A real estate man once said if he wanted to get a good price for a piece of city or town property, it always paid him to paint it up nicely and put it in good order. The same may be said of a farm. A farm that is tastefully arranged, with well kept buildings and a nice front lawn, and plenty of paint on the buildings will sell for more money than a similar farm without these evidences of care. If a farm is not to be sold, it will still pay to have the grounds in a fine shape as a home. Make the home attractive and a sanctuary of hallowed association.

One of our enterprising merchants made a suggestion to us the other day which we believe is a good one if the merchants will all take hold and push it along. It is that the merchants set apart some special day as a bargain day, each offering some special bargain for that day, then advertise the fact well, and thus make an inducement that would bring people here from a distance as well as those who live near. This would give the people some bargains as well as to advertise Sterling as a good place to trade.—Sterling Sun.

One of our exchanges has the following to say about the scarcity of news in their bailiwick. "News! News! News! Its enough to give a man the blues—nobody married, nobody dead, nobody broken an arm or a head. No one sent up for taking a horn, nobody buried, nobody born. Oh for a racket, a riot, a tare, somebody to give somebody a scare. Somebody thumped within an inch of his life; someone run off with somebody's wife; someone to come in and pay up his dues; anything, anything, just so it's news."

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it as a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional remedies. Hall's Catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. A good joke is told on a newspaper man in the north part of the state. He wrote up a nice little puff for the leading milliner of the town, in which he said he was "glad to see her stooking up." Meeting the scribe on the street she soaked him with her parasol and threatened to tell his wife. The unsophisticated editor has never been able to figure out what was wrong with his item.

A couple of Chariton girls, says the Silver City Times, becoming infatuated with the idea of having their heads photographed, coquetishly stuck through a torn newspaper, visited a photographer for that purpose. However when the pictures were finished, they were horrified to behold what they had before failed to notice—the paper through which they had stuck their heads was a Chicago sheet, and just beneath their smiling faces was a big display advertisement of a clothing firm, which announced "Our pants are lined in the seat."
