

The Great Western Endless Apron Manure Spreader

WE have selected for our trade the Great Western spreader because we know it to be the best spreader on the market. We know this because we have looked over the other makes of spreaders and compared them piece for piece, and we know there is no other spreader that is as good as the Great Western. We have found this out just the same as you can find it out; and when you buy a manure spreader you should know how the machine is made, as a spreader is a machine that must stand hard knocks and a big strain. The Great Western will never be found wanting.

"It is made for the man who wants the best."

The main frame is all made of oak. It has two big heavy steel truss and stay rods which keep the frame square. Here is where other manufacturers fall down. Many manufacturers make their spreader frames out of pine, but do not use stay rods. The frame that carries the machinery soon twists out of shape, causes friction, binding and breaking.

The front axle has a big oak axle cap the full width. It is to the axle is a big heavy 16 inch malleable iron fifth wheel braided front and rear. The fifth wheel is oscillating, so that if one wheel drops into a rut the body is carried practically level, there is no twisting out of shape.

Above the fifth wheel are two oak bolsters, each 3 x 5 inches. They carry the front end of the machine. The front axle is set back under the front end of the body, so the load is nearly equally balanced over the front and rear wheels.

You know that oak in the frame is better than pine. You know that the front end of the machine is better than the front end of a machine with an arched axle, because you know it won't pull out.

We believe, in fact we know, we can show you if you will call, that the front end of this machine costs at least $3 or $4 more than the cheap arched axle style of machines. We say it is worth $10 more.

This machine has an oak pole. We don't believe there is a wagon in this country that has a pine pole; yet pine poles are put on many makes of spreaders. It is just as essential that a manure spreader have a good pole as a wagon. The single trees are made of hickory and are wagon style, not sawed out square like cultivator single trees.

The seventy-bushel spreader which we recommend weighs 220 pounds. Most other seventy-bushel machines weigh 180 pounds to 199 pounds.

We know the heavy machine costs more to make; we know it is stronger; we know it will pull lighter with the same load than a light machine spreader, because all of the parts are always in line; there is no binding or twisting.

When you buy a GREAT WESTERN you pay for it, it will always be ready for service. It is your kind of a manure spreader, because it is made for the man who wants the best. We can afford to take a little less profit on a good machine like the GREAT WESTERN, that will never give us any trouble than on a light machine that will keep us chasing out in the country to keep it in repair.

You can afford to pay a little more for a machine that won't cause you any trouble because it will always be ready to hitch to.

The GREAT WESTERN spreads all kinds of manure. It has a hood and end gate to keep the manure away from the horse while loading. It has an endless apron (not a half apron). It is so simple that a boy can operate it. If you want a real good manure spreader, come and let us show you all the good points. We have sold a great many of these machines and we have never sold any other machine or implement that has given us so little trouble. Whenever you find a GREAT WESTERN spreader you find a satisfied customer.

Jos. Chevalier and daughter, Miss Blanche, were visitors in Upland over night Tuesday, on business connected with the new bank, which opened its doors Monday.

X. LaPorte, who has been suffering for a number of years from some complaint upon the nature of which physicians do not appear to agree, left yesterday morning for St. Joseph's hospital, Omaha, where he will undergo an operation.

BLOOMINGTON

(From the Advocate.)

A. P. Monk has rented the Commercial Hotel.

One day last week Dick Richards, the tenant on the Brown farm west of town, threshed twenty bushels of fine alfalfa seed from a little less than six acres.

Last Tuesday night Mrs. J. B. Sumner gave a dinner party in honor of Mrs. C. E. Harris and I. B. Hampton, who are soon to leave for their homes in the south.

Chris Olson returned last Friday night from his visit to his old home in Denmark. He had not been back since he left there twenty-six years ago, and he reports that he found many changes, and that he saw nothing during his long trip that looked as good to him as Nebraska.

Our citizens were pained last Tuesday morning to learn of the death of little Ethel Reynolds. She had just been through a siege of diphtheria and no apprehension was felt as to her ultimate recovery but Tuesday morning while her mother was lifting her onto a chair she expired very suddenly from heart failure.

SUPERIOR

(From the Express.)

Grant Usher's baby boy was very sick last week.

Miss E. Brodstone is now at Glasgow, Scotland, for a few days.

It is reported that there will be an ice plant erected here this year.

GUIDE ROCK

(From the News Letter.)

Wm. Ryker is getting material on the ground for his new residence.

Wm. Montgomery informs us of his intention to at once commence getting out the cement blocks for a new building on his lots south of the Guide Rock House.

The big cottonwood tree in front of Montgomery's little frame building south of the Guide Rock House, was cut down last week and made into firewood. This tree, if we remember rightly, was planted there by Chas. Corwin twenty four years ago this spring.

E. Peters surprised himself one day last week by throwing a piece of scum through one of the plate glass windows in his new building. The glass had just been put in, but Mr.

Tribute to the Phonograph

Even John Philip Sousa, the great bandmaster, who has no use for Phonographs, has been forced to recognize the Phonograph as a formidable competitor. The two-step king says that people will no longer go to concerts if they can have music in their own homes so easily and so cheaply as they can with the Phonograph. This is an unwilling tribute, but it is nevertheless a tribute. The man who has a Phonograph has a concert in his own house. Even a king could not have more. At our store you can hear them any time.

Peters was forgetful of the fact and the little lapse of memory will cost him about fifty dollars.

BLUE HILL.

(From the Leader.)

Mrs. Smith has the frame work on her new house nearly finished.

Mrs. A. L. Prentice has been quite sick the past week, but is recovering again.

Henry Milner came in from Fresno, Calif., yesterday and will visit a few days with friends.

F. T. Hopka has been confined to his home several days this week with a bad case of the grip.

Fred Kruger is erecting a new house and barn on his lots in west Blue Hill, near the ball grounds.

INAVALE.

James Kincaid is quite sick with la grippe.

Grandma Holdrege was a Red Cloud visitor on Monday.

Representative Wm. Renkel came home from Lincoln this morning.

Fred Stoner is driving the mail on route 3 while Mr. Koelme is in the office.

S. B. Carpenter is on the sick list this week. His son-in-law, Frank Koelme is looking after the post-office.

Look out for the Lincoln Male Quartette, March 2. This is going to be the greatest entertainment of the season.

Chas. Stoner is building a new house on the lot just south of Guy Barker's.

C. A. Waldo and W. L. Norris returned from Kansas City this morning.

The people over at Pleasant Prairie are talking of building a new church in the near future, the school house having become inadequate to accommodate the audiences.

The concert given by the Chicago Concert Trio at the Christian church Wednesday evening was the best of its kind ever given in Inavale. Everybody who attended was pleased.

Presiding Elder N. A. Martin held the second quarterly conference on the Inavale charge at Everett Bean's Monday afternoon. He also preached at Inavale in the evening. Those who failed to hear him missed a rare treat.

Some of the sports went to Riverton on Saturday and brought home a quantity of liquor which they distributed quite freely on Sunday and made the day hideous with a drunken brawl. Not satisfied with drinking themselves they tried to force young boys to drink. It is about time that these fellows should be taught that such things will not be tolerated in a civilized community. When men become so depraved that they can find pleasure only in drunken revelry they should at least be satisfied to let decent folks alone, and not parade their shame in the street on the Sabbath day, to disturb the peace of those who desire to make better use of it.
