire grass and combustion by burning them and creating more heat than can be produced by any other method. Other fuel savers simply arrest the heat without producing any, while the Girtanner attachment produces double heat out of the same amount of fuel, and uses much cheaper fuel, such as Hay, Straw, Corn Cobs, Stalks, Manure, Sawdust, Weeds, Garbage, Etc., instead of coal or wood.

WASHINGTON NOTES

While most republicans are pleased to know that the work upon the tariff bill which it is hoped to pass at the extra session of congress has actually been commenced by the majority of the present ways and means committee, they are not all sanguine that the bill can be passed by the next congress as easily as some imagine or as quickly. It took the fiftieth congress, which was democratic in both branches from Dec. 5, 1887 to Jan. 22, 1889, to pass the Mills tariff bill and then it was amended to such an extent by the senate that it died in conference. In the fifty-first congress, which was republican, work was begun on the McKinley bill as soon as the house committee were named, and by application of the new Reed rules the bill was passed on May 2d by the house, but did not get through the senate until September 11th, and, owing to conference on senate amendments and other delays, did not reach President Harrison until Oct. 1, the date upon which it was signed. The present tariff law did not get through congress in even as short a period, and had there not been more or less trickery about the way it was worked by some senators, it might not have gotten through at all. The fifty-third congress, it will be remembered, met in extra session Aug. 7, 1893. Although the extra session was called solely to pass the bill for the repeal of the Sherman silver law, the house committee on ways and means went right to work on the Wilson tariff bill, but that measure did not become a law until Aug. 28th, 1894. It is because they remember the time required to pass these recent tariff bills when the party in power had a good working majority that old-timers are saying nothing when the legislative beginners are talking about passing a tariff bill in sixty days after the extra session meets.

The majority of the senate seems determined to live up to the record of being the most deliberate—some people say lazy, body in the world. Although the Christmas holidays will take up ten days or more of the time of the short session, and the senate calendar is well filled with house bills passed at the last session, some of them measures of importance, the senate only held four short sessions during the first week of congress. The house did much better. It was in session five days and it did a lot of business, including the passing of the pension appropriation bill, some postal bills and a bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor in the capitol building.

Representative Boatner, of La., who will not be a member of the next congress, has introduced a bill to increase the speaker's salary from $8,000 to $10,000 a year and of senators and representatives from $5,000 to $7,500. While a majority in congress would probably like to see this bill become a law, there is no likelihood that a majority will vote for it, because they know the prevailing idea is that the salaries paid are already equal to, if not in excess of the value of the services rendered.

Representative Ray, of New York, believes that the sensational publication of the details of suicides results in increasing suicide, and has introduced a bill making any publication, not devoted to medical science, which publishes the picture of the suicide, or any details, excepting name, date and place of death, unavailable.

Senator Teller braced up several of the silver senators notably Du Bois, of Idaho, and Squire of Washington, who have been getting a little shaky about their re-election, owing to combinations against them by announcing as soon as he arrived in Washington that the first duty of legislatures controlled by silver men was to re-elect senators who had stood by their convictions in favor of silver to the extent of leaving their party. It is thought in Washington that will have great weight, as Senator Teller is regarded as one of the most influential among the silver leaders. Senator Teller declines to express any opinion for publication as to what the programme of the silver man in congress will be, and he escaped a direct question as to what attitude he would himself assume toward the republican tariff bill by saying: "I haven't been re-elected to the senate and my present term expires March 3rd." This wasn't half bad, although Mr. Teller knows, as does everybody else, that his re-election to the senate by practically the unanimous vote of the Colorado legislature is as certain as the meeting of that body a few weeks hence.

The caucus committee appointed by Senator Sherman to devise a bill in the interest of international bimetalism, is made up of silver men—Wolcott, Hoar, Chandler, Gear and Carter.

RHEUMATISM IS A FOE which gives no quarter. It torments its victims day and night. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and cures the aches and pains of rheumatism.

STATE CREEK

While corn gathering is the order of the day and some have made quite a success of gathering, the fields have been fearful muddy since the big rain.

Mr. Cooper of Mammoth Springs, Arkansas, who owned the Heibern farm where Mr. Guthrie lives, has gone home. He started from Lebanon last Friday. The young man traded the farm for Red Cloud property, then traded that for Arkansas property. We regret he traded out.

Prof. Lence, the popular teacher of Downes, has vacation and was visiting his friend V. H. Scribner last week.

Mr. Sapp and family of near Cora was visiting at his wife's father's last Sunday.

C. Barrett and wife visited at her father's last week.

Wm. Rosencrans lost a fine horse in Lebanon last week.

Elder Baker of Concordia and the pastor of the Mt. Hope M. E. Class held a quarterly meeting last Sunday and Monday that was well attended by the neighborhood and many numbers from other classes.

Mr. C. Stevens' little boy Otto is about well.

We think that some of the demopocentric boys of these parts who already look rather woolly and laughingly saying that they will not shave until Bryan is elected will look comical for he never will be.

Who can beat it? Tom Ryan of Walnut creek sold to Hunter of Desvate, seventy-five head of hogs at $2.90. They weighed from 300 up to 600 and fifty-five of them averaged 365.

Old Uncle Wm. Vandyke went with Mr. Cooper to Lebanon and put him for home on the Rock Island road.

M. M. FENNER, M. D., Fredonia, N. Y.
Dear Sir:—As you can well imagine, the worry and arduous duties of a hotel manager during busy season of the World's Fair were sufficient to break down a man of more natural strength than myself. Towards the close of the Fair season I found myself languid, dull, bilious and nervous, not taking the interest of a healthy man in my business. Our house physician recommended your Blood and Liver Remedy and Nerve Tonic as the best remedy his life-long experience in practice had discovered, for my restoration and it accomplished the work completely. To-day I am a well man—thanks to your great remedy."
