WASHINGTON NOTES.

No surprise was felt in Washington at the semi-official announcement that the U. S. would demand all of the Philippine Islands. It has been felt from the first that such would be the ultimate result. Politics has had little or nothing to do with the decision of the administration to adopt this policy. It is public opinion, regardless of politics, that has brought it about. When President McKinley started upon that western trip, neither he nor any member of his cabinet had made up their minds that we should take the Philippines, and at least one of them—Secretary Gage—was opposed to our taking any of the islands, but when they returned to Washington, they had all made up their minds that public opinion was so strongly in favor of American ownership of the entire Philippine group, as the only logical crowning of Dewey's great victory in Manila bay, that no other policy would do. What they heard later at Philadelphia, clinched that opinion, and our peace commissioners at Paris were accordingly instructed to make the demand. So much for the adoption of the policy.

While it is certain that the policy of American ownership of the Philippines will be popular, it remains to be ascertained whether the method of obtaining that ownership will meet with such general approval. It must be understood to start with that no official announcement has been made concerning that method, but that enough has been said by those who ought to know to cause it to be believed the consent of Spain will be obtained either by a direct payment of money to Spain, or by the assumption of about $40,000,000 of Spanish bonds, issued for improvement in the Philippines. At first glance there will naturally be opposition to the U. S. paying $40,000,000 or any other sum, for undisputed possession of territory, which has already been conquered by force of arms. But many will doubtless accept the argument that the Philippine bonds, which were not, as were the Cuban bonds, issued to make war against the natives of the islands, but for purposes of public improvement, should be considered a lien on the island, regardless of ownership, and that it would be an injustice, discreditable to a great country like the U. S. to take the islands from Spain and leave that country to pay indebtedness incurred for public improvements on them. The question is likely to be much discussed, as soon as it becomes absolutely certain upon what terms we are to acquire the Philippines.

At the headquarters of the republican and democratic congressional committees in Washington, the claims are about equal as to which party will elect a majority of the next house, but the opinion outside is that the republicans will retain control of the house by a reduced majority. Some democrats say that they would prefer that the house would remain republican, because if their party carried it, they would have to share in the responsibility of the administration, in inaugurating the experiment of a colonial policy, or take the responsibility of hampering that policy, and that they would prefer doing neither the next two years. If that sentiment exists to any extent among the voters of the party, there is no doubt of the result of the election.

Among the noted officers now in Washington, are Gen. Miles, Wheeler, Lee, and Lawton, of the army, and Capt. Robley D. Evans, and Lieut. Hobson of the navy. The latter officer is here to report to a board of the chiefs of bureaus of the navy department, on his work on the wrecked Spanish ships. This board will decide whether the work shall be continued. Hobson's confidence in success in raising the ships is not shared by all the naval officials. But if public sentiment is consulted, they will not stop Hobson's work, on account of its cost, if there is any certainty of his succeeding in saving the ships. Those ships would, in the eyes of most people, be worth more than new ones would cost, as object lessons in the patriotism, bravery and marksmanship of the American sailors, and if they can be saved, neither cost nor jealousy of Hobson should be allowed to stand in the way.

A rather curious request has been made of the navy department by the Acme Wrecking company of San Francisco. This company wants to raise the battleship Maine, and bring her to the U. S., claiming to have a method by which the work can be accomplished, and asks nothing more of the government than permission to do the work at its own expense. The company states in its request that if the government wishes the ship after it has been brought safe to some U. S. harbor, that it will not ask more than the usual salvage payment, through condemnation proceedings. It is not supposed that the government would care to buy the wreck. In fact, the real object of the company is to raise the Maine in order that she may be exhibited in this country, although nothing of the kind is said in its letter to the navy department. According to the request of the company, it intends to blow the mud from under the wreck, with streams of water under high pressure, and then pass chains under and attach them to framework on each side, connected with a system of steel air-tight barrels. The gradual winding up of these chains is counted upon to raise the wreck.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with a pain in the chest or side, or a lame back, give it a trial. You are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. For sale by H. E. Grice.

RAMBLER.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

From New Zealand.

REKTON, N. Z., Nov. 23, 1898.

I am very pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicine the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes for the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it, and know its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children.

The high spirited team belonging to P. A. Wells was the cause of another accident Monday more serious than the one which happened some time ago.

Mrs. Wells was driving near Amboy accompanied by Mrs. Steffin when her team became frightened by the sound of the application of a brake on a lumber wagon which was going down a hill. The ladies were thrown from the wagon, Mrs. Wells being badly bruised, Mrs. Steffin receiving a fracture of her wrist. Dr. Moranville treated the ladies, dressed their injuries, and the horses were injured but were not damaged.
