A Boon delivered to J. M. Carnahan ten cars of fat cattle and received $5.20 per hundred for them. They were a fine bunch of cattle and this was a nice price for them, which shows that Mr. Boon is a good feeder.

Peculiarities of Lichens.

The lichen is remarkable for the great age to which it lives, there being good grounds for believing that they endure as long as a hundred years. Their growth is exceedingly slow, almost beyond belief, indicating that only a little nourishment is necessary to keep them alive. In a dry time they have the power to suspend growth altogether, renewing it again at the fall of rain. This peculiarity alone is enough to make the lichen a vegetable wonder, as it is a property possessed by no other species of plant. Another interesting fact about lichens is that they grow only where the air is free from dust and smoke. They may be said to be a sure indication of the purity of the air, as they are never found growing in cities and towns, where the atmosphere is impregnated with dust, soot, smoke and other impurities.

A Bird's Weapon.

Birds while still in the egg have a sharp, horny spike attached to the upper part of the beak, by means of which they are assisted in breaking out of the shell. This prominence becomes opposed to the shell at various points in a line extending all around the egg at about one-third of the egg's length from the large end. It makes a series of little holes, thus weakening the shell, and when the chick arrives at a certain stage of strength and development it has no difficulty in breaking out. In the common fowl this little weapon drops off a day or two after it is hatched, but on the pigeon and birds that are fed by their parents it sometimes remains for two weeks.

Slingers of Greece.

The Acarnanians were considered the most skillful slingers of Greece. These weapons were used not only to throw stones, but balls of lead, and in some localities, especially in the plain of Marathon, many of these metal projectiles have been found. The relics are interesting from the inscriptions and devices cut upon them, which consist of the names of persons and appropriate epithets, the legend in many cases meaning when fully translated "Look out!"

When a Horse Is Down.

When a witness in an English court the other day remarked that it was necessary to sit on a horse's head when he was down to keep him quiet the judge replied: "Nothing of the kind. People don't seem to understand that the only thing necessary is to get hold of his ear and keep his nose up in the air. I have seen a lady keep a horse quiet in that way without soiling her gloves."

Ordinance No. 48.

An ordinance regulating the furnishing of intoxicating liquors in the city of Red Cloud to or for persons addicted to the excessive use of the same, and providing penalties for the violation thereof.

Be It Ordained by the Mayor and Council of the City of Red Cloud:

SECTION ONE. That it shall be lawful for the wife or other person dependent for support in any degree, upon one in the habit of becoming intoxicated, or addicted to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors, to cause to be given to any liquor dealer in the City of Red Cloud a notice forbidding the sale or furnishing of intoxicating liquors to such person addicted to the excessive use of intoxicating liquor, which notice shall be in writing and signed by the person giving the same, and such liquor dealer shall keep posted in his place of business, subject to public inspection, a list of the names of all such persons concerning which such notice has been given, and it shall be unlawful after such notice has been given to sell or otherwise furnish or procure directly or indirectly, to or for any such person or persons any intoxicating liquor; and any person violating the provisions hereof, or who shall directly or indirectly sell, furnish, deliver or procure to or for any such person against whom notice is so given any intoxicating liquor, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding fifty dollars, in the discretion of the court, and be imprisoned until such fine and costs are paid. Provided, that no licensed liquor dealer in said city shall be liable hereunder, unless such notice shall be given him.

SECTION TWO. All ordinances and parts of ordinances conflicting with any of the provisions of the foregoing ordinance are hereby repealed.

This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, approval and publication according to law.
