

Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all. My wife thinks MOTHER'S FRIEND is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers."

MOTHER'S FRIEND

prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. MOTHER'S FRIEND takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

WEIRD INDIAN DANCE

Mourning Ceremonies in Memory of a Deceased Chief.

HIDEOUS ORGIES AND HORRIBLE SELF-MUTILATION PERFORMED BY A BAND OF CALIFORNIA REDMEN—DANCING IN THE FIRE.

The Mesa Grande Indians of San Diego county gave the wildest fire-dance that has ever been witnessed in this part of the country near here a short time ago says a southern California paper.

The ceremonial was given to commemorate the death of Jose Clayto, a prominent young chief of his tribe, who was killed last year. Big mourning ceremonies attended his burial, but none of them were so terrific as the memorial orgies.

The dance was given at nine o'clock at night in the large open square of the festa grounds of the village.

In the middle of the plaza a great fire of logs lighted up the weird scene and threw a flickering and uncertain illumination upon the wild and excited faces and figures of hundreds of squatting squaws and standing Indians, all hideously and grotesquely painted and all grimly watching the places where the dancers were concealed.

About 9:30 o'clock two great Indians emerged from the deep mysterious shadows of the ramadas about 20 yards from the spectators, and, slowly crouching and stooping as they came, approached the fire, uttering wild, strange guttural cries. They were naked to the waist, and their great, sinuous bodies were painted hideously with a white paste. They wore a headdress of owl feathers and a festoon of eagle plumes draped from their shoulders to their waists.

In their strange, savage, crouching position they danced slowly and solemnly about the fire three times, bowing, kneeling and gesticulating to it with barbaric cries and yells and then disappearing in the shadows whence they came.

An interval of silence followed, during which the fire played fitfully upon the set, tragic faces of the spectators. The roar and cackle of the burning logs was the only sound in the great plaza.

At last a solitary Indian leaped from the shadowy ramadas with a wild, unearthly cry and circled about the fire with mad yells and excited gestures, three times, and then returned with another strange cry into the shadows.

He was followed by a band of 15 Indians who emerged from the darkness crawling slowly on their hands and knees. As they came they uttered strange, low guttural sounds in their throats. They, like their predecessors, were naked to their waists and daubed with streaked and white paint. Their lithe brown legs were bare, but their loins were encircled with a short skirt of dark feathers. They wore head dresses of black crow feathers which fell to their waists in dark festoons.

The procession of crawling Indians was preceded by three braves, who walked backward, and apparently tried to herd the others back. As the procession slowly wound around the fire ten of the crawling creatures tried to roll into the blaze, but they were prevented by the herders.

When the band had made the circle of the blaze three times it came to a halt and the herders were handed bowls of a magic fluid by the medicine men which they sprinkled upon the heads and backs of the kneeling savages with feathers.

During this ceremony not a sound was heard but a low, monotonous chant which the squaws had begun as the procession halted.

After the sprinkling the band leaped up and began a furious dance, accompanied by yells and shrieks of maddened excitement. As the dance grew wilder the chants grew louder and more frantic, the women joined in the chorus, and for ten hours the braves danced until they could hardly stand. The women heaped up the fire, the logs blazed up and illuminated the whole plaza, and the assembly joined in the furious dance.

For a half hour this continued, and then all but the original dancers withdrew, led by old Sonone with his medicine rattle.

Then came the most hideous part of the whole hideous performance. Suddenly, with deep grunts and guttural snarls of excitement, the whole band sat down about the fire and thrust their feet into the blaze.

The place was filled with the sickening odor of burning flesh, but not one Indian flinched or moved his feet from the fire.

The dance continued until the Indians had danced the coils out, when they all fell on their knees where the fire had been, and with frenzied excitement beat it out with their unprotected hands.

Sponge Cake Charlotte.
A variation to the usual baker's charlotte can be made at home with sponge cake. Make or buy one that is baked in a pan about four inches high, four or five inches wide and long in proportion. The cake should be 24 hours old before it is used. Take off the top neatly, scoop out the center, filling the space with a charlotte of whipped cream. Restore the top and cover with a chocolate icing. The dish may be ornamented with almonds that have been blanched and slightly browned and bits of citron if that flavor is liked. Powdered macaroons may be mixed with the whipped cream filling if desired.—N. Y. Post.

OVERLOADED WITH LESSONS.

Nearly All Schoolgirls Study Too Many Hours a Day, Says Ethelinda Hadwen.

There is only a certain amount of vital force in each child's body; if you, by giving too much brain and nerve straining work, oblige all that vital force to concentrate itself on the brain, where is the force which is to form the healthy body to come from?

says Ethelinda Hadwen, in Chambers' Journal. You will not produce a noble, large-minded woman if you give the girl-child a puny, half developed body because you are desirous of putting too much music, German and French into her brain in too short a time.

Of what use is book learning to a girl who has no health? Moreover, too much nerve-straining brainwork means not merely impaired health, but also impaired personal appearance. A good complexion, good teeth, fine hair, clear, bright eyes, an erect, active figure, are not found in the girl whose brain has been systematically overworked.

Six hours of brainwork is the most that should be expected of any schoolgirl in one day; but girls of 15 and 16 are so overloaded with lessons that they work, not six hours, but nine and ten hours a day.

Now, an eight hour day of brainwork is considered quite sufficient for a strong man; how is it reasonable to expect that a girl who has not only to expend brain power, but also growing power, and whose nervous system is in such a condition that the labor is far harder in proportion for her, shall work for two hours longer per day than the strong man? The thing is absurd, and the general result is that the girls too often, like senior wranglers, have exhausted their brains and lost all power of original thought before they leave the academic world and enter the world of action.

"Girls should not go to school until they are seven years of age, and then should not have more than three hours of lesson work daily. At the age of nine they may study four hours, and at 12 the hours may be increased to five. At 14 years a girl should be taken from school for a year. That year will be most usefully spent in building up a reserve stock of strength and in learning housewifely tasks. At the age of 18 or 19 a girl is apt to become impatient over the routine of household tasks, whereas the girl of 14 or 15 is deeply interested and quite ready to learn. After a year's interval she will go back to school with zest, and her mind, having had a rest, is invigorated that she more than makes up in quickness of comprehension and power for the time which has been otherwise spent. During this year of change of work the girl may profitably read standard romances, histories and other forms of good literature.

"Come on," he shouted, as he started.

"No, my friend," replied the farmer, "not if you have any money about you. It is sure to be taken from you in a rough crowd like that."

"Here, you hold it and my watch until I run out a few minutes, and then I'll hold your valuables while you go."

"All right, don't be too long," and the farmer accepted his trust.

When the minister returned the farmer was gone. Never did a clerical masquerade come to a quick end. He rushed around muttering things profane, kept his hand in his hip pocket and told everybody but the policeman that he could lick any farmer that ever wore shoe leather. Half an hour later he was in a saloon making things blue. "I'll know him if I ever see him again. I don't care how he's dressed, and I'll cut him into inch squares. I don't know any man to make a sucker of me and live to blow about it."

"Some guy cross-counter on the con game, Dick?"

"None of your blanked business; but if that mug didn't do the farmer as well as I did the sky pilot I'll jump off the dock. He had a bunch with him as thick as your arm too. But he's got all my stuff and some lamb's got to make good."

It had simply been a case of diamond cut diamond.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)
These are days of records and of the beating of records. Benson's Porous Plaster, for quickness of action and thoroughness of cure, has no records to beat except its own. Benson's Plaster, always the best, always the leader, is to-day better than ever. It sticks to the skin but never sticks in its tracks. It marches on.

The people not only want to be cured but cured quickly—and Benson's Plaster does it. Coughs, colds, lumbago, asthma, bronchitis, liver and kidney complaints, and other ills approachable by an external remedy, yield to Benson's plaster as to heat.

Neither Belladonna, Strengthening or Capsicum plasters are to be compared with Benson's. People who have once tested the merits of Benson's Plaster have no use for any other external remedy.

More than 5,000 physicians and druggists (and a thousand times as many non-professional persons) have called Benson's Plaster one of the few (1) home remedies that can be trusted.

Fifty-five highest awards have been made to it in competition with the best known plasters of Europe and America. Better proof of its merits is inconceivable. Be sure to get the genuine.

CAUGHT AT HIS OWN GAME.

Over-Confident Confidence Man Falls a Victim to the Apparently Guileless.

Waiting at the union depot was a round-faced man with an attractive countenance, eyes that invited confidence, and rather long hair that waved from a fine forehead. He was dressed in clericals and looked the part. When the old farmer took a seat after buying a ticket for Ypsilanti the two fell into conversation and the Detroit Free Press.

The minister brought the talk around to pickpockets and men who fool you out of your money, and expressed a great dread of them. He clung to this topic until the noise of a row was heard from the outside and he expressed a desire to see what was the matter.

"Come on," he shouted, as he started.

"No, my friend," replied the farmer, "not if you have any money about you. It is sure to be taken from you in a rough crowd like that."

"Here, you hold it and my watch until I run out a few minutes, and then I'll hold your valuables while you go."

"All right, don't be too long," and the farmer accepted his trust.

REV. L. L. CARPENTER, Wabash, Ind., is President of the Bethany Assembly at Brooklyn, Ind. He is perhaps the most prominent clergyman in the Christian Church to-day. He has dedicated about 500 churches and baptised 7000 converts. He writes:—"It affords me great pleasure to give my testimony as to the efficiency of Dr. Kay's remedies. Dr. Kay's Lung Balm is the very best cough, cold and throat remedy that I ever used."

I have also received great benefit from the use of Dr. Kay's Renovator. My son had for years been greatly afflicted with the piles; he commenced the use of Dr. Kay's remedies and experienced relief almost from the first.

We have no words to express our thankfulness for the benefit we have received as the result of using these remedies. I take great pleasure in commending them to the suffering." L. L. CARPENTER, Missionary and S. S. Evangelist, Christian Church.
