ALMOST FORGOTTEN.

Incidents of Every Day Life Which Very Few People Stop to Think About on Account of Their Littleness

The first of the month will usher in the palatable bivalve, the oyster. It will also be about the time when the national political campaign will begin in dead earnest. These dainty molluscs will form the basis for many election bets but if you place your faith on the republican presidential nominees we think you will win the oysters. The summer girl who has been used to holding up her best fellow for ice cream, ice cream lemonade, white wings, Sundays, and the thousand and one new summer drinks can now be called the "oyster girl". She will slip into the new role with becoming modesty and will never think that her best fellow's expense account will be six times as large as formerly at one sitting. He may have had hopes of a new winter overcoat but if his salary is not large he will have to forego this expense. It is remarkable the number of persons who have during the present summer taken a layoff from the cares of business and taken trips either to the mountains and to western cities or to their old homes in the east. This has been noticeable not alone with the business man but with the farmer and persons in every walk of life. There must be something outside of the mere matter of cheap rates to make this activity in traveling by the public. One little item alone tells a part of the story. One hundred thousand more hogs have been shipped to market so far this year than last. Hogs, notwithstanding the increased number in shipment have maintained a good price. There has been some prosperity. The farmer has been the recipient of good prices and he has in turn aided the business man. And as a result the two have enjoyed themselves during the heated term, in the mountains. Red Cloud is going to have a sure enough new brick store building. That is cause for general rejoicing. The idea that a man in this city has summoned up courage and nerve enough to invest money in a brick store room in the best town in the valley is awful. The Chief takes off his hat to the gentleman and hopes that after his new building is completed and he moves in he will have a splendid success in the new location. There is always faith that a start in the right direction may have some followers. The west side of Webster street north of the Rust building should be built up with brick, even if they are only one story and they would be paying investments. The east side of the street could be made presentable by a row of bricks and the owners could get enough more in rentals to pay for the investment. We want to tell our subscribers this week the wheat story. It probably is a whopper but it has a moral which fits our case. There was once a farmer who had been fairly successful and had raised a good wheat crop the year before. Out of this crop he had kept a thousand bushels. The next year wheat was an entire failure and his neighbors knowing he had the wheat went to him and bought from one to five bushels each to get a start of seed. The wheat was worth one dollar per bushel and each neighbor promised to pay when he raised a crop. The owner of the wheat owed a mortgage of eight hundred dollars which he intended to lift when he realized from his wheat. Some few kept their promise and paid up promptly. Others said "Oh, I only owe him a dollar, I'll pay him some time when I meet him." So they waited and it came in in dribs long after it was due. But the mortgage wouldn't wait, it was relentless and the farmer who had accommodated his neighbors lost his property. Now our subscription book shows the same condition as the farmer's wheat book. No one subscriber owes an amount that would be hard to pay but the aggregate means a thousand dollars and the relentless mortgage comes around. When a tourist printer comes around and secures work in the office, in order to keep him we have to take him to the clothing store and fix him like an aristocrat. It looks as if it is the clothes that makes the man in the sight of the law. When we give him a dollar at supper time to go and get something to eat we will have to tag him so that after he emerges from his repeat he will not be thrown in for being wobbly. How a man can get a supper, have fifty-five cents left and get drunk and disorderly all out of a dollar we can't see. And a printer at that. He couldn't buy enough booze for the balance to wash the lead poison out of his throat. We can't see the benefit accruing to the city either of arresting this class of people and giving them ten days on bread and water. The dog tax ordinance has been a winner and all kinds of dogs with all kinds of names are now proudly wearing a collar with a license tag.

The Chief Calculating Pencil enables any one to figure faster than the brightest brain can without its aid. A twist of the wrist brings the result. Instructive, interesting and highly useful. From this date we will give one with each dollar paid on subscription.

ESTRAY NOTICE--Taken up at the farm of F. W. Studebaker four miles west of Red Cloud, one bay horse pony ten years old and one light cream pony blind in one eye, about twelve or fifteen years old. F. W. STUDEBAKER.

Notes on the Way to Chicago.
 I had ordered the hack to take me to the depot on Saturday, and the proprietor said he would be at the house at 9:55 a.m. I looked and waited and waited and looked for him until 10:15. I began to think he was not coming and was afraid I would miss the train, when I happened to see a vegetable vender who had disposed of his wares, and I rushed frantically out into the street and asked him to take me to the depot, and he kindly did so. The hack was there but I did not stop to bless the driver, as the train came in before I got my ticket bought, and I had just time to get in the car. I found plenty of room for there was no crowd aboard. The corn seems to be better east of Chester, and when we got into the twelve inch rain region the corn was very green, but I think the rains are a little too late for the ears. The roads were very muddy and every ditch and low place was filled with water. As I left the car at Lincoln I found Mrs. Winters looking for Red Cloud people, but I was the only one she found. I found the department president and others of the W. E. C. and was soon comfortably situated in the headquarters car. It seems that this time the railroad company had furnished cars enough so there was no crowding and there were three well loaded trains pulled out of Omaha Saturday night containing Nebraska's people bound for Chicago. We crossed the Mississippi just at daylight. It was raining and rained all day Sunday. The corn looks fine in Illinois. We arrived at Chicago at 11 a.m. As we marched up to the gate to go into the depot, all having Nebraska badges on, the boys ranged along by the railing said, "These are Nebraska people, let us hurry for Bryan." Some of the old soldiers resented it and yelled out, "We are not pops." Great crowds are coming into Chicago every day. They expect a million people and they will come. I found my niece standing at the head of the stairs. We went over to another depot and soon started for Racine. Chicago has increased so in size that it seems to extend about twenty-five miles up the lake. Great manufacturing buildings have sprung up in the last few years, business is good and there is no lack of work. It is very cool and comfortable here. E. B. KNIGHT.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
 Genesee Pure Food Co., Le Roy, N. Y.
 Gentlemen--Our family realize so much from the use of GRAIN O that I feel I must say a word to induce others to use it. If people are interested in their health and the welfare of their children, they will use no other beverage. I have used them all but Grain-O. I have found superior to any, for the reason that it is solid grain.
 Yours for health,
 C. F. MYERS.
