Sending Them Headlong to the Ground—Other News

Frank Smith, a mechanic, and John Dennis, a military convict from Fort Sheridan, Ill., fell from a scaffolding and were killed while working on the smokestack at the new federal penitentiary, at Leavenworth, Kan. They were working inside a heavy sheet iron tube, riveting bolts. They were standing on a scaffolding which was attached by four hooks in rivet holes. One of the hooks broke. Both men fell sixty feet, striking a cross beam, and from this twenty feet more on to a pile of tools and brick. Smith has been a sheet and wrought iron worker for years and lived in Leavenworth. Dennis was a soldier when he was convicted of robbery and sent to Leavenworth to serve a two years' sentence.

WRECK ON BURLINGTON

Two Trains Try to Pass on the Same Track

A Broken Bow dispatch of September 7 says: When entering the yards here at 5:50 this morning, the through Burlington St. Louis-Billings flyer, west-bound, collided with a freight engine, wrecking both engines and overturning the baggage and mail coaches of the passenger. A negro tramp, whose identity has not been determined, was killed while riding on the platform of the mail car. The wreck delayed traffic east and west several hours.

The cause of the wreck, which is the most disastrous ever experienced in this section, was that the engine of a freight train, which had been sidetracked near the depot, shunting cars and making up its train in the yards, had run out on the main line preparatory to backing down to its train. Just as it got onto the main track, No. 31, the St. Louis passenger, due at Broken Bow at 5:54, swung around the curve and dashed into the freight engine. The engineer of the passenger saw the freight engine while applying the brakes, preparatory to stopping at the depot, and this alone probably averted a terrible catastrophe, as the passengers on the St. Louis train were still in their bunks.

As it was, the track was torn up for a distance of fifty feet and the engines were distributed about the main track and sidings. The express and mail cars on the passenger were splintered, but beyond severe bruises their occupants escaped unhurt.

AMERICANS LIVE LONGER

Increase is Over Seven Years Since 1810

White Better Than Negroes

The census bureau has issued a statement showing the increasing age of the population from decade to decade. The statement gives the results of computing the median, instead of the average age. The median is such a age that half the population is under it and half is over it. The median age of the total population in 1900 was 22.8, as compared with 21.9 in 1890. The median age of the white population in the last census year was 23.4 and the colored, including negroes, Indians and Mongolians, was 19.7, while in 1890 the white population was 22.4 and the colored 18.3.

The report shows there was an increase in the median age of the white population from 1810 to 1900 amounting in the ninety years to 7.4.

No Damage by Frost

The frost that visited Yankton, S. D., recently did little damage. In low places corn was injured somewhat but not to any extent. First reports have proved somewhat exaggerated and were followed by much more reassuring ones. The general yield will not be affected by the visitation.

Fred Burgi threshed on his farm three miles northeast of Yankton. He reports a yield of rye, twenty-five bushels to the acre, and sixty bushels of oats per acre. This is the best showing so far this season.

CHURCH BUILT IN A DAY

The Men of the Congregation Worked and the Women Got Dinner for Them

Armourdale, Kansas, can boast of a church built in one day. The church is the Baptist chapel at Fourteenth street and Scott avenue, in the district known as "red town." The church is 16 feet by 26 feet and was built between sunrise and sunset last Monday.

The congregation of the Armourdale Baptist church on May 25 began holding meetings in the homes of the members. By the latter part of August the church had a membership of sixty-two. On August 2 the congregation purchased the two lots at Fourteenth street and Scott avenue. Then the problem of building a church came up. They had not the money to hire the building done so they decided to hold an old time "building bee" a recent morning forty men assembled at the site of the proposed church. Some carried saws, some hammers and other what tools they could find about their homes. The men worked with a will and by night the church was finished. The women of the congregation in the meantime prepared a dinner which was served on the grounds to the workmen.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Rev. F. L. Streeter, pastor of the Armourdale Baptist church, preached the dedicatory sermon in the little church which was built in a day.

MAY DIVIDE THE CAMP

Branches of the Service to be Separated for Strategic Purposes

A Fort Riley, Kas., special says: Instructions from the war department have stopped all preparatory work on the present camp site, where the troops to take part in the maneuvers were to be mobilized in the Smoky Hill bottoms. Present indications point to a divided camp for strategic purposes, presumably by the infantry and artillery on the Pawnee flats, east of the post, and the cavalry on the Republican flats, one mile north of Junction City. The hospital and signal corps may be under the bluffs and close to the post proper. This action probably is the result of the meeting of the tactical board of officers at Omaha. Mayor H. H. Macomb, artillery corps, has arrived from Washington, and is at work on a topographical map of the reservation.

Matine Follows Nebraska

Amos G. Gerald of Fairfield, Ia. is about to embark in a novel enterprise at South Freeport, Me., where he has enclosed a large tract of land, will cross several pure blooded buffaloes or bison which he owns, with a herd of polled Angus or Galway cows, recently purchased. He says: "The polled Angus, originally Italian stock, has been found best suited to crossing with the thoroughbred bison. A half-breed of this type gives marked satisfaction, a three-quarter animal retains the vigorous physique of the cow with many characteristics of the bison. Similar experiments have been successful in Nebraska, where the hair of the half-breed has attained a high commercial value."

Drowns While Seeking a Body

While attempting to recover the body of George, the 6-year-old son of Anton Cerny, William Sutton, aged 30, was drowned in the raceway of the Cooper mills in the presence of 200 spectators, Cedar Rapids, Ia. Sutton had been urged to take a cork jacket, carried by William Davis, who recently escaped death in the burning of an inebriate asylum in Chicago, but declined the offer, saying that he was not afraid of drowning.

Tower Man Prevents Disaster

In the yards of the Southern Pacific railway at West Oakland, Cal., a runaway freight engine was making for a dozen or so trains standing along the platform and crowded with hundreds of passengers, when a tower man just in the nick of time switched the engine onto a side track. August Jascki, a man seventy years old, residing at Elm Creek, was struck by a Union Pacific freight train and instantly killed. Everything shows that he deliberately walked in front of it with suicidal intent. Jascki was a widower, his wife having died about five years ago. For several years he had talked as though he did not care to live, although he had no special cause for despondency. He came to Elm Creek in 1879.

A SULLEN DESPERADO

Fifty Men Diligently Searching for Murderer Fred Kams

Fifty men under command of Sheriff Lusk, of Burr county, Nebraska, are scouring the wilds along the Missouri river, above and below Decatur, in the hope of capturing a fleeing murderer. The Beatrice bloodhounds were telegraphed for Saturday and a desperate battle is expected before the man is taken.

Fred Kams is the man's name and he seems possessed of a desire to emulate Outlaw Tracy. He has already killed one man, Sheriff Strain of Monona county, Iowa, and with a gun and plenty of ammunition, he has sworn that he won't be captured alive. Kams is well known in Nebraska, having once cowed a crowd of Indians on the reservation in Thurston county and escaped after a thrilling running fight.

The last heard of Kams was that he had crossed the Missouri into Nebraska, and with a three days' start it is evident that he will only be taken by concerted action on the part of the officers of the towns within a radius of a hundred miles around.

A Binghamton, N. House Robbed and Fired

Fire destroyed the home of John Nickerson at Grand Island while the family was absent. The father and son are in Denver, and the mother and another son, during the former's illness, were with a neighbor. When first discovered a window was found open, and it is the general belief that the house was burglarized and the fire was set to it to hide the evidence of the crime. The insurance will not more than cover half of the loss. An adjacent residence, that of a Mr. Amick, also started burning, but was saved by the arrival of the fire department.

Automobile Explodes

The Red Devil, an automobile built in Omaha, exploded in that city while standing on the street. Parts of the machine were carried one hundred feet and the cushion of the seat was blown on top of a three-story building. The machine was built and owned by Harry Sharp, who with three companions were in a saloon nearby when the explosion occurred. They would have been killed had they been mounted on the seats. The machine was run by steam with gasoline fuel. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

INSANE MAN IN CUSTODY

Sheriff at Plattsmouth Captures Queer Acting Stranger

Plattsmouth officers recently arrested a stranger whose actions were rather queer. He seemed to be under the hallucination that he was being followed by someone who wanted to kill him. At the jail the man told Sheriff McBride he believed it would be best to kill himself and thus foil his persecutor, but the officer succeeded in talking him out of that notion. He gave his name as William Jones, but would give no information as to where he came from or where he lives. He said he has a sister named Mrs. Nora Baird, who resides at Benkelman, Neb. The sheriff communicated with the authorities at that place, but they replied that there was no woman by that name there. Later the sheriff telephoned to the Lincoln asylum, but was informed that no patient by the name of Jones had disappeared from that institution. A search of his pockets brought to light two cinders, each the size of a man's fist, which he had doubtless picked up along the railroad track with which to protect himself against his imaginary foe. He appears to be between thirty and thirty-five years of age.

Carleton, of Haverhill, to represent the state at the launching ceremonies.

CORN TO BE KING

If a Week More of Good Weather Prevails

MR. LOVELAND SO REPORTS

Frost in Some Sections, But Not Heavy Enough to Do Much Damage—Rain-fall Light and Hardly Worth Mentioning—Other News

Ten days more without severe frosts and the major portion of Nebraska's corn crop will be beyond the reach of injury. So says Director Loveland of the Nebraska climate and crop service. He summarizes conditions thus:

The past week has been cool and dry. Very light frosts occurred in very low places, but not sufficiently severe to kill even tender vegetation, except in a few instances.

The rain fall has generally been too small to measure.

The past week has been an excellent one for haying and threshing throughout the state. It is the first week since harvest commenced that this work could continue practically in all parts of the state uninterrupted by rain for the whole week.

Grain in shock and stack was benefited by the dry weather, and much hay was secured uninjured by rain.

Corn has matured more rapidly than during any preceding week this season. Much of the early planted corn is now beyond possible injury by frost, and ten day or two weeks without severe frosts will place all but the very late fields out of danger.

The dry weather of the past week has been very favorable for the advancement of all kind of farm work. Threshing has progressed rapidly, and considerable prairie hay has been secured in excellent condition. The past week was the most favorable one of the season for ripening corn. The last days of the week, being warm and dry, were especially favorable, and corn is maturing nicely throughout the section.

GOLD PILE IS ENORMOUS

Greatest Amount Ever Held by United States Treasury

A Washington dispatch says: The sum of gold now in the United States treasury exceeds that of any previous time in the history of the country, and with one possible exception, it exceeds that of any country at any time in the history of the world. The single reported exception is that of Russia about eight years ago, when that country was preparing to resume gold payments.

At that time Russia is said to have had in its treasury $598,000,000 in gold. The vaults of the United States treasury contained $573,936,194, an increase since July 1, 1901, of $79,087,897. This stock of gold is now being added to at the rate of from $200,000 to $300,000 a day, with no prospects of a recession in the rate of deposits. This condition of things is eminently satisfactory to the treasury officials, who regard it as the best possible evidence of prosperity and of confidence in the financial stability of this country.

The gold now coming in is being replaced by gold certificates, United States notes and silver certificates, the former being supplied where the denominations wanted are $20 and over and the United States notes for tens and silver certificates for fives, twos and ones.

EACH HAD HIS PRICE

City of St. Louis, Mo., Robbed Blind by Its Delegates

A sensation was caused at St. Louis by the issuance of bench warrants for the arrest of eighteen members and former members of the house of delegates on the confession of Delegate J. K. Murrell, who fled to Mexico last spring after being indicted for bribery by the December grand jury in connection with the alleged hoodling operations of the municipal assembly in relation to the granting of street railroad franchises, and who unexpectedly returned to the city through the efforts of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, and surrendered. He is now in the custody of Circuit Attorney Folk and will, it is stated, be granted immunity from punishment for turning state's evidence.

The other arrests were allowed to go to their respective homes in the custody of deputy sheriffs, who will remain with them until they shall have furnished surety for their appearance in court.

With the exception of William Tamblin, who was a member of the last house of delegates, and is now said to be in Cleveland, all of the indicted delegates are believed to be in the city. Steps have been taken to secure all.
