MERE MENTIONINGS.

The "rookery" looks better since it got coated with Ringling Bros. show bills.—Red Cloud it is said is to have another electric light proposition.—This time it will be for city ownership.—The plant to be built for and become the property of the city.—Our city don't want electric lights, they might illuminate the streets so that the holes in the sidewalks can be seen.—It might also disclose a scene of the small boy perambulating the streets with young women of shady character.—Then a gleam might fall on the married man who is out promenading with some young girl or some other man's wife.—No we don't want electric lights the people have been in darkness so long that they have become resigned to the present condition of things.—If some means could only be found to obscure the moonlight our happiness would be complete.—There is no use talking about it.—What we need is a modern Joshua.—Then when the night gets about as black as a stack of black cats, let him give a command for the sun and moon to stand still.—But electric lights, nit.—We would be in favor of even giving the lightning bugs a dose of serum similar to that given the chinch bug to accomplish his extermination.—Now if the city wants to do a good thing by its citizens why not buy a merry-go-round.—Just think of the fun that could be had with it.—The people want more amusement and the only time they can get it is at night.—If this won't furnish sufficient amusement why not convert the rookery into a beer garden and advertise it as the ancient temple of Cleopatra.—Anything for amusement.—Speaking of the rookery our amateur photographers should each secure a picture of it when Ringling Bros. bill posters finish up their job.—There are some people in the south end of town kicking because the mayor don't mow down the tall sun flowers.—What do they take our mayor for, a Buckeye or a Milwaukeee.—He is not paid for mowing weeds.—Aside from this we guess those sunflowers are there for the sole use of Ringling's elephants to keep the flies off themselves.—There never was any flies on Ringling's elephants.—Especially the sacred white one.—The eastern papers have a new fad of publishing pictures and descriptions of Nebraska corn fields.
The Interstate Fair will have many good features that have not been given heretofore. An effort has been made to secure the services of a high diver who will dive from a steel tower eighty-five feet high into a tank of water three feet deep. This feature alone is worth more than the price of admission. Remember the dates, September 11, 12, 13 and 14.
The Rev. W. B. Costley, of Stockbridge, Ga., while attending to his pastoral duties at Ellenwood, that state, was attacked by cholera morbus. He says: "By chance I happened to get hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I think it was the means of saving my life. It relieved me at once." For sale by H. E. Grice.

This week a new candidate for sheriff on the republican ticket has made his appearance. The new candidate is James Amack, an old and well and favorably known resident of the southeastern part of the county. He is, practically speaking, a man without enemies, and should be the candidate who is lucky enough to receive the nomination he would prove a vote-getter. He is the kind of a man that always makes friends, but seldom, if ever, by his own actions loses one; honest and conscientious in all he undertakes, but sufficient determination and will power to accomplish any task he undertakes; fair minded and a common, plain, every-day farmer; always the same, wherever you meet him. Such a man is Jas. Amack, the probable next sheriff of Webster county.

Teacher's Certificates Issued.
The following is the report of the county superintendent relative to the teachers certificates:
Number of persons attending institute, 144; number receiving institute certificates, 136.
An institute certificate is simply a statement relative to attendance at institute and efficiency of work in various classes during the session. An institute certificate does not authorize a person to teach school, and is in no way connected with the regular teacher's certificate.
Number of persons examined for teacher's certificates at close of institute, 80. Of this number 23 failed to reach the required grade, 57 received certificates. Nineteen of the 23 who failed in June took examinations in July, at which time nine passed and ten failed to reach the required grade.
During the past year, August, 1898, to August, 1899, certificates have been issued in this county as follows: First grade, 10; second grade, 91; third grade none; total, 101.
EVA J. CASE,
County Superintendent.
The city council or fire department should make some arrangements with the telephone company whereby an alarm could be rung from the central office. This could be done with little expense, and would be very beneficial especially in cases of fire at night. All that would be necessary in case of fire would be to notify central and an alarm could be rung. The necessary electric mechanism for the system would not be very expensive and in many cases would save considerable time usually used in running to the fire bell.
