ALMOST FORGOTTEN.

Incidents of Every Day Life Which Very Few People Stop to Think About on Account of Their Littleness.

While looking over the abstract of assessment for this year we were stumped to notice the amount of assessments of different things.—According to the total value on diamonds, $180, we haven't got many in this county.—Still you can see many of the flashers, adorning the fingers and shirt fronts of many citizens.—When you see a fellow wearing a great big one you can depend upon it he has bought a prize package or lied to the assessor.—In gold and silver plate and plated ware the county is especially destitute.—But sixty-three dollars worth can be found.—When you go to an elaborate function at the residence of one of our wealthy citizens and see the tables elaborately spread with what looks like silver you can turn up your nose and say that the ware is bogus.—In bicycles the number given is twenty-two, with a valuation of sixty-three dollars.—They are worth exactly what the silver plate is.—But let there be a bicycle tournament and you could get up a parade a mile long.—Then they would not all be in.—It is a shame that this city is not to have a fair this year.—It is a shame that some of our citizens are holding up the money which would go toward the guaranteeing of a fair.—The town owes its patrons a few days of sport of some kind during the year.—What's the matter with holding a street fair, with a big dance and barbecue about the time we have husked our pumpkins.—Let's have something.—Everybody has their troubles, even the night watch.—Especially so when he tells some one to move on and they have him arrested for it.—However a little trouble don't bother him like it does some.—There are some people who think that the night watch ought to be asleep or out of sight all the time.—We have been enjoying a few talks on the street this week.—They are supposed to be religious services.—But as near as we can figure out they are nothing but a few under-estimated private opinions publicly expressed.—The morals of this city, as seen by the expounder of this certain brand of religion, would make the devil hesitate to tackle a job as mayor.—To tell the truth since hearing the discourses (and discords) of the past few evenings, we have come to the conclusion that we have about as tough a town as can be found on the map.—Our young men have all gone to Hades and the girls, the dear sweet things are on the down grade going at a rate that would put a race horse to shame, and all for want of something to lodge against so they can stop.—And the mothers and fathers so blind they can't see what their offspring is coming to.—Surely if this state of affairs exist there is plenty of room for traveling mendicants.—Why not have a street fair this year?—We understand the annual county fair is not going to be held this year.—Some of the boys are already preparing to entertain the crowd with cake walks, bear dances and the honche-coche.—There is no reason why we should not have some amusement.—The big shows are billed all over Nebraska but somehow Red Cloud is left out.—But then we may be lucky enough to get one yet.—The rain last Monday, considering the circumstances, was about the wettest we have had this year.—About one week more like the one previous to the rain and everything would have been done up.—Even the brick buildings had begun to warp.—The average person's estimation of the country is warped clear out of recognition.—The rain however has partially straightened it out.—Anyhow it has cooled off the atmosphere so it is not necessary to get out and sit on the fence about 3 o'clock in the morning to get cooled off.

The weather bureau in speaking of the crop conditions over the state says: "Before Sunday only a few slight scattering showers had occurred in the state. Sunday and Monday a heavy general rain fell in the central and eastern counties, the amount at most
