On last Saturday evening the graduating class was treated to a farewell reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Kelley. Mr. Kelley taking this method of showing his appreciation of the manner in which the class of 1900 had worked under his supervision. The evening was spent in games and a general good time, after which the young folks were invited to the dining room to partake of a bountiful repast which Mrs. Kelley had prepared for them.

The graduating class of this year will go out on life's rough sea with the most pleasant memories of the last few days of school work and also of the social gatherings given in their honor. One of the most pleasant of these was the reception given them by the Juniors, or the class of 1901, last Monday night. The young people met in the Masonic hall where they enjoyed one of the most pleasant evenings that the young people of our city ever spent. The Juniors had games and everything there with which to enjoy themselves and this would have been sufficient for the graduates to remember for years to come, but the Juniors desired to more forcibly impress their minds of the high esteem they held them in, and invited them down to the Star Banquet Parlors where there was in waiting a banquet supper, and enough cannot be said of the way it was gotten up. "Johnnie" and his wife are always at the front when any fine banquet supper is on tapis and they did not deviate from the path this time. The dining room was very tastily draped with pink and green, the class colors. There were thirty-four young people sat down to the table, and by their actions, one could notice the appreciation of the effort that had been put forth in their behalf. During the banquet hour, music was rendered on the piano by Prof. Crone, which with the merriment of the young people, made the dining room ring.

Now that there is a good prospect for crops and all nature seems bent on the making of plenty, it seems to us would be a very opportune time for those in arrears to come in and pay their subscription. As we have said before it is not the large amount of each individual who is in arrears, but taken as a whole it amounts to a large sum. Take for instance the fact that of five hundred delinquents, fifty owe from two to three years, two hundred owe two years and the balance or two hundred and fifty owe one year. This collectively makes a large sum. Some people seem to think that they should receive a paper right along without paying a cent, but they don't stop to think that the publisher has to be eternally putting up the cash. When you read this article stop and think if you are one of the many and then do the right thing. We'll not become a bloated bond-holder but in turn we will pay what we owe.
